Marian's theatre season looks promising

by Matt McGreal

Auditions were held last week for the season's first play "How the Other Farce About Modern Love." Written by British playwright Allen Ayborn, this story takes place in overlapping living rooms, and reveals the irony and humor behind today's relationships. The theater department's own Dr. Jack Selden will be directing the production which will play in Peine Theater in Fisher Hall October 11-14. All plays are free to all students. The theater department encourages everyone to come out and enjoy the fine productions. If anyone would like to offer any assistance to a production please contact someone in the department. Users, Artists and stagecraft assistants are only a few of the needs. The remainder of the season will bring these fine productions to the Marian Campus: Charlotte Web Dec. 4-8. Director-David Ratts One Act Miss Marymess Rh. 27-Mar. 1. Director-Bernie Killiam Musical Director-Gara Reid Choreographer-Craig Calloway Antigone Apr. 23-26. Director-Miki Mathioudakis Ms. Mathioudakis plans to take the final production on tour to Crete Greece this summer. This year's lineup holds great promise, and the lead role is that of the Marian students. Come out and watch. Front row or backdrop, it will be a great year.

Marian welcomes new faculty members

by Krisay Aoi

For the 91-92 academic year, Marian has added 18 new faculty and staff members, including the new dean for academic affairs. Louis Friedman, O.S.P., Ph.D. Sister Louis, who is a member of the Sisters of St. Francis of Dubuque, Iowa, obtained her master's degree and doctorate in English from Purdue University. She has taught college English and writing courses at several institutions and has held many administrative positions. Her most recent position was at Peysettville State College as Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs.

A former graduate of Marian, Ann Beckett, R.N., B.S.N., is the new Nursing Lab Manager and Lecturer in Nursing. Ann has served as Clinical Instructor in Pediatrics at Marian and has held positions at Saint Vincent Hospital and Dearborn County Hospital. Ann is continuing with her master's degree at Indiana University-Purdue University in Indianapolis with a focus on the Nursing of Adults with Biodeterioration.

Kelly Buck, R.N., M.S.N., is the new Assistant Professor of Nursing for the Associate Nursing program. Kelly obtained her M.S.N. in Adult Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing from Indiana University. She was formerly Staff Development Coordinator at St. Vincent Stress Reduction Program.

Laurel Camp, the new Assistant Professor of Psychology, shows a doctorate in Experimental Psychology from the University of Colorado. She has taught at the University of Colorado in Boulder, Mankato State University of Minnesota, and Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minnesota.

The new instructor in Theology is Michael Clark, who has a master's from Boston College and is presently writing his doctoral dissertation. Michael formerly taught at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., and was a teaching assistant at Boston College. Before that he previously taught high school at Sts. Peter and Paul High School in St. Thomas, Virigin Islands.

Brett Cope, the new Assistant Professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletic Training, received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from Indiana University. Formerly at the Center for Hip and Knee Surgery in Mooreville, In., Brett had also been an Athletic Trainer for Brownburg and Ben Davis High Schools.

Joseph Dell Aquila, the Associate Professor of Physics and Chairperson of the Chemistry/Physics Department, recently was Scientific Consultant for IAQ Products, Inc. in Rockland, Mass. Joseph, who holds a doctorate in Physics, has taught at Louisiana Scholars' College at Northwest.

State Board of Education approves new program for Marian

On September 5th, the Indiana State Board of Education approved a new program in Mild Disabilities for the Education Department. This program allows students majoring in early childhood, elementary education, or one of the secondary education areas to add certification in Mild Disabilities to their license, thereby preparing them to teach children who are mildly mentally handicapped or learning disabled students. According to Joyce Johnstone, chairman of the Education Department, "More and more children with mild disabilities are mainstreamed into the regular classroom, and our graduates who have this minor will be better prepared to meet the needs of these children in their classrooms. Students earned this minor can also serve as special education teachers for either mildly mentally handicapped or learning disabled students, or serve as a resource teacher in the school system." Interested students should contact the Education Department.

Faith Bauer-Tonich, the new Systems Analyst/Programmer, received her bachelor's degree in business administration and her master's degree from Ohio State University. She worked at Tech College where she directed the implementation of their fully integrated computer system. The new director of Clark Hall is Natalie Cochran, who has a bachelor's degree from Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis. Natalie is enrolled in the College Student Personnel graduate program at IUPUI. Kelly F. Griffith, the new Assistant Librarian, received her bachelor's degree in biology from Marian and her master's degree in Library Science from Indiana University. Kelly will assist in bibliographic instruction, reference service, and circulation.

Michael Pankey, the new Resident Director of Doyle Hall, has recently graduated with a bachelor's degree from DePauw University. In the past, Michael has served as a University Peer Counselor and as Freshman Mentor. St. Francis Hall's new Resident Director is Timothy Peraino, a graduate of Alma College in Michigan. Tim, who holds his bachelor's degree, will also be working part-time in the Athletic Department.

Melissa Skelton, a Marian College graduate, is the new Coordinator of the Student Advising/Minor Program for the Business Department. Melissa began her position in January, 1991.

I am a commuter student. Contrary to popular belief, or at least the way it seems, some commuters, like myself, depend on the various vending machines scattered along campus as a means to make it through the day. Unfortunately however, I do not look forward to actually paying money to receive candy that is anything but edible. I am not quite sure who is responsible for who one could complain to in order to get some results (my letter to the Carbon last year on this very subject obviously was unnoticed). I've used the machines three times this year. The first time, I got a bag of M & M's that literally looked as though they were stepped on. The second time, I ended up with arupted Payday bar. This was most frustrating since I had to track across campus just to find change (the machine rejected my quarters). The last time I was disgusted to discover that my Raisinettes were... well, let's just say that state would be an understatement. They certainly were not meant for human consumption and therefore ended up in the trash. The reason I don't just eat at the cafeteria is all too obvious and fast food is too expensive to consume on a daily basis. So, when I am forced to re­main campus for the extended periods of time, I would like to be able to have a temporary snack to hold me over until I can get some REAL food.

A hungry commuter

Germany comes to Marian
by Holly Criss

The average American may never encounter a person from another country, unless either they live in a large city like New York or attend school with that person. Indianapolis is not an extremely large city like New York but we do get our fair share of those from other countries. One of the places you might run into someone from another country is right here at Marian.

Marian College is a host school for students from all over the world such as Istanbul, Saudi Arabia, Finland, and Morocco. The majority of our international students come from the Middle East, Central America, and Africa. We even have a student from Germany.

Her name is Cordula Kroeger and she is a sixteen year old Freshman from Lich, Germany, which is a small town near Frankfurt. Some people may think that someone her age is too young to be in college unless they are some kind of genius. Cordy is an exception. In Germany, the students attend school for thirteen years instead of twelve like we do in the U.S. For Cordy to be able to attend the university of her choice when she returns to Germany in about two years, she has to skip a year of school at home then her two years at Marian will be the end of her thirteen years of education. When asked about tape recording some of her classes she replied, "I only record global studies and algebra. I do not need to record basic English and French."

Cordy first came to Indianapolis when her father, who works for Eli Lilly, was transferred here from Germany. She was allowed to make the decision of which college in the city to attend. "My parents did go around and look at IUPUI, Butler and Marian. They told me that Marian had the friendliest people and the best curriculum. "Although Cordy does not have a major at Marian, she does have some interest in the future to possibly study languages or teach children with speech impediments. I also asked Cordy a little about her family. She has two sisters: Susanne, 19 and Annette, 11.

Cordy is always interested in meeting new people so if you cross paths with her all you have to do is look her way and more than likely she will say "hi" and smile.

Blue and gold hit it off
by Kristi Burleson

The Men's baseball team hit off their intrasquad season with three double headers. The Gold team, made up of Seniors and Freshmen, has won four games. Coach Brett Shambaugh hopes to improve last year's record of 35-33 with a very positive aspiration that they can win the District 21 Championship this year. While Coach Shambaugh says it is too early to see how much talent the team has, he expects a lot of leadership and support from his two Seniors, James "Stick" Pratt and Jeff Lyons. He states that his returning Juniors and Sophomores are strong and he is pleased with the recruiting decisions that were made with the incoming Freshmen. "We were looking for a stable group," states Coach Shambaugh; and so far he has "nothing bad to say."

Another project that's in the works is a project sponsored by the Language Center. The class will set up to one hour, once a week conversation between the ELS students and Marian students. This is very important for the ELS students because they want to learn all of the latest slang that Americans speak. It makes them feel more American and they can take it back home to their friends. But going home is a long way away.

Most of the students like Yeo-mi Lee, 21, and Yoko Ishida, 20, are college-bound. Yeo-mi Lee is from Korea and is here studying English so she will be able to continue here with the teacher. We have a lot more freedom. So we should take advantage of our freedom. Let's begin to learn with ELS students and learn what their culture is like and how they live, as well as learning a second language.

JUST DO IT!

The women's volleyball team is looking strong as they go into the 1991-92 season. Seniors Angie Heitz, Jody Yonis, Mary Watkins, and Donna Wetzler lead as returning players along with Junior Gina Kunz and Sophomore Stephanie Taylor, Ginger Klink, and Three Coffee hours are set aside for Foreign Freshmen, Teri Quackenbush, Becky MacRae, and Becky Haugherty will join those returning players this year hoping to help improve last year's 11-14 record. Coach Molly (Tintori) Jones states that the team's overall goal is to win Conference. Their biggest obstacle will be Huntington, their chief rival.

"I think this group can do it," says Coach Jones with confidence that her four seniors who played together consistently for the past two years will use their experience to help pull the team through.

My part-time job is a lot more than just work."

"When I first heard that UPS had part-time jobs for students, I figured a job is a job. WRONG! For working about four hours a day in Operations, I could make almost $10,000 a year. Before I could blink, they threw in other great benefits like..."

- paid holidays
- paid vacations
- medical coverage

...I was speechless! But they went right on talking about my promotion opportunities and college loans. They said I could even pick my schedule! Mornings or evenings — whichever I wanted. Plenty of time to study — and I can keep my weekends free. That nailed it!"

"It's not like UPS is doing more for me, it's like they can't do enough for me. That's my kind of company!"
