Open Letter to Students

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of myself and the entire Student Board, to welcome all of you students back to Marian.

As the freshmen may remember, I referred in an earlier letter to one basic objective of the Student Board—that of making college life a growing experience and a well-rounded proposition. Well, it is true, many of you, freshmen and upperclassmen alike, feel as though we knew her at the end of the first week, and to just have a great time. Everyone here is so friendly that I feel like I have known them all my life.

invitations, three of you are a chapter or two ahead.

These, my friends, are the wise ones. They know the importance of time and how to budget it well. It is one of the riddles of the ages whose answer we wish we could discover, but we'll have to find it first.

Time is a very relative thing; man’s whole life is measured by it and geared to it. For some it seems too short; for some it’s not short enough; but we'll have to find it first.

Redefined Orientation Program, Initiation Welcome Freshmen

A redefined orientation program in conjunction with the annual initiations familiarized this year’s freshmen with college life and welcomed them to Marian.

After studying former procedures, members of the Student Board launched an expanded orientation program. It began in the summer with letters to incoming freshmen from upperclassmen and first-year professors and tours. The first week of school activities for the freshmen opened on Sunday afternoon with a session conducted by the Board members. That evening the freshmen were honored with a buffet dinner followed by a bonfire. Highlights during the week included an administrative meeting introducing members of the faculty and initiations.

Climaxing the initiation week was the Queen’s Banquet at which freshmen became full-fledged members of the student body during a unique awards ceremony.

With few exceptions, the freshmen enjoyed the new program and felt that it was successful in accomplishing its task of acquainting the freshmen with the faculty and students in a more logical order in the grouping of various offices in the administration building. Changes were effected not for the purpose of more logical office grouping but for the purpose of creating a more logical handling of all incoming mail and for clarity of the system.

The Student Board is looking toward the formulation of a unique academic calendar, "Auto-Call." Through this system, each faculty member is assigned a signal composed of bell-like tones arranged in a distinct pattern of tones . . .

In summary, my friends, though some may feel a personal dislike for the person, this was not the object of the orientation program. Well, I would like to reiterate to all the students of Marian this same objective. Now, to me, this can be done only by creating a Marian atmosphere that will stimulate intellectual, social and spiritual growth. In order to do this we must be aware of your needs, and the only way that we will ever really recognize your needs is if you tell us.

I would like to say, too, that the Student Board needs you to be interested in—I mean as the Board will be interested in you and your needs. My hope is that as many people as possible will co-operate with the Student Board in making this a very good year for Marian.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

As many of the upperclassmen have probably discovered, there have been numerous changes in the location of various offices, departments and offices. Contrary to prevalent opinion, these changes were not effected for the purpose of creating a more logical office grouping but for the purpose of creating a more logical handling of all incoming mail and for clarity of the system; e.g., all faculty members of the history department have their offices in Room 102, the offices of the business department have their offices in Room 211; languages offices are located for the first time on the second floor.

The seminar room has been moved from Room 212 to 214; business administration offices are now in Room 215; the new private student conference room, the faculty committee room is located opposite Monsignor Doyle’s office near the chapel entrance, in Room 102.

By way of explanation to the freshmen (and to one certain new part-time instructor who finds himself in first week’s conflicting systems of bells confusing), if you hear a series of bell-like tones and it is neither time for the beginning or for the end, and if no one jumps up and beginning her questions and checking "First?" and if it’s not time for the Good Humor truck, then chances are that you are hearing the rather complex calling system, "Auto-Call." Through this system, your friends who find Marian’s and Park School’s chapel entrance, in Room 102.

Another welcome innovation is that of the calling system, "Auto-Call." Through this system, your friends who find Marian’s and Park School’s chapel entrance, in Room 102.

Men Move Into New Residence

In 1964, Marian College officially occupied male students for the first time. This year, a decade later, the Marion campus first accepted male residents. The establishment of the Men's Dorm marked the greatest step to date in Marion's development since the school became coeducational. From now on, the men of Marian will have to take a great deal of interest in campus affairs.

The Men's Dorm Hall, as yet unnamed, is a trim, three-story building in the Googie style, equipped with modern facilities. Single and double rooms, for a capacity of seven residents, are furnished with a bed, desk, dresser, bookcase and a chair for each student. The resident lounge, where students can meet and talk, is equipped with a television and a good table. An area of the lounge is reserved for visitors.

Of the 50 students staying in the dorm this year, two are freshmen. Upperclassmen include 12 sophomores, 8 juniors, and 8 seniors.

Geographically, Indiana has the largest representation with 34; Illinois, Ohio, 4; Pennsylvania, 3; New York, 2; New Jersey, 2; and Massachusetts, 1.

The government of the dorm is under a Board of Directors, composed of 6 residents. The present members were appointed by the dean and are expected to draw up a constitution and present it to the next year's dorm residents.

The men's residence is a new form of democratic concern. For the freshmen, it is one phase of the unfamiliar college routine. For upperclassmen, it is the great freedom in campus life. It is the program of a new dorm on the campus. By the time of their graduation, all the interested residents will be able to form their own campus residence hall and effectively into an integral part of Marian College.

Visiting UN Representative
Describes Birth Pangs of Emerging Territories

“Communists are far afield in the United States than they are in Africa,” declared Mr. Godfrey Amachree, recent graduate of the United Nations Secretariat, during a speech delivered at Marian, Thursday, May 8.

Marian Interns
Successful in New Countries

Mr. Amachree traced the history of the non-independent nations since the founding of the U.N. From 1945 to 1955, no nation gained sovereign status during the following forty-two years, only twenty countries became self-governing. As of 1954, only sixteen territories under U.N. jurisdiction are lacking autonomy.

Criticism of new African nations was given special attention. Instead of fighting to establish independent states, the delegates insisted that African countries only profit when a threat to liberty is involved. The change of Communist infiltration of African states is a sign of war against any Communist party in African states,” said Mr. Amachree.

Jockeys Display Talent In Victory Over Bears

by Jim Nalley

The fall semester at Marian brings with it studies, hayrides, parties, and Intramural football. With the season only two weeks old, Sunday, Oct. 4, saw what might have been the climax of the entire season. The Bears, who boasted of size, power, and speed, were picked by many as the team to unseat the defending champions, the Jockeys. But the speedy Gaffneeners were functioning like a well-oiled machine and routed the Bears 26-6.

Other games that day saw the Lump-Lumps defeat the Cutoffs 14-7. The annual Red Cross awards was presented to Coach Reynolds as in Sister M. Adelaide, O.S.F., and Red Cross Chapter for their labors.
