President's Message

For the past several years statistics have been warning of the tidal wave of students which is likely to double the number of American college students during the next decade. Educators have been studying and planning so that in spite of this increase every qualified young man and woman will have the opportunity to obtain an education not the least diminished in quality. But the pressure of numbers and the limitations of space and personnel makes it essential for those who are thinking of entering college to have the opportunity to obtain an education of the highest quality. The result of this is that admission procedures are more rigid and that harder work is required of them. At this time you yourself are as qualified to begin your college career as any student who has qualified by taking a standardized test accounting.

You are men, fully human.

The Phoenix, sister publication of the Courier, is no accident that you would associate the 1958-59 academic year with the rise of the Negro movement. However, this is not a Negro newspaper with a Negro viewpoint. It is a newspaper for all political and social points of view.

What are areas of student control and in which areas should the student government control and in which areas should it not go? Neither road is advisable.

We hope the passage of time proves our goodwill scholarship granted by Marian in 1950.
