Christmas Assembly Features Tableau, Play

Annual Staff Plans Fall Issue; Students Asked to Order Early

The Marian, hampered in the first two years of publication by financial limitations, will again appear in 1958. Planning for fall distribution, the annual staff will take advantage of summer printing discounts.

Alice Bonvillain, editor, has asked that all students place their order before the second semester. Price of the annual is $5.

The editorial staff are Margaret Dunkin, Lenore Defoor, and Jana Januschki.

Business manager, Nancy Heist, and circulation manager, Susie Eckenstein, will have as their combined staff: Mary Agnes Milhelm, Delores Jones, Joan Kitchell, Marilyn McGlinchey, Dick Michels, Bill Brady, Joe Horta, Sheila McGinnis, Edita Wukichspoon and Denny Woelfle.

As an encouraging number of ambitious students have been attending organizational meetings during the past few weeks.

Co-Editors Named

Marillys Buck and Gene Hunsager will serve as co-editors. Also on the editorial staff are Margaret Dunkin, Lenore Defoor, and Jana Januschki.

Ensemble, Carolers Tour City Institutions; Entertain Archbishop

Advent and Christmas caroling in the chief seasonal activity of the campus unit of the National Catholic Music Educators Association. Accompanied by an instrumental group, the carolers will climax their tour of city institutions with a program at the Archdiocese’s residence.

Under the chairmanship of Mary Ann Lindeman, 27 members of this group also recently entertained at Marydale girls’ school with a program of vocal and instrumental music and folk dancing. Following a demonstration of the Bulgarian “Tropanka” and the Russian “Troika,” Marydale student joined in the folk dancing and a community sing.

The girls are making and selling Christmas corsages, pins, and earrings to raise funds for the club.

‘Dust of the Road’ Will Follow Nativity Scene in Annual Program

Mary Jo Keller, as the 1957 Christmas madonna, will be featured in the Nativity tableau at the Dec. 19 assembly. The Madonna, with angels Jane Davis, Mary Lou Struter, and Barbara Carroll, will be joined by Lenore Defoor and Anthony Vago in cap and gown, representing the student body.

Also at the assembly will be a one-act play by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman entitled “Dust of the Road.” Gerry McAnerney, Nancy Heinkell, Bill Fisher and Robert Kistner are cast in the story which depicts a Midwestern farmer’s Christmas in the 1870’s.

A mysterious visitor arrives at the farmer’s home on Christmas eve and tries to persuade him to return some illegally-held money.

The identity of this visitor is not revealed at first, but his strange mission and the unusual reason for it make an appropriate seasonal story.

The program will be followed by the singing of traditional Christmas carols.

Frosh Choose Theme for January Dance

“Carnival of Venice” is the theme of the freshman semi-formal dance to be held Friday, Jan. 10, in the lounge.

Music will be provided by Dan McGourn’s band from 9 to 11:30.

Donna Waldron, social chairman, is in charge of arrangements. Committee chairman are: Kay Warren, entertainment; Shirley Bill, refreshments; Paul Page, decorations; Tom McKinley, publicity; and Norbert Codman, clean-up.

Tickets at $1.50 per couple, may be obtained from Jean Maxim, Dona Waldron, Tom McKinley, Bill Daly, Tim Kelly, Tom Schott, and Mike O’Connor.

Wise Men

“Wisdom of Wise Men” becomes a key phrase this Christmas season. The evangelist repeatedly designates these three worshipers of the Infant-God as “wise men” and it seems safe to conclude that they were students. Their study did not limit itself to knowledge only, but was blessed with a wisdom that led them to seek God in His creation, and to subject their minds and wills to His direction.

They recognized His power—that power which had spilled the stars and planets into space and sent them whirling along their unerring courses through the vastness of space. They acknowledged His wisdom which led them, obedient, questioning only for Him, along the course of one of His satellites. They were “wise men”—wise enough to follow a path to God, even though it led to submission, obedience, and humility.

The Christian student must have a similar thirst for knowledge, zealous to discover and understand the secrets God has placed in nature. But, more important, he must strive to have the wisdom of the true scholar which, like that of the wise men, follows the direction of God as it leads to the discovery of truth. That truth may demand faith, submission and humility, because it discloses GOD—the God of power and wisdom; but the God, too, known only to the wise—the loving God of the manger.

—Sister Mary Olivia, Dean
What Is This Thing Called Spirit?

The entire school suffers when there is a lack of that intangible, necessary "called school spirit." It is intangible—though when it's present you can "feel" it in the air. And it is necessary—though you might acquire a great deal of the air without experiencing its warmth.

As has been brought out recently, students from all four classes have been trying to find that obvious lack of such a spirit at Marian.

If it is any consolation to those who have noticed such a lack, it seems to be a common ailment at a great many colleges.

Reading the Xavier (Cincinnati) University News, we find an editorial concerning "a general apathetic attitude as the part of the Xavier student body...a general lack of interest..." (5) can, and will ruin any chance the students may have for making this university better for our successors... (it) is harder to fight and work with than a contrary attitude."

The Dayton (University) Flyer reports that weeks of devoted efforts were spent trying to find the needed number of students to make a bus excursion to a football game. Finally 42 students showed an interest. Thirty-seven went. Number of students at Dayton—3,368.

Should Catholic Schools Seek Aid?

In this day of controversy over educational aid, Catholic schools in the United States, one instinctively looks at the situation in other nations.

Not all American Catholics have been among the larger nations in providing a school system totally independent of governmental support.

Catholic schools in England, Belgium, France, Germany, Spain, and South Africa have been aided at least indirectly by subsidizations. One by one, however, those countries are feeling the financial squeeze as their governments abdicate, decrease, or refuse to increase support proportionate to the needs of growth.

As of January the South African hierarchy are preparing to "go it alone" classification as government aid to be terminated at that time. Americans can well sympathize with this new financial burden and put them in the back of refusing to drop the Catholic schools as the government-supported.

Semi-Formal Dances...

Now is the time for action. Already Marian women are looking plottatively at signs advertising the frosh semi-formal not knowing what to do.

How long, students of Marian, will our women be left unsure of whether they should go to each individual to participate.

There is enough to be done at Marian in organizations and class projects so that everyone can participate. When numbers work together in organizations, along semi-formal, and soon the whole school feels its unifying effect.

Do not complain about Marian not giving you school spirit when you can help give it to Marian.

What are you doing for Marian College?

Sympathy

Family and students extend sympathy to Mr. Barnes and to Sara Strand on the death of their fathers, and to Lois Hamborg on the death of her mother.

Prayers are also being offered for Mrs. Nellie C. Cole, of Indianapolis, a charter member of the Marian Guild and a Marian College Associate, who died recently.

Point of View

Modern Observation of Christmas

Contrasts Sharply With Real Meaning

By Bernard Dever

Can you just imagine what it would be like to go home on your birthday and find that there is a big party, with everyone celebrating and having a good time? And when you go in to take your place at the head of the table, you find that everyone completely ignores you as though you never existed. You can only sit there in the corner while everyone else has a good time.

Well, that must be how Jesus feels at this Christmas time. The fact that they've been rushing about shopping, going to school parties, and trying to get a good start on that term paper. Art is the real activity that is producing the spirit. We think it might last even long after Christmas.

The weeks to come promise to be just as crowded! As Bernard Dever remarked the other day, "It usually takes me a week or two of school to recuperate from vacations."

But as you come finals, which we students know were invented by recapturing professors so they wouldn't have to teach for a week.

In this holiday season, remember the fact that Christmas is almost here. And usually men, women, children, and students forget their troubles for at least a little while, and give their minds to the Christmas Spirit of a Child who came to die for us.

In the days ahead, as we celebrate His birth, it will be difficult to forget the heavy problems of our world. But remembering why He came, we know our biggest problem is solved.

The Phoenix wishes you a very happy Christmas.

Art Relaxes Tension

Gives Emotional Outlet

by Carol Galus

Art is for everyone—for those who can draw, as well as for those who can't. If you can't draw don't let that trouble you. Painting, drawing, or ceramics serve not only as hobbies; they also provide relief for the emotions. It has often been said that a person sometimes "gets a lot of steam out of" when he is angry. I don't suggest that you lose your temper to do a work of art; but if you do, how do we know the paintings you create aren't a type of occupational therapy? It relaxes your mind because you are completely occupied with what you are doing.

Art in your life can be a pleasure and save you money, too. Do you like to create art; as well as do the children in your classes. It is not expensive; you can make enough to last you all your life. You don't have to be able to draw. You can make as many cards as you like and send them to all your friends.

Perhaps you like to dabble in clay. This is an interesting hobby. Just think! Most people have to buy their knick-knacks; you can make your own! And would you like to know someone who made and designed a set of dishes? Why, that's more fun than you think.

Art is a talent that has been possessed since the beginning of time, and it is likely to be that it is one of the things that you always wanted to do. In the days ahead, as we celebrate Christmas, remember why He came, we know our biggest problem is solved.

Business Major Scores as Manager; Veteran Cheerleader Deals in Yells

By Lenore

Back in 1954 a nightly bus had graduated from Fenwick High School in Middletown, Ohio. Ronnie Brown, a varsity halfback on the football team, president of the CYO, prom king, and in his senior year, the recipient of an Americanism award.

Ronnie, now a junior at Mari-ven, majoring in accounting, is still busy as an assistant manager of the college coffeehouse.

At this year's S adie Hawkins dance his costume won a first prize. It is a devilishly clever arrangement of a kitchen theme with miniature pots and pans. "It fit in well with my job in the cafe," said Ronnie.

"I don't have what you'd call a pet peeve," commented Ronnie, "but I do have plenty of likes. Fried chicken is one of the biggest of these, and of course I'm still quite a sports fan."

Someone once asked Ronnie what he'd do with a million dollars. "Well, I have about a million dollars, but I do have plenty of likes. Fried chicken is one of the biggest of these, and of course I'm still quite a sports fan."

After graduation Ronnie expects to go into service. From there he wants to return to Middletown and accept whatever opportunities await him in the accounting field.

Miracle of Marcelino Appears In Special Benefit Performance

Sign magazine's "movie of the year," The Miracle of Mar-celino, offers a rare chance to have a fine show of Handel's Mikado at the S-B Theater in Indianapolis, Dec. 26 through Jan. 4. Proceeds from the advance ticket sale will provide a scholarship fund for teachers in special education of retarded children in Indiana.

A dance and a host of other personages. Among the many uses of the pottery wheel. Pottery, Glassware, Mosaics, Enamel Present New Media to Art Students

Pottery, mosaics and various forms of ceramic sculpture now dot the art department as the new ceramics class nears the end of its first semester at Marian.

Under the direction of Sister Mary Dolitora, the class is learning the skills of making tiles and mosaics, glass work, copper and metal enameling, besides several forms of ceramic glazes.

Library Increases Number of Volumes In Various Fields

About 100 books covering a wide variety of interests have been added to the shelves of Min-diana Hall.

Among the periodicals, there have been added the titles of Bluebonnet, a history of philosophy, and would like to take a trip to Hawaii after that. But if I lived like Baruch would get a lot of shooting in before then as she jumped up to find another chemist.

"That's different, and very interesting," comments class member Sally Dwyer. "You don't draw, and Baruch likes the look of ceramics in a crucible. The creature is alive."

Three Students Plan Organ Concert Jan. 19

A joint organ concert will be given in the chapel at 12:30 p.m. by Leonora Adam, Mary Catherine Wetzel, and Rita Marie Dubois on Sunday, Jan. 19, at 1:00 p.m.

The program will include selections of Gregorian, South, Guild, Lumens, Dwellman, and Dubois.
