Benedictine Prior to Conduct Retreat For Marian College Students March 7-8

The annual retreat for Marian students to be conducted by the Rev. Fr. Francis Kemph, O.S.B., at St. Meinrad, Ind., is scheduled for March 7 and 8. It will open appropriately on the Feast of the Holy Cross, patron of scholars. High Mass, at which the college choir and scholastic choir will sing, will be celebrated on both days.

Father St. Meinrad, chiefly through his meditative poems and the gospel movies series, is inviting participation of the college choir and University Department of Music in the feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, March 7-8. The program is under the auspices of the National Catholic Educational Association, Colleague and University Department of American Affairs. The college has had just one regular meeting—that held at Notre Dame University, Dec. 9-10. The Rev. W. F. Cunningham, C.S.C., faculty advisor, has headed the committee.

Casting for production of "The Romanesque," three-act comedy by Edmund Rostand, is now in progress at Marian College. "The Romanesque" is the translated version of the original script is being supplemented by soliloquies and stage directions.

Edmund Rostand, 1868-1918, is considered by many critics the leading dramatist of the late Victorian and early, modern French theatre. "The Romanesque" is a comedy of manners, a study of the superficial and the real, the romantic and the realistic. The plot is a study of the upper class, the middle class, and the working class. The characters range from the Duke of Castile to the street urchin. The play is an satire on the conventions of society, and is a study of human nature.

Monsignor Pinto's December lecture laid the foundation for the coming panel discussion.

Reading Survey Points to Trends

A survey, conducted informally on campus to determine the extent of Catholic reading, brought responses from 119 students. Sixty-three of these students read Catholic literature regularly; the others, just occasionally. Yet 104 of them have this literature entering their homes.

Congratulations

"Congratulations!" "How wonderful!" "Good man!" "Monsignor Doyle!" On the morning of Feb. 9 students were expressing their pride and happiness in the honor bestowed on Marian's chaplainfortawesome and prudence in his elevation to the rank of Monsignor.

Through this distinction Monsignor Doyle becomes one of the "familiares summi pontifici," belonging to it, as to the family and retinue of the Holy Father.

In so far as the new dignity means closer contact with the View of Christ, it means a wider sphere of influence for a bishop. Through it, the Holy Church becomes the universal Church, which is the dominant theme of the Monsignor's exhortation and of his own living.

They have arranged, however, to assist the literate peoples and peoples of the former Axis satellite territory, through a central commission consisting of supreme commanders of the three powers plus one of their own choosing.

We're having a spiritual party; do come. A good morning, Monsignor Doyle! The romantic spirit of Valentine's Day was emphasized by a game called "Romantic Couples." Rendezvous With Peace

The United States, Great Britain, and Russia, through their chief executives, have designed a co-operative attitude toward the accomplishment of a just and enduring peace. If the United Nations were to be a genuine community, they have agreed on common policies for enforcing terms of unconditional surrender, and they have provided for a co-ordinated administration of Nazi territory, through a central commission consisting of supreme commanders of the three powers plus one of their own choosing.

St. Michael Poster Stimulates V-P nearer

New poster on the main bulletin board of Marian Hall is a cogent reminder to Invoke St. Michael the Archangel's protection for Catholic education.

St. Michael accuses Satan, who has arrayed himself against the human race as well as against the Catholic Church.

For them we ask first for a victory over human enemies; for ourselves, a victory over spiritual foes.

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle.

Post-war Issues, Topic of Meeting

Trends in post-war international relations was the theme of Monsignor Doyle's talk to faculty and students, Feb. 2.

After an introductory comment on the shifting of public sentiment in favor of an international association since World War I, he outlined and interpreted the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

The four major departments in the proposed scheme of world government, the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Court of Justice and the Secretariat, were clearly set forth and their specific functions analyzed.

Concluding the discussion, Monsignor stated that since perfection cannot be expected in the prospective international set-up, we must make the best possible compromisme.

Beauty in Graceful Drapery of Blouse

The graceful drapery of monks' robes inspired this costume of white rayon jersey. Full gathered from a deep, shoulder-blower yoke, the skirt, diamond-shaped pieces of fabric are set into the underarm sections. Blouses similar to this one and many other patterns for dressy and less gardening), which, under government direction, is rapidly being supplied fresh vegetables to the inhabitants of barren countries and to soldiers in war areas.

The roll of drums from the orchestra brought guests and hostesses to Madame Hall. Although there were no formal disagreements on favorite musical selections, style of dancing varied with the social status of the ladies. Acts of the country were represented, the last leading.

New micro-worlds are opening before members of the biology classes through the medium of the see-o-scope. Recently they explored the innermost secrets of round worms and flat worms.

Mary Louise Allen and Ida Rose Spalding have put the see-o-scope to work in micro-photography. Pictures of the ovary of a guinea pig, the tongue and a leg of a hamster, and a cross-section of a hickory twig, were explored through the medium of Microscopic World.

BOWLING BEGINS

Bowlers have been divided into teams of four, and each team will have the opportunity of bowling every third Tuesday.

Since members joined in order to perfect their game, the object of the meetings is instructive rather than competitive. There will be no league competition.
