LITERATURE FOR THE ILLITERATE

The lonliness of an empty mailbox is something I desire not.
No letters, no mail,
not one little word.
Oh, well- I can't read anyway.

TO RATHER REMAIN...

Boycott the Carbon!? Boycott the Carbon, you say, Mr. R. R. Anonymous? What are you -- illiterate, or just plain stupid? My God, man, don't you see that you've done? You've exposed yourself to the college community as the unthinking, irresponsible child you are. You. anonymity cannot remain intact forever. We can spot the chinks in your armor. Just the fact that you're illiterate points to the likelihood that you're a phsy-ed major. If not, your moronic impulses make it probable that you're in business. Whichever it is, it's obvious you're not in touch with the real world.

We here at college thrive on this illusion of intellectual stimulation and growth, and for such a fool as you to come out and start whining and moaning about the "Applauds and hisses" not being present in your precious Carbon, well, it makes me--for one--want to do a delicate dissection of your brain with a steam-shovel. If you have one, of course. Observation leads me to suspect that it might be a little hard to find in the first place.

Where do you get off anyway? Who told you that most of the students around here pick up the Carbon just so they can give themselves a cheap orgasmic thrill by seeing their name or some secret message in an endless list of other equally useless and mysteriously meaningless names and messages. Some of us have more important things to do than to constantly slip ridiculously small scraps of paper under the door of the Carbon office late at night, testifying of our latest love or of something else of general widespread interest.

Sure this is a student newspaper. This has been obvious to us for a long time, but since you seem to be a late bloomer, I won't get on you for that slip. However, this is a STUDENT CONTRIBUTION, in contrast to those inane piles of insipid garbage you seem to relish for your own digestion. Personally, I think the Carbon has only reached its height once or twice this year -- and each time there were no Applauds, hisses or Confidentials. Just between you and me, confidentially, you understand, I applaud your contribution of last week, but I hiss its purpose.

Vindictively,
Nicholas Pendance

III-gotten treasures profit nothing, but virtue saves from death. The Lord permits not the just to hunger, but the craving of the wicked he thwart's. The slack hand impoverishes, but the hand of the diligent enriches. Blessings for the head of the just, but a rod for the back of the fool.

This thank you note could get very sentimental: I'm remembering the eight days before Easter when yearbook staffers and their friends (and families) played "Easter Bunny and Bunny Helpers", making many children very happy.

Our goal was to make money for our ailing yearbook account by helping Tiffany Studios get "kiddie pictures" with the Easter Bunny. We realized that goal and, in the meanwhile, shared new insights, fresh experiences and a lot of joy.

So, thank you Easter bunnies and helpers and Tiffany Studio. Your spirit and generosity are remarkable.

THANK YOU

On behalf of Tiffany Photography Studio I wish to sincerely thank the Marian students who assisted me in the Easter Bunny Promotion at Lafayette Square. The project was very successful and could not have been accomplished without your enthusiasm, sacrifice, and hard work. It was a well coordinated team effort.

I was extremely proud of all those I worked with and I clearly know that we all benefited from the experience.

Again, my profound appreciation and perhaps our paths will cross again.

OPINION

The residence and meal contract sheets were punctually slid into our mail boxes once again. As expected and is always the case, the administration was reluctantly forced to raise the fees. Year in and year out we end up paying more, but to whose benefit? We sow the dough but not generally reap the "heap" of benefits. The service is the same; certainly it's good to "maintain" standards but standard maintenance is what we are looking for - both in the caf and in the dorms. The beginning of this academic year saw some improvements in residence halls, but it lacked momentum and enthusiasm. The situation in the caf was disappointing.

The mail service at Clare is very dependable, but Doyle needs organization. The security system both in and around campus, especially during short breaks, need to be strengthened instead of being preoccupied issuing parking tickets.

It is efficiency that the students are looking for. When an organization wraps the increase of costs in a blanket of inflation, it certainly should not forget to put the extra money charged to good use - to the benefit of the students.

I would also like to mention the surprise we had at the caf when most of the students decided to spend the Easter weekend at their homes. They were lucky, but those who stayed behind were requested to pay for their meals. This is my opinion is unfair. Hope the administration will look into this matter responsibly and responsibly.

Thank you,

NEEL

VICTORY

Thank the powers that be that they were able to quash those bloodthirsty insurgents, the Free Rad icals. Such a threat as they posed to the college community has seldom been seen since the rabid riots of the late '60's. And the masterful way in which it was done! The old "divide and conquer" maxim. It just goes to show the power the proper authorities wield. Why, if you weren't aware there was indeed a conspiracy afoot just a few short weeks ago, then there's no way you could be expected to know that that same ugly uprising has been strangled in its tracks.

A number of people have attempted to congrat­ulate me on my foresight and courage to sound the alarms. This embarrasses me and I here publicly disclaim any undeserved credit. I just did what had to be done. Unfortunately, however, after the appearance of my appeal, my car's motor was entir­ely dismantled and placed in the driver's seat wit a note attached to the disembodied carburetor sta ting that the same process could be applied to the human body. I believe someone is trying to fright­en me. It won't work. My bodyguards have assure me that the German shepherds are loyal.
