NEWS (CONTINUED)

Iraq/Iran - Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai is calling his country’s conflict with Iraq a “holy war” claiming “it is between Islam and blasphemy.”

The Iraqi/Iran undeclared war, in its second week, is said to be characterized by “aerial dogfights” along the border, though there are reports that their respective casu cials of Baghdad and Tehran have suffered considerable damage due to air raids.

Iraqi forces have captured 125 square miles of disputed land including the vital Iranian port of Khorranshahr, the Abadan oil refinery and Ahwaz, the capital of the oil-rich province of Khuzistan.

Iran’s raids on Kirkuk and other oil facilities, have halted Iraq’s flow of oil to the West in amounts of 3 million barrels per day. It is not known whether all the pipelines have been damaged or if the Iraqi government shut them off as a precautionary measure.

Further cutbacks of the world’s oil may stem from Iran’s threat to close the Hormuz Strait, the route by which 60% of the region’s oil is shipped to the West.

Causes of the war center around the confiscation of Iraqi land and Persian Gulf islands by the late Shah’s regime. After the Shah was deposed in 1979, Khomeini’s Shiite Moslems launched a propaganda campaign to expand the Ayatollah’s Islamic Revolution and called on the Shiite majority of Iraq to overthrow the Baghdad government, which is dominated by the Sunni Moslems.

Claiming that his country’s forces “now hold all the territory which Iraq wanted to recover in 1979,” Israeli Prime Minister Begin has outlined the conditions for peace. The conditions are Iran’s respect of Iraq’s sovereignty over its territory and waters, establishment of good relations with both Iraq and the Arab world, noninterference with Iraqi internal affairs, and “cessation of all aggressive acts.”

The Iranian ambassador to India is quoted as saying that Iraq will surrender its air force if it is shown that it had no protection of 60% of its land until our last drop of blood is shed fighting.”

The commander of the Iranian air force told Tehran radio: “We will continue the war with the utmost ferocity until Iraq is annihilated.”

Toxic Shock - The Food and Drug Administration is urging women to discontinue use of “Rely” brand tampons, the sale of which has been suspended by its manufacturer because of those who want only to lead their lives as they see fit on the pensions and Social Security they have earned,” adding that he himself only wants to ensure that it (Social Security) is so sound and so secure that no American will ever have to worry about whether or not he will receive his Social Security check.”

Student Loans - Congress has given final approval to a higher education bill that will raise interest rates on guaranteed loans for college students from 7% to 9%.

The bill also raises from 3% to 4% the interest rates on NDSL based on need. It increases the amounts a student can borrow and establishes a longer period for payment. A new parent loan program with a 9% interest rate is also created by the measure.

The nature of bad news infects the teller.

CAREER WORKSHOP FOR WOMEN IN SCIENCE, ENGINEERING AND TECHNOLOGY

The National Science Foundation is sponsoring a one-day Career Workshop for women in science, engineering and technology at Indiana University—Perdue University at Indianapolis on September 26, 1980. The Marian College School of Engineering and Technology and the Perdue University School of Science are coordinating the workshop for women undergraduates in science, engineering or engineerin technology programs and for women holding baccalaureate or advanced degrees in those areas. The workshop will provide information and encouragement to women wishing to enter, reenter or advance in the careers of mathematical, physical and biological sciences, engineering and engineering technology, and the social and behavioral sciences. MARIAN STUDENTS HONORED

Five Marian students were among 100 Indiana college and university students named to the newly organized Indiana Cardinalian Society. The Society, a group of educators, bankers and businessmen who seek to identify and encourage college juniors and seniors who exhibit a potential for leadership in public and private finance, honored the recipients at a Recognition Luncheon last Friday, September 26th.

The Marian students honored include: James Bryan, junior business and sociology major; Robert Freese, senior history major; Mary Holste senior history major; Diane Pitzer, senior accounting major; Connie Ryan, senior accounting and business major.

Principle speaker at the luncheon, held at the Indiana Convention Center, was William A. Leonard, President of CBS News.

Congratulations.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I would like to comment on the quality of the food service. I do realize that the food service may be on a limited budget, however, I do not feel there is any reason for the poor quality and the inability to provide fresh food for the people here at Marian. After all, we do pay for it - in more ways than one.

From personal experience, I have not only found human hair in several of my meals, but after a last resort, discovered that the only things to put on a salad recently have been croutons and spoiled cheese. Even the cottage cheese and milk have been sour. By the way, is jelly still being kept in a closet and not being refrigerated?

Your meals not only lack nutritional value, but are stale. I'm truly disappointed and disgusted that what I'm paying for cannot be properly stored or served nutritiously, and, at least, edible.

Starved Student

TO THE MASSES

I would like to extend an invitation to the Marian College Community to an exhibition of my photographs in the library. The photographs will be on display through October 10th.

HAY, HAY, HAY!!

It was a great night! The moon was bright, the stars are out, the weather was nippy and students huddled together to get warm.

There were approximately 25 students that filled the two wagons. The first wagon had ghost-story tellers-people like Brian Cunningham, Kathy Horan, and Cammie. The second wagon was filled with the rowdy hay-throwers like Beth Sgar, Mike Stanton and myself.

The fire was hot, heating us all--the marshmallows went well (cont'd )
THE FUNKY WESTERN CIVILIZATION
come on everybody
get on your feet
get with the beat
there's a brand new dance craze
sweeping the nation
and it's called the funky western civilization
well there's a riot at the courthouse
there's a fire in the street
there's a sinner being trampled
by a thousand pious feet
there's a baby every minute born without a chance
now don't that make you want to jump right up and dance?
let's do the funky
the funky western civilization
it's real spunky
it's just like summertime vacation
you just grab your partner by the hair throw her down and leave her there
they put jesus on a cross
they put a hole in j.f.k.
they put hitler in the driver's seat
and looked the other way
now they've got poison in the water and the whole world in a trance
but just because we're hypnotized that don't mean we can't dance we've got the funky
the funky western civilization
oh get down, get funky, get western (own up to it boys and girls)
and if you try real hard maybe you can even get civilized...

WHEN I HAVE FEARS
When I have fears that I may cease to be Before my pen has glean'd my teeming brain
Before high-piled books, in my charact'ry
Hold like rich garners the fully ripen'd grain
When I behold, upon my night's star'd face
Huge cloudy symbols of high romance,
And think that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour,
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in thy faery power
Of unreflecting love!—Then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think
Till love and fame to nothingness sink.

POET GONE
Oh, lost child with the inborn eyes,
to where have you wandered,
to where have you gone?
The corner where you sat has been filled,
Not with remembered thoughts, but with scraps of styrofoam cups and cigarette butts.
And the floors upon which you once trod,
though still splendid in their sordid manner
beg for the fading echoes of your feet.
And though this heap of refuse is slightly reminiscent of your discarded wisdom, still there is something amiss, something needed.
But we know that a bird must fly, and a poet must also spread his wings, but the droppings
you left are a poor replacement.
Will ever the walls ring again with your hallowed voice, or are they doomed to remain silent, shrouded with half-forgotten memories?
To you, oh Poet and Philosopher do the blazing t ables we bow, humbled by your wisdom, enriched
by your words, and make this vow;
"The table shall forever be barren, your seat to stand alone, until once more the cleansing winds blow your essence away."
--From Poet Lost

UNTITLED
Social conditioning kills the basic humanism
in man.
It turns him into uncontrolled machinery
of pride.
The human becomes victimized,
dragged from his intrinsic tendencies,
And thrown from false truth (materialistic duty)
I suppose we become accustomed to restrictions.
But can we shake the shackles of embodied
freedom?
We must accept this conditional
freedom
that comes with being human and utilize it,
this undefined liberation,
to the best of our ability.
Materialism often interferes.
Natural existence seems obsolete at times.
turned away from,
real life stumbles and falls on an empty
beer can.
(Someone must have been frustrated)
But retreat doesn't work any more.
Beyond before,
We must find attitudinal reform among the ruins.
Smoldering remnants of indulgence lie
half alive
as advertisement for a better existence.

DIVINE MADNESS A MUST!!

Last Friday night I had the exhilarating experience of viewing the new movie release DIVINE MADNESS, starring the incredible BETTE MIDLER. (Remember from the movie The Rose?) This recording of one of Miss Midler's many performances is done extremely well.

In this performance, Bette incorporates much material from her concert tours, all of which was written by Jerry Brett, Bette Midler and Bruce Vilanch. (Good work kids!) It reminded me of her 1977 album Live At Last, which was also a recording of one of her concerts.

The moment Bette hits the stage you are bombarded with creative energy. She incorporates her talents as a singer-comedienne-dancer-writer into one dynamic show! Her tendency toward the absurd exemplifies image and her extreme versatility, for she ranges from singing such a classic song as "You Can't Always Get What You Want" (by the Rolling Stones) to a totally hardcore, punk rendition of "Leader of the Pack". She is folk, rock, punk one minute, and hardcore, drama, mime, dancer, or funny lady the next; and if you're not bowled over by her talent, you will be by her bluntness. Her cry of individuality and her freedom really hits home, as she closes the show with the song "I Shall Be Released" (Bob Dylan).

If you enjoy experiencing some talent, brought to you with good music, dance, comedy and drama, I suggest you see Divine Madness. I promise you, you'll leave feeling awe, elation, and energy.

---No showing at Lafayette Square and Glendale: 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30 showings, rated R.

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

all the world's a stage
all the lines we say
all the roles we play
an actor's part
right from the start
we do it every day
all the world's a stage

life's a funny thing
comic tragedy
jester's irony
you laugh at times
in a self-assured way
for try as we might
we can't get ahead of the game

tough melodrama comes and goes
it's best we laugh...

Clubs and organizations funded by the Student Board may use the sound system for any event. For more information, contact one of the Officers. 2) The typewriters used by the Student Board were cleaned and checked for needed repairs and are now fully operational. 3) Mr. Alan Lisle, the new Director of Development for the College, told us a little about the plans for the Center. We will have the Center and the Capital Fund Drive that should be started up in the spring to finance this new facility.

Student Board Cont'd: The Center will contain a Student Union, containing lounges and offices for student organizations, a new dining facility to replace the Cafeteria in Clare Hall and an Athletic Complex. The funding goal is $4 million dollars and this will provide for building the complex, tearing down other obsolete buildings on campus, some repairs and renovations on existing facilities, and a maintenance fund for the new buildings.

Mr. Lisle also informed us that he is the chairman for the Great American Smoke-Out for the American Cancer Society. They are trying to get student support for this event which is to get everyone to stop smoking for one day, November 20th. He issued a challenge to us to come with creative ideas to promote this with the students.

CHANGES

In the Play of Life, we are now approaching a different Act. On the stage of Earth we will soon be seeing a new Scene. The sunny character of the Heroin will soon turn cool but her attire will blaze with crimson, amber and brown. These riots of colors will still be livened as the curtain goes up for the Act we call Fall, with the chorus of birds singing as they migrate. While Mother Nature puts on her Act, we too will be changing our style of Life. The farmers will start reap ing what they sowed, but the prices of food has already soared. The drought did route the way things are going to be very soon at the supermarket. The fashions shown off in gigantic windows will soon attract the eager eyes and squeeze the purses till the green leaves fall out to exchange them for the attire. The oil crunch is still there. It did not stop to quench the thirst of motorists to drive. People are indeed getting used to the new prices. Things will change and it is a matter of getting used to changes.

Seasons come and seasons go but life must go on. Without movement there would be no progress. Without change, life would become stagnant. Optimism is the right of Life. Without hope, humankind is dead.
