NEWS

Kosygin resigns - Premier Alexei Kosygin, the second most powerful man in the Soviet Union, resigned his post Thursday because of illness. He is succeeded by his first deputy Nikolai Tikhonov.

Premier since 1964, Kosygin was in charge of the Soviet economy and the day-to-day running of the government and served as the much-traveled diplomatic troubleshooter.

Soviet President Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Gromyko have been in control of foreign affairs over the past years. Western analysts believe Kosygin's departure will have little effect on Soviet foreign and economic policy.

Tikhonov, a deputy premier since 1966, was named Kosygin's top deputy four years ago and has frequently taken control during times of Kosygin's illness.

If the conscience of an honest man lays down stern rules, so also does the art of politics. At a juncture where no accommodation is possible between the two, the politician may be faced by these alternatives: "Shall I break the rules of my art in order to save my private honor? or shall I break the rules of my conscience in order to fulfill my public trust?"

Patty Hearst - The United States Circuit Court of Appeals Monday ordered a hearing held to determine whether Patty Hearst was improperly defended by her attorney, F. Lee Bailey.

The Appeals Court said there was evidence of a potential conflict of interest on the part of Bailey who had revealed to Hearst his intention of writing a book about the trial before the trial began. His intentions of writing a book can also be viewed as a violation of the American Bar Association's Code of Ethics.

Hearst was convicted of bank robbery in 1976 and served 22 months in jail, winning an early release from President Carter.

So ve if Grain Harvest Falls - The U.S. grain embargo and poor harvests by alternate suppliers of wheat and corn will probably force Soviet farmers to slaughter livestock being raised to improve the Soviet diet.

The grain embargo imposed by President Carter in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan cut off the possibility of buying surplus grain on the world market. A sever drought reduced Australia's wheat supply by 40%. Canada is likely to follow U.S. example and restrict grain sales.

The American grain embargo left the Soviet Union approximately 10 million tons short of projected need.

American Hostages - The Iranian government said Wednesday that progress has been made in the negotiations for the release of the American hostages. Though there has been no confirmation from U.S. officials, Iranian Prime Minister Rajai has said that the U.S. appears ready to meet Iranian demands.

In a parliamentary session on Sunday, conditions for the release of the hostages will be announced by the appointed commissioner. "If they(U.S.) accept the conditions and put them into action, they(the hostages) could be released as early as Monday.

In early September, the Ayatollah Khomeini set the terms for the Americans' release as the return of the Shah's wealth, the freeing of Iranian assets totalling billions of dollars held in U.S. banks, dropping all legal claims against Iran by U.S. firms(for broken contracts, lost assets and other grievances), and a noninterventionist policy pertaining to Iranian internal affairs.

The Carter Administration has assured Iran in the past that the U.S. will not interfere with their affairs or take further action against the country. Iranian assets in U.S. banks were "frozen" by Carter in response to the hostage crisis and will be freed upon the Americans' release.

As for the Shah's wealth, the State Department says the amount and location are undetermined, but adds they will not prevent Iranian efforts to take the assets through the U.S. court system.

Significant in Khomeini's conditions is the omission of a demanded apology from the U.S. The demand was a term that Carter has refused to consider in the year-long crisis.

The U.S. government has said that they would resume relatively normal relations and commerce with Iran upon the hostages release. This would clear the way for Iran to receive the spare parts for its U.S. built military equipment, essential for Iran's continuance in its war with Iraq.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

There have recently been instances called to our attention where students have intentionally destroyed (or attempted to destroy) school property. We would like to address this letter to the students responsible for such actions.

You are living among numerous others who possess the same attitudes as yourself—that the world is centered around "me." This is only natural. It is a distorted, biased view held by all since it is difficult to have an objective view of one's place in the universe. Yet these numerous others have also developed a value for the rights of "outsiders" to their world. They respect another's self-interest and his biased view. The world (even if perceived only as Marian College) is shared. The teachers are shared, the facilities are shared, the social experience is shared. They recognize the obligation not to interfere and disrupt an other's right to the community in which they co-exist.

After at least 12 years of schooling in both the academic and social sense, one would be expected to grasp the importance of respecting another's right to his/your world. What you consider trivial, the other might value either as pleasure or necessity. To interfere with another's values, especially through destructive means, is nothing less than an expression of the deficiency of your mental processes as seen in your inability to understand what others have learned at a very early age.

Perhaps this is a harsh assessment, but we consider it rather degenerative to destroy a tree for the thrill of the moment (or the memory of that thrill), or to remove pages from books and magazines, the usefulness of which is only temporary to you, but may benefit others in times to come. We are realistic enough to understand that there is little chance that you will repent and/or change, though we would not discourage you from raising your eyes above that ground level view to see the world in which we respect your right to exist.

DON'T LET IT BRING YOU DOWN

Old man sitting by the side of the road
With the lorries goin by Blu Moon sinkin from the weight of the load
and the buildings scrape the sky.
Cold wind ripping down the alley at dawn
and the mornin papers fly
Dead man lyin by the side of the road with the daylight in his eyes.

Don't let it bring you down
It's only castles burnin
Find someone who's turnin
and you will come around.

Blind man runnin through the light of the night
with an answer in his hand
Come on down to the river of sight
and you can really understand
Red lights flashin through the window in the rain
can you hear the sirens moan
White cane lyin in the gutter in the rain
if your walkin home alone

Don't let it bring you down
It's only castles burnin
Find someone who's turnin
and you will come around.

IT'S ALL FALL

The air is clear
And Fall is here
Nature is nothing
But a riot of coloring

On the canvass of Nature
We see this picture
With all its grandeur
A sight to admire

The fruits of labor
Are ready for harvest
It's time for the farmer
to take the yearly rest

Birds of the air
Are picking wings
Nature does care
For the weaklings

South is the part
They fly to with glee
That will be their port
For it's snow free

Nights will be longer
Days will be short
We've got to get stronger
To beat the winter

Sonnet 55 —Shakespeare—

NOT MARBLE NOR THE GILDED MONUMENTS

Of princes shall outlive this powerful rhyme;
But you shall shine more bright in these contents
Than unswept stone besmeared with sluttish time.

When wasteful war shall statues overturn,
And broils root out the work of masonry,
Nor Mars his sword nor war's quick fire shall burn
The living record of your memory.

Gainst death and all-oblivious enmity
Shall you pace forth; your praise shall still find room
Even in the eyes of all posterity
That wear this world out to the ending doom.

So, till the judgement that yourself arise,
You live in this and dwell in lovers' eyes.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN’ CONCERNING HOMECOMING THEME

Thank you for recognizing the effort that goes into planning Homecoming by the Booster Club.

After reading the letter Friday I became very distressed about your letter concerning the song for the dance. First of all, “Love, Look What You’ve Done To Me” is the song and not the theme. The theme is “Marian’s Takin’ to the West.”

Booster Club holds open meetings...anyone is welcome to come. We hold our meetings on Thursdays at 11:30 in the Psych Lab.. If you were concerned with what the theme would be, you could have contacted one of the officers or Dr. Appleby and come to our meetings. As far as I know, in the past, the Board has decided both the theme and the song.

Last year the theme and the song were not related, but nobody complained.

The only other thing that bothered me was that you did not even give one reason for the song (not the theme) being inappropriate.

As for the theme and the song being related, they are. The theme is “Marian’s Takin’ to the West”, and the song is the theme from the movie “Urban Cowboy”.

If anyone would like to rebuff and give their reasons for not liking the song or the theme, they may come to a Booster Club meeting.

Bobbie Jackson
Booster Club Secretary

TELL ALL THE TRUTH...

The truth is there are three women’s one acts being presented this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:00pm in the Marian Hall Auditorium.

The first show “At Liberty”, by Tennessee Williams is about the struggle between a dying actress and her mother to face reality. Two new actresses to the stage of Marian in this show are LeeAnne Robson and Geri Stewart.

The second show, “River of My Song” is a cutting from the three act play by Mari Evans, a Marian graduate. This show has four newcomers to Marian’s stage: Angela Grundy, Marian Locke, Blanca Crawford, Rhonda Tipton and a regular at Marian, and always a pleasure to see, Jacqueline Coleman who does two solo dances in the show.

The third show is a cutting from “The Belle of Amherst” by William Luce. This play is about the life of the poet, Emily Elizabeth Dickenson, being portrayed by Page Phillips.

Well, that’s the sum of “Ladies Night in Black and White”, Marian’s first theatre presentation for the 1980-1981 season.

Everyone come—admission is free for students, faculty and staff of Marian College.
