FROM MURPHY'S LAW:
Laws of Class Scheduling
1. If the course you wanted most has room for "n" students, you will the "n+1" to apply.
2. Class schedules are designed so that every student will waste the maximum time between classes.
   Corollary: When you are occasionally able to schedule two classes in a row, they will be held in classrooms at opposite ends of the campus.
3. A prerequisite for a desired course will be offered during the semester following the desired course.

DID YOU KNOW??????????

--There are more beetles on earth than any other living creature. (including Paul, George and Ringo) The number of species alone is nearly a quarter-million (the United States has 28,000 species).

--During the heating months of winter, the relative humidity of the average American home is only 13 percent, nearly twice as dry as the Sahara Desert.

--It is possible to drown and not die. Technically the term "Drowning" refers to the process of taking water into the lungs, not to death caused by that process.

--The University of Calcutta has 175,000 students (boy, what a pep session!).

Students of Marian College,

If you ate lunch on Thursday, you know what I am talking about. Our so-called "food service" is really bad. After they had really picked the place up, they have gone down-hill. If you had the grilled ham and cheese, and you went up for seconds, you only got a half a sandwich, and on top of that you had to wait several minutes before you could go back up. That's pretty poor service too me! When we go up for seconds, or thirds as far as that goes, I want something to eat. We spend more time in line than we do sitting down and eating! I thought that this was a food service! It sounds like the food rations taking place in Poland. I don't see the purpose in this. When we constantly have to go back up in line, which is what happened, we only hold back the other people in line who are up for firsts, which holds up the servers, who are already very slow in serving. If they think that we won't waste as much, that is totally unbelievable, we will eat as much if we had a whole sandwich. We pay alot of money for a food service that is supposed to serve us! I hope that that was only a one time happening.

A starved student

Confidential:

Beth F., I still love you. S.D.
Welcome to the spring semester at Marian College. Vacation is over now and it is once again time to hit the books. While we were at home enjoying the "easy life" of sleeping late, partying often, and of course catching up on our favorite soap operas, we became once again addicted to daytime drama.

To some people, soaps are a silly waste of time, but to the majority of us at Marian College, they are part of our daily routine and have become a way of life. Everyday I see some students wander the halls like zombies trying to figure what next is going to happen to "Luke and Laura", or "Who Killed Sybil Thorne", and wouldn't dream of missing a single episode until they find our exactly how the plot is resolved. Usually by that time, though, another one has developed and they are intrigued by another plot. Some students actually arrange their class schedule so as to have it coincide with their favorite soaps. For years soap operas were stereotyped for housewives lying around the couch in curlers who had nothing better to do than "tune in tomorrow" to watch their favorite soap. However, through recent years soaps have proved to be big money makers grossing up to 75 million dollars per year. Celebrities and political figures are admittedly fans and Newsweek Magazine has even deemed General Hospital as TV's "Hottest Show"!

Everyone has various reasons for watching the soaps. Some watch for the sex symbols such as "Noah Drake", others watch for mystery and suspense of the frequent murders, and others watch simply to be entertained. Whatever your reason for liking or despising soaps, the main thing is not to get too involved in reality. Don't ever get so involved that you actually believe what plot is going on... As I write this column I am watching a soap and have a feeling Olympia is going to die without telling her son Bo the real truth about him that only Pat knows and won't tell him because she wants to once again be his lover so I better close and find out what will happen --it looks like I have become just as involved as you have--tune in next week to find out!!!!!

PLAN NOW TO ATTEND THE STUDENT RETREAT

Mark your calendar for Saturday, March 20 for the student retreat. It will be a time to get away from the books and relax, reflect, and renew ourselves in our relationships with God, others and ourselves. The retreat will be Student-planned, with presentations by members of the Indiana Campus Renewal Team. They will be present at the "brain-storming" meeting to plan the retreat on Wednesday, February 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ministry Center. Everyone is welcome at this meeting.

The 1982 edition of the GRADUATE SCHOOL GUIDE has just been published. A limited number of complimentary copies are available at the Career Planning and Placement Office.

There are more than 400 listings of graduate programs offered by colleges and universities in the Northeast and Midwest. Listing information includes names of Deans, satellite campuses and tuitions. There is also a separate section that contains a cross reference of major subject categories.

The GRADUATE SCHOOL GUIDE also includes student postcards to facilitate receiving detailed information on programs offered.

"Students seeking summer employment will again be faced with limited opportunities", according to Dave Roberts, Director of Placement at Marian College. Students looking for summer jobs should begin applying as soon as possible. The Placement Office has received a number of summer job openings and will continue to receive these listings throughout the semester. Students interested in applying for these positions are encouraged to stop by the office and talk with the staff.

PLANNING TO GET MARRIED IN THE NOT-TOO-SOON FUTURE

Then plan to attend a Tobit Weekend for couples. It is a time to think seriously about the many aspects of marriage. The weekends are held at Alverna Retreat House, Indy, and are open to persons regardless of their religious denominations. There is limited space, so make reservations early, 257-7338. 1982 weekends are Jan. 22-24, Feb. 12-14, March 19-21, April 23-25, May 7-9, or May 21-23. Probably the best kept secret at the big M.C. is that Student Board meetings are open to ALL STUDENTS! With hopes of increasing student participation in meetings all meetings are now held on Tuesday nights at 9:00 p.m. If there's a basketball game on a Tuesday the meeting will be held after the game.

Student Board has tried a few things this year including starting committees on alcohol and visitation revision policies, a committee on renovating run-down facilities, and open social planning meetings. Student Board also meets with the Board of Trustees to voice the concerns of students—whether they be academic, social or extracurricular. Are these the things you want Student Board to do? Student Board representatives need to understand the needs of students in order to secure results of any kind. Come to a meeting or tell us what you would like to see done on campus. We would like to help if you would only give us some input.

Sincerely,
Your Student Board

FOOD SERVICE EDITORIAL.....

Many students around campus are voicing complaints similar to those expressed by "starved student" (pg. 4). I can understand ARA's point of view in that they are trying to adjust a fixed budget to accommodate rising, unfixed costs. ARA's money problem doesn't seem to justify them treating the students as if they were criminals though. This treatment starts from the moment the student steps through the door and doesn't let up until that person leaves EMPTYHANDED! ARA seems to have enough money to pay "cafe bouncers" and lunchmeat rationers" to keep the students from making off with too much food; it would seem logical to use this money to allow students to eat what they want without having to run a 15-mile obstacle course to get it. Granted, some of the new rules that ARA has imposed are understandable. I also recognize that with any tightening of controls in the cafeteria, there will be some student protest. In spite of this, I do not think that the students should be forced to tolerate the attitude held by many of the cafeteria employees who seem to be indifferent to the desires of the students.

Some of the solutions proposed informally by students have some merit. One student suggested that ARA distribute a book of food tickets to each student at the beginning of each semester. What ever became of the food service committee which was supposed to work on problems such as these?? If resident students are forced to carry the meal plan, then ARA should be forced to accommodate the wants and needs of those resident students.
