Future Author

Despite the smallness of Marian College and complaints of a "lack of privacy," inevitably each of us realize there are people we do not know. This week in an interview with Debbie Sears, I had the opportunity to discover her potential as a future author.

A Chemistry and English double major, Debbie came to Marian because it suited her needs—being a small, liberal arts, Catholic college. Presently she writes 15 to 20 hours a week and is co-editor of the FIORETTI, a Marian literary magazine published twice a year.

Debbie completed her 1st novel, TheLoner, last spring. It is a science-fiction/fantasy novel with the theme of an individual's relationship to the community.

This past summer Debbie had the opportunity to meet her favorite writer, Ursula Leguin, at a Writer's Convention in Bloomington. While there Mrs. Leguin helped Debbie with a short-story she had submitted to come to the convention. Debbie considers "The Godsend Light" her best work to date.

During her years at Marian, Debbie feels the faculty has been very supportive. Sr. Stella Gampfer of the English Department has been a special teacher and friend.

Debbie is open to talk with any "John-Boy Walton" who are interested in writing and how they might begin. Following college, Debbie has plans to be married and will pursue her career as a fiction writer.

Package Yourself

"package Yourself for Success," a seminar aimed at improving interviewing skills, will be offered Oct. 5, at 7:00 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

The presentation is being brought to Marian by the Home Ec. Club and by the Career Placement Office. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

The program will include representatives from both the education and business worlds, to give tips and advice on interviewing techniques.

Also present will be representatives from Harry Levinsons and Casual Corner. These people will give students advice on attaining that "professional" look. They will also present ideas on how to assemble the proper working wardrobe for the beginning teacher, accountant and others.

The Trio

Friday Oct. 7, at 8 p.m., "The Trio" will give a free performance in the Marian College Auditorium.

The Trio, a saxophone ensemble from the University of Louisville, will perform musical selections from a repertoire spanning five centuries.

Included in the program will be selected works of Bach, Mozart, Purcell and others. Modern composers too, such as Scott Joplin will be represented.

The members of the group, Peter Hodson, John Moore and Lee Patrick, have received international acclaim.

The performance is expected to be a dynamic example of the range and versatility of the saxophone, an instrument known for its expressive qualities.
The Marian College fall teams are finally getting respect from surrounding colleges and universities. In the Indiana Collegiate Championship the golf team placed sixteenth. They improved their score from last year by 82 strokes.

Tuesday night the Volleyball team beat Butler for the first time in years at the City Tourney. They beat the Bulldogs in two games, 16-14 and 15-8. The Knights put a hard fought game against Indiana Central, but went down to defeat, 15-13, 13-15, 8-15. They lost to I.U.P.U.I., 8-15, and 13-15.

The Knights hosted Earlham and Hanover last night, but the results were not available at press time.

Today and tomorrow the women will be playing in a tournament at Ohio Northern University. Good luck Ladies!!

On Oct. 6 they will host DePauw and St. Mary's of the Woods --hope to see everyone there.
