"INDIANAPOLIS, YOU HAVE ARRIVED"

Have you noticed the changes in our city? Indianapolis has been growing and continues to grow. Since 1974, $1.7 billion has been spent on new construction. The following is a brief overview of what has been done and what will be done to justify the city's claim: "In the last five years no city has done more to earn your business."

At the cost of $11,000,000, the Indiana Soldier's and Sailor's Monument restoration was begun in January to be completed in April of 1987. This money comes largely from private funding.

In 1853 the Indianapolis Union Station made its debut and became the center of rail transportation for the entire nation. April 25, 26, 27 Union Station will celebrate its re-opening.

Robert Borns of Borns Management Corporation (and also a Marian College Board of Trustee) proposed a plan for the station's renovation, making it a "festival marketplace." A $50 million project, the historic buildings will include cinemas, retail shops, restaurants, a museum, nightclubs, and a unique Holiday Inn hotel offering 26 suites in restored railway sleeper cars besides a 275 room facility. Amtrak rail service and Trailways bus service will enable the center to maintain its role as a transportation center. Watch this center on its re-opening. The event promises to attract 100,000 visitors.

Visitors will also travel to Indianapolis for the 1987 Pan Am Games. Indianapolis will host, August 7-23, the Tenth Pan American Games.

SIXTH GRADERS GO TO COLLEGE

by Jim McKean

Sixty sixth grade students from inner city school 27, "Charity Dye", will be going to college next month.

On April 15th, the elementary students will visit Marian College where they will spend the day with Marian's education majors exploring marsh lands in an ecology class, participating in a science demonstration, learning about foreign cultures, and listening to a special chamber choir presentation.

Meanwhile, their parents will meet with college officials to learn how to help their children set goals and develop good study habits, as well as to discuss admissions and financial aid requirements.

The students and their parents will be participating in a joint program of the Indianapolis Public School System and Marian College called "Step Into Your Future" funded (continued on page 3)

CROP WALK

Join the efforts to help curb world hunger by participating in the Hunger Walkathon, a 10 kilometer stretch beginning and ending at the War Memorial. Pick up forms from Sister Rosemary Schroeder, Beth Sadewater, or Kelley Ross. Lots of Marian College students are going or pledging others. Get involved! [All participants are asked to wear something with Marian College printed on it so as to advertise the college-go Knights!]

This important athletic event, a prelude to the 1988 Olympic Games, promises to be a rich cultural experience to a city that is on the move!

Four million visitors a year are expected to enter the White River State Park now under development. Two hundred and sixty-seven acres west of Monument Circle have been reserved for a world-class zoo, botanical gardens, dozens of restaurants, shops, rides, live entertainment, the National Institute of Fitness and Sport, the new Indiana State Museum, and much more. Each year the four to five million visitors to the park are expected to bring nearly $35 million just to the park. An expected $77 million will be revenue for the city's restaurants, hotels, and other facilities outside the park. A $200 million project, this park will bring jobs and economic gain to Indiana.

Are you aware?

†Indianapolis is the Amateur Sports Capital of the U.S.;
†The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and the Indiana Repertory Theatre entertain 260,000 patrons annually;
†25 new restaurants have opened in the downtown area in the last two years;
†Two new hotels have opened this year alone;
†And don't forget our Hoosier Dome or Market Square Arena.

Through the intelligent planning, hopes and dreams of people such as Robert Borns, Melvin Simon & Associates, Larry Conrad (of MSA and a Marian College Board of Trustee member), Governor Orr, Mayor Hudnut, and the people of this great city, we can all proudly proclaim, "Indianapolis, You Have Arrived!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I, as well as many of my colleagues, lack confidence in Sister Margaretta Black's decision not to reinstate Sister Vivian Rose as a part-time professor for the 1986-87 academic year. Not only did she not reinstate Sr. V.R., but refused to communicate with the student body and give any reasons backing this decision. Is this "grey" decision intended to cure a personal conflict or one in the department? (Why even bother to ask?) We also disagree with other actions taken by Sister Margaretta, but are focusing on this one, as it seems to be "the straw that broke the camel's back". She seems to be taking advantage of her position to implement her idea of proper policy, without regard to the obvious feelings and general opinion of the students she is supposed to be working for, as well as fellow faculty members. In my opinion, she has overstayed her welcome as Dean of Academic Affairs and is now a negative aspect to the College's administrative staff, yet could be a valuable asset to the students and college as a French professor once again. Most Academic Deans have stepped down from the position after six to eight years at most, whereas Sr. Margaretta Black has been there for 12 already! I wish to state, however, that I hold no grudge against Sr. Black, but merely disagree with her way of business as Academic Dean and feel that it is time for a change in that position. Just food for thought?

Respectfully Submitted,
Brad Landwerlen

Dear Editor,

I am a candidate for the office of Junior Class Representative to the Student Board. I am highly qualified for the position for several reasons:
1. I have one year of experience in this position as Sophomore Representative.
2. I am a member of the College Council and The Carbon Staff.
3. I am sincere in my bid for this office.
4. I have proven over the past year that I am not afraid to ask pointed questions; I am not afraid to work hard; I am concerned about what students want; I am able to communicate constructively with the administration.

For these reasons I would appreciate the full consideration of each junior-to-be, the class of '88! Vote today!

Thanks,
Chris A. Worley

To Whom It May Concern:

Last Wednesday night Marian College recognized a special lady, Everyone by now has heard of her—Sister Vivian Rose. I couldn't help but think as we dined and toasted her, how truly special she really is. Often times we get caught up in the everyday grind of tests, papers, and full schedules, but we really don't stop and "smell the roses." Sister Vivian is truly a rose in our springtime here at Marian. Blooming, beautiful, and full of hope...thanks Sister Vivian for another great year. I hope next year is just as great!

Sincerely,
Bill Guile

NURSES' ACCREDITATION

by Cindy Cooley

The Nursing Department was optimistic following a grueling two-day visit last week by the National League of Nursing to review Marian's Associate Degree in Nursing program. The inspection followed weeks of preparation by faculty and staff in the Nursing Department, and went very well, according to Director Sally Beckman.

The visiting team reviewed a long list of criteria, including course-by-course syllabi, off-campus facilities, faculty qualification, and support courses in the college. They met with nursing faculty, other faculty and students, and inspected every facility used by nursing students, including the library.

In a final interview with Director Beckman the NLN team commented positively on their visit, citing strong college support for the program and effective faculty leadership. "They were especially pleased with how all the Marian Departments work together," said Ms. Beckman.

Ms. Beckman will attend an NLN Board meeting in New York in June to receive the results of the accreditation review. "This would be a prestigious new accreditation for Marian," said Ms. Beckman, "and an important milestone for our nursing program. With NLN accreditation our graduates will be readily accepted in advanced programs at any university."

We're keeping our fingers crossed.

Marian lost both games of a double header to Chicago State 7-6 and 9-5, then retaliated and shared the victories of another double header with IUPU Fort Wayne (victory 14-2 and loss 2-4). John Rippenger had a good outing on the mound, and Jeff Castner pitched a three hitter himself. We also had quite a slug fest when over 21 hits were claimed in one game between Marian and IUPU Fort Wayne. At the plate Kirkhoff went two for two and Wellinghausen went three for three, as well as tying Randy Canada with three runs batted in. Marian has a slew of games this week including IUPUI here Saturday the 12th, St. Francis here on Sunday the 13th, Franklin here on Tuesday the 22nd and Taylor there on Thursday the 24th. All games start at 1:00 p.m., so we hope to see you there!

Do you like elevators? Do you like to have fun? Do you like Barbie dolls? If you answered "yes" to these questions then the Elevator Club is for you! What is an Elevator Club, you may ask? Well, in an Elevator Club, you go to the elevator at Nairam Hall, (located at Nairam College in Silopanaidni, Indiana), you carefully push the button (that's next to a sign that says...oh whoops! It's gone again!) wait 5.3 hours for the door to open, step in the elevator and quickly drink a...COKE!!! Whew! Have you ever had so much fun before? I'd say you probably haven't!

Anyway, the officers from Nairam College's own, unique Elevator Club are here at Marian College trying to get members for their unique club! You should join! It's even more fun than playing with Barbie dolls!!
