Sunday, April 26 at 3:30 p.m. the Gala Spring Concert will be presented in the auditorium. The public is invited to enjoy the new groups as well as old favorites.

Opening the concert will be a new group affectionately known as The Cantor's Chanters. Specializing in light popular music, the group promises not only to sing but also dance for the audience. One of their favorites, "If I Were A Rich Man", should prove a high point of the afternoon.

The Marian College Concert Band holds second place on the agenda. The Band is scheduled to play several concert band arrangements and a running march. The "Storm King". An enjoyable time is assured with this kind of instrumental music.

Next, the audience will be treated to the Zalkin FractIon duo, Cantor Zalkin and Bernice Fraction will give a short concert in duet. The Cantor and Miss Fraction have appeared together previously as members of The Young Audiences Lyric Trio and in "The Captivating World Of Opera" but this is their first appearance together on the Marian stage.

Bernice Fraction is a leading black vocalist in the city. She regularly sings with the Indianapolis Symphonic Choir and has appeared with the choir and orchestra twice this year in performances of Handel's Messiah. She also gave a solo recital at the Marian Theatre this year.

The last work on the program will be a performance of Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms." This work was originally scored for a men's and boy's choir with alto solo, but is well adaptable to women's voices. The Psalms are written in Hebrew and the music though very Bernstein is also very Hebrew. A most dramatic part of this work comes when women are singing the languid melody "The Lord Is My Shepherd," against the abrupt words like: "Why Do the Nations Rage?"

The "Chichester Psalms" will be performed by the Marian College Choir, joined by the Beth...- Zebedee Choir and the Christ's Church Cathedral Choir. Other musical effects will be produced by Ruth Thresher, harp, Sr. Mary Ellen Gillman, organ, and Mary Pass and Joe Kubala, general percussion.

The Marian Chorale under the direction of Cantor Robert Zalkin prepare Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms" for Sunday's performance at 3:30. The Chorale and the Concert Band are combining for the program.

Board Stand Threatened

President David Haire revealed last Wednesday's meeting that the Student Association is threatened with a censure from Student Services if the Board fails to comply with Dean Pillc's directions. The conflict centers around Stacy Smith's eligibility for office. Declared academically ineligible by Student Services, Mr. Smith was nevertheless elected N.S.A. Rep by a write-in vote. Following the election, Dean Pillc has refused to recognize Smith's election and advised the Board to remedy the situation.

If Smith is seated in May, he has stated that he will declare the Student Association defunct, will freeze the funds and will refuse to collect the Association's fees next semester.

The Board decided that it will stand firm on Smith's election.

In other matters, Social Council reported that the Spring Concert has been cancelled and that new Board officers will be inaugurated on Apr. 30.

Mass Polled

Expression of opinion on a Saturday Mass time should be made Wednesday in the cafeteria, according to Fr. Bernard Head, Chaplain. Preferences should be initialed on a sheet available there, and results will be tabulated.

The Vice-president report contained a denunciation of the Student Senate's election position and a declaration of anarchy by an anonymous group.

Moving to new business, the Board passed a motion removing the necessity of chaperooning for social activities. It will be sent to Student Services.

A committee was formed to improve communication between the Board of Trustees and the student body. Four Board members will meet on a monthly basis with the four class representatives to discuss pertinent issues.

The Board voted to loan the Junior class $100.00 for the Junior-Senior Prom. A motion to fund an audit of the Association's books was tabled until next week.

Dan Roderer, a sophomore history major, will occupy the much-publicized office of Day Student Representative on next year's Student Board. Although Roderer is from Dayton, Ohio, he is currently living in the city as a commuter and this qualifies for his post. When questioned about the relevance of his office, he stated that it is a day student organization as such is unnecessary for upperclassmen who have already been integrated into the life of the college as a whole. He did feel, however, that his office performed the essential function of "analyzing Board issues in the eyes of day students."

The Choralie, Concert Band Combine for Gala Program

PRIMPING PROM CANDIDATES Penny Stiglich, Ann Moiriaz, Terry Disque, Nancy Touger, Terry Joehling and Barb Bates prepare to pose for the Phoenix photographer. One of these seniors will be crowned prom queen Saturday night. Tickets are $6 and available from all junior class officers.

Brodor Elections Completed

"Compromise must come from both sides," he emphasized the importance, for both himself and his classmates, of supporting their beliefs with valid reasoning.

Representing the senior class on next year's Student Board will be Glenn Tebbe, a history major from Brookville, Indiana. Concerning the matter of representation, Glenn stated, "Not only does the Board Representative have a responsibility to his constituents but they, in turn, have a responsibility to let their representatives know their views. Ted and I will question the authority of the Student Services Office in the internal structure of student government and in support of the efforts of women to gain recognition as women.

Two very essential ingredients for maintaining a healthy life are the subject of a national teach-in week, for which the Marian College Biology and Conservation Club has prepared a program on Wednesday and Thursday.

Films on water pollution will begin Wednesday at 3:30 and be shown every half hour until 3:30. The highlight of Apr. 22's program will be a showing of slides and a lecture presented by John Winters, a member of the State Board of Health. Thursday's classes led

Results of the recent class elections are: heading the senior class, Tom Mader; vice-president, Joan Bailey, secretary, Joyce Lagers; treasurer, Sue Medes; Social Council Representatives, Margie Bauer and Margie Foltz; and Student Board Representative, Glenn Tebbe.

Mike Grotven said that the junior class, aided by Pete Klosterman, Mary Henshaw, and Barb Chilson, Social Council Representatives are Carolyn Brown and Joyce Hemmelgen. John Dicker (continued on p. 3)
Letter To The Editor

Dear Members of the Marian College Community:

It is that time of year when Upperclassmen seek renewal of their lease on life. Having toured fifty inner-city high school students through the college during the past academic year, Upperclassmen hope to host thirty of these students in its summer program.

Plans for the summer program are presently being laid and implemented. A summer curriculum is being drawn up to be reviewed and approved by the Academic Affairs Committee. Interested counselors from the Marian College community are being sought. Use of college facilities is being contracted. But all this is contingent on funding.

Upperclassmen will again be working in the College and Indiana community to raise sufficient funds to keep Upperclassmen alive. During the past years of existence, Upperclassmen had involved numerous college alumni, students, faculty, friends, serving over sixty high school students. We are looking to continue the program, as perceived by us, that we may be, feel that we have been effective.

As time comes to raise these funds, we will turn again to the clubs and organizations on campus, to the student government, and to the individuals that comprise this community.

Part of Upperclassman's uniqueness and success has been that it has remained a program fully sponsored and run by members of the Marian College community, and not by the administration. This fact is one of the reasons that the program is so successful. The entire students and faculty feel that it can and should be made available to the entire student body. This is an important factor to be considered when making decisions about the future of the program. It is the feeling of the Upperclassmen that the program should continue and that a larger number of students should be able to participate. This is a logical conclusion, and the Upperclassmen feel that it is necessary to maintain the program in its current form.

Keep us in mind. Watch for us in the newspapers, on television, and around campus this fall. We will be ready to welcome you with open arms.

Sincerely,

[Name]

[Position]

---

More Bosse on Campus

by George Bureson

On the morning of March 10 five philosophy majors met with Dr. Guzzetta. Among other matters, the group decided to meet with Sister Bosse to discuss her possible return to the college after she completed her Master's work the previous June. Dr. Guzzetta pointed out that she had told the group that Sister would be teaching here next year; she informed John O'Kane that this meeting was: 1. Dr. John Krause, the present philosophy professor, had given his resignation; 2. Sister Frances Bosse, who is a philosophy teacher, would be teaching here next year; and 3. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's taking any other teaching position for next year. Dr. Guzzetta had signed the contract that was offered him, and he confirmed that Sister had accepted the position.

The group reiterated that because of other considerations (i.e. Mr. Ring's salary) he saw no need to have Sister teach here next year. These events raise certain questions. Why are students given the impression that their opinion counts? Why can they not meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for Sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for Sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for Sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for Sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.

A more vital issue is the decision to not even consider Mr. Ring's application. One of the given reasons is that Sister Bosse was coming here and there was no real opening anyway. But what if Mr. Ring had signed the contract he was offered him, and what if Mr. Hargus had not resigned? Does this mean, then, that there was a need to get rid of one or more of the philosophy department to make room for Sister? This has some interesting ramifications for the Pedestrian tenure decision. If the philosophy faculty is asked the question of Mr. Ring's tenure, apparently for the sake of five dollars, the idea of going after quality has been discarded. There is no question here of Sister Bosse's competence, the issue is, rather, Gemonsis. It should be asked if Sister Bosse's demand for quality is one that she has proven herself to be a professional or the untested amateur? Do all the philosophy majors meet with a teacher before any final decision is made as to her status? Why is one student informed at a time when most are on their way home for Easter vacation? Why was this meeting held on a Sunday when only three students could be here? Why, if Sister Bosse's position here had been decided sometime ago, were they not told of this in the first place? The only logical conclusion seems to be that some pressure is being made on students feeling that their opinion counts and that their voice will be heard.
Chapel Gains Attention

by Bill Brady

The "E" shaped building, known as Marian Hall, has the administration offices, the science laboratories and auditorium, and the chapel. The chapel became an integral part of campus during this semester after student vigil and fasts.

The chapel at Marian was originally planned in the late '30s, but was delayed until the late '60s to meet the needs of an area which, when completed, would be Marian College. The architect were raised by the teaching Sisters of C. Bohlcm, and the actual construction was handled by contractor Francis A. William.

'Blow Up' Arrives

Friday at 8 p.m., the Marian College Cinema Series will present 'Blow Up,' starring David Hemmings, and Vanessa Redgrave. It offers an appeal for a provocative treatment to a weekend in the life of a high-fashion London photographer. Assumed camera shots fluctuate from fantasy to realistic experience. 'Blow Up' has won awards at the Cannes, Avoriaz, and Brussels film festivals. The price is $7.50.

Larne Carter Party Sunday

The MANASA (Mental Health Club) will visit Larne Carter mental hospital Sunday. Con tact Kathy Schlemmer, Ext. 248, for reservations. Cars will leave Clare Hall at 6:45 p.m.

Alumni Tour Meet Thursday

Travellers joining the Marian College Alumni Tour to the Orient, June 27 to July 18, will meet Thursday to hear more details of their trip. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be in the Marian Hall Lounge and will include a film showing some of the spots tours members will visit.

Mary Carol Schrader will guide the tour which features several days at the World's Fair. In addition to extensive travels in Japan, the trip includes Hong Kong, Taipei, and Honolulu.

A film will still be open on the tour and any persons interested in joining it are welcome to attend Thursday's meeting.

In September of 1954, the dedication ceremonies were held for the chapel. It is officially designated Bishop Charrand Memorial Chapel of Mary Immaculate. The chapel seats over 600 in the nave and gallery. Modern Gothic style is employed in the high wooden arches. The inner walls are of St. Meinhold limestone with a marble sanctuary and black marble altar. Approximately three years ago the altar was turned around to coincide with changes in the liturgy. Bronze and black gold marble stations of the cross line the walls, while a highly prized Acoll Sniker pipe organ, transferred from the Allison mansion adds the beauty of music to the chapel liturgy. A bronze memorial plaque honoring Bishop Charrand, fifth bishop of Indiana, was presented to Marian by the late Joseph E. Ritter, an American cardinal, and a former bishop of Indianapolis.

Mental illness among adolescents, which has increased in the United States to proportions termed alarming, will be the subject of 'Cry Help,' an NBC White Paper on mentally disturbed youth, to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network, Sat. Apr. 25, 7:30-8:00 and seen locally on Station WFBM, Channel 6.

Lucy Jarvis, twice an Emmy Award winner, will preside over the special program. Tom Priestley, also an Emmy Award recipient, will direct the program. The program will be written by Jim Mills, author of 'The Prosecutor.'

'The problem of mental illness is vast and varied,' says Mrs. Jarvis, 'there are six million symptomatic cases between the ages of 16 and 24 in the United States and less than 1% of them receive adequate care, if at all.'

The public hospitals concentrate on the very young or the adult, the adolescent is forgotten. Mrs. Jarvis points out the program will show what can happen to adolescents who are not fortunate enough to receive mental care and who because of circumstances are put in jail where they do not belong. Very often the kind of care a mentally disturbed child gets is a matter of accident or due to a chain of circumstances. For example, if he should harm himself in any way he may receive mental care, but if he commits an anti-social act by harming someone else, then he is put in jail.

Once they become part of the penal system their chances of receiving significant psychiatric care is diminished to near zero.

However, NBC News discovered that Napa State Mental Hospital in Napa Valley, California, was one of the few that has a special treatment program. Midst of the film story will take place in Napa, where 25 teen-agers are receiving treatment.

'Student Study Still Open'

Shun Study Still Open

Education and action in the slums is still an available opportunity through Fannie Flower Work Camp weekends. The dates of May 23, 24, 25, and 26&_ are still open for Marian students. One weekend costs $5 for room and board, but students wishing to attend only the Saturday sessions may attend free. The project is made at least a week in advance. Contact Linda Smith, Ext. 415, for details.

Medieval University Lecture

Professor Astrid Gabriel will guest lecture on 'The Medieval University' Monday at 2:30 p.m., in room 207. The history department invites all students to attend. Gabriel is Director and Professor at the Medieval Institute of Notre Dame, Indiana.

Jesuit to Lecture on Peru

Fr. Francis Xavier Grogg, Jesuit professor at Phoenix College will host lectures on Peru to Marian students Wednesdays and Thursdays, in room 216. Wednesdays: 8:30 Sad Houses and Floating Islands

Jestin to Lecture on Peru

11:30 From Farm to Fiesta

2:00 Archeologist at Work

7:30 Indians: Latin America's Problem or Potential

Thursday: 9:30 From Sacrifice to Persecution

1:00 Indigenous Communities

Style Show Deadline Today

The deadline for the Home Economics Style Show is today. Applications should be submitted in room 129, Clare Hall. The Home Economics Association is also holding a bake sale Wednesday in the cafeteria and Perk.

ALUMNI TOUR MEET THURSDAY

Travellers joining the Marian College Alumni Tour to the Orient, June 27 to July 18, will meet Thursday to hear more details of their trip. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be in the Marian Hall Lounge and will include a film showing some of the spots tours members will visit.

Mary Carol Schrader will guide the tour which features several days at the World's Fair. In addition to extensive travels in Japan, the trip includes Hong Kong, Taipei, and Honolulu.

A film will still be open on the tour and any persons interested in joining it are welcome to attend Thursday's meeting.

'The Students March upon Trash (SMUT) program will be inaugurated on campus April 22-25 with the clearing of trash from this lakeshore hill. Volunteers for the project should sign the poster in front of the Marian Hall auditorium.

Library Progress Slowed: Hope For Fall Opening

The new library, reportedly ahead of schedule in Nov. the issue of the Phoenix, ran into difficulties when the mechanical contractor went bankrupt and quit Feb. 3. Last Thursday, however, a new contractor was hired.

The two-story, 30,000 sq. ft. addition will house the library on the lower level and the offices on the upper level. The building is scheduled to be completed by the end of May.

The exterior of the building is a diverse combination of concrete, brick, aluminum, window wall, and bronze plate glass. The interior features simple, vibrant colors.

The first floor reception area, reading area, and stairs, will be carpeted in royal purple. Door frames are bright blue, and alternate walls are blue, yellow, or white. Exposed mechanical risers which conduct heating and air-conditioning will be done in red. Second floor will have alternate white and yellow walls; third floor resembles an observation deck with four exposed balconies.

The auditorium on the ground floor will afford 210 red and gold tweed chairs, royal purple carpeting, and white walls. A red and gold elevator, red oak furniture, and wooden-edged desks and carols with slate inlets are other details which may make the new library the most popular academic spot on campus.

I just couldn't believe that Casting really took up that much time. Poor Richard, played by Pete O'Connell, is a successful young British writer who has turned to drink and idleness because of his wife's death. Jan Schroeder portrayed Cathy, the secretary who makes up her mind to marry poor Richard and fulfill her high school dreams. Add a well-meaning publisher who helps Cathy Shaw's affection, and a nagging proposition that Cathy attend a memorial dedication for his late wife and you have a harmless Kerr plot—not hardly profound but still a diversion. I will still meet our schedule.' The library should be opened in September, before fall classes begin.

The exterior of the building is 25 teen-agers, who have previously been confined to the project's walls, while a highly prized Aeolian Skinner pipe organ, transferred from the Allison mansion adds the beauty of music to the chapel liturgy. A bronze memorial plaque honoring Bishop Charrand, fifth bishop of Indiana, was presented to Marian by the late Joseph E. Ritter, an American cardinal, and a former bishop of Indianapolis.

'The Students March upon Trash (SMUT) program will be inaugurated on campus April 22-25 with the clearing of trash from this lakeshore hill. Volunteers for the project should sign the poster in front of the Marian Hall auditorium.
Intelligent Sports Editor Sought

As is evidenced by the lack of sports coverage this week, the Phoenix is in dire need of a Sports Editor. Interested students may apply by contacting Michael Hohl or Thomas Gannon.

Qualifications for the editor are various and many. He (with apologies to all Women's Liberation advocates) must be knowledgeable, conscientious, reliable, versatile and sincere.

So much for the many; now for the various. He must be sporty, love his mother, have an addiction to apple pie and shower daily. (Long hairs need not apply.) In short, he must be a real athletic supporter.

Dubiously Yours,
Thomas Gannon

LETTERS

(continued from page 2)

To the Girls of the Women's Dorm-
1. In the land of the blind, the one-eyed man is a revolution.
2. "Time and time again, to myself I say,
Stand up like a man, change the world today.
Fight for what is right, die heroically
Then I stop to think how messy death must be..."
(from Celebration)
3. Perhaps throwing money-changers out of the Temple isn't meant for you.
"I do not come to bring peace, but the sword," said the Prince of Peace.
Budda died at the age of eighty-four because he was too polite to refuse bad food.
4. You know, if those six million Jews had not walked into the ovens, but had had to be dragged in, kicking and screaming, or even simply lain down and had to be carried...
5. No Marian student has hours on weekends. True or false.
Love,
Phil

I DON'T CARE WHAT THE ODDS ARE, I WANT RICHMOND

NO SOONER SAID THAN DONE, SIR. JUST DIAL 1 AND AREA CODE 703

Get outta town without leaving campus. Dial Direct. The lowest long distance rates are in effect every school night and all day Saturdays.

Indiana Bell

Use your long distance calling number. Save time. Dial your own calls.

SPRING SPECIAL
Carton of Pepsi For $.25
With any LARGE PIZZA and THIS COUPON at:

Villa Pizza
6141 W. 38th STREET
PHONE: 291-3446

$3.5 DELIVERY FEE
DELIVERY TO DORMS 7:00, 9:00, and 11:00 p.m.

Get outta town without leaving campus. Dial Direct. The lowest long distance rates are in effect every school night and all day Saturdays.