COLD SPRING KIDS

by Shelly Leman

Tom, Amy and Anthony probably would not appreciate being called "kids" when they are almost our age and involved in their first week of on-the-job training here at Marian. Tom Halliburton is working under Janet Padgett in Allison Mansion; Amy Harris is being supervised by Herman Johnson at the gym; Anthony White is in the library being trained by Fred Thomas. These teenagers share a common disadvantage -- they are retarded.

Retarded is not synonymous with repulsive. It simply means that these teens have a mental hinderance that makes them slower to learn and does not allow them to transfer skills to different environments. Tom, Amy, and Anthony are being trained with skills that will hopefully look good on their resumes when they go out to find jobs that will allow them some measure of independence. Because they are retarded, they will always need some kind of support.

Cindy Brewster and Greg McDermott support these kids through Cold Spring School. This is not a school of reading, writing and arithmetic, but rather a school of training. First through third grades are given classroom jobs such as collecting erasers. In grades four through eighth, the children are encouraged to do jobs outside of the classroom, for example, laundry, and delivery of lunch trays. Freshmen and sophomores get involved with non-paying jobs that will train them in a given skill and expose them to the "real" world. This is where our Marian community gets involved. Finally, the juniors and seniors are ideally placed in paying jobs. According to Mr. McDermott, one of the difficulties is that the people who hire the kids often want to keep them on permanently. This is wonderful for the individual, but it makes finding jobs for the upcoming freshmen and sophomores more difficult.

Tom, Amy and Anthony's work week is Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. At the end of the day, Mr. McDermott or some other member of the Cold Spring School staff picks up the teenagers who are excited and satisfied to get positive responses to the inquiries on how their day went. Although many times the mentally retarded cannot fully comprehend where their job training is leading, they do enjoy being part of the normal working world. This gives them a sense of self-worth and accomplishment.

The long term goal of Mr. McDermott, Ms. Brewster, Marian's Joyce Johnstone and anyone involved with the retarded is breaking down the attitude barriers toward the handicapped. By making Tom, Amy, and Anthony visible to the Marian community through their custodial work, hopefully we will all learn to treat them as naturally as we do each other.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Yearbook Fee...

To the students of Marian College:

Last week, I read with great dismay a letter by a Mr. Ridenour who literally called me an "arbitrary thief." According to him, I had no other desire by voting "yes" to a yearbook fee than to get into his billfold. He said that I did not care.

My decision to vote on a yearbook fee was not a rash one. I examined the costs, the work, the yearbook stuff...I asked some students, "would you want a yearbook fee?" I remember that as a senior in high school, I toured Marian College and found out that there was no yearbook. What kind of "podunk" place was this... no yearbook?!! My high school friends who went to other colleges automatically received a yearbook at the end of the year. It was part of their fees. What about Marian?

We also spent hours attempting to get the most for the student's money...best quality at the cheapest price...and we were surprised at how much more the yearbook would be improved. It would be cheaper in cost for everyone. It would have better quality paper, more color pictures, and a larger size book. I could not help but think how much better this would be for the students and for Marian as a whole.

My decision was not arbitrary...it was not rash...it was not an act of thievery...it was a conscientious decision and one that, yes, I felt I could make a difference to both the quality of the school and the pride of those attending it. I make that "yes" decision because I CARE about Marian and my peers who are enrolled here.

Thank you,
Bill Gulde

FOREIGN BORN

According to the Student Affairs Office, 30 students at Marian are foreign-born.

If you've never been a "stranger in a strange land," it's hard to understand how a student from another country feels at Marian College, United States of America.

The differences are more than skin tone, dress, language or which side of the street to drive on. When a student from another land comes here, he/she brings also the memories, habits, culture, opinions, religious beliefs and prejudices.

I remember an occurrence at a communications conference when I asked an oriental lady her age. It was as if I had asked for the most intimate statistic possible. I had! In her culture, age was something one just didn't ask.

What to do? Here at Marian we have a wonderful opportunity to learn about other cultures and peoples. We also can learn to be better communicators by learning to be better listeners and wiser speakers.

Listen to your new friends, find out about their belief systems and try to be careful about how you express yours. Perhaps in this small way we can begin to build a world system that doesn't resort to guns and bombs to settle differences.

Remember -- in the final analysis foreign relations are up to you -- not the State Department.

DOHERTY ON INDIANA

by Kelley Ross

An institution's greatness depends upon the people who dedicate themselves to it. The institution grows from their efforts, and takes pride in their accomplishments as well. Marian College has many professors, administrators, and staff who have contributed to the college, to their academic fields, to their communities, and, yes, even to the State of Indiana. William Doherty, Professor of History, is one such person, and a major publication on which he has been at work will soon appear.

Preparing the History of the Indiana General Assembly, 1816 to 1978 was a monumental task, as the span of time the work encompasses suggests. The initiative for the book originated with historian Justin Walsh, who writes, "This history is the result of a collective effort by six people who allowed me to bring to fruition the history of the Indiana General Assembly as I conceived it should be written. Each made unique contributions that let the story unfold essentially as I saw it." William Doherty is one of those six contributors.

The work is now at the printer and will appear early in March.

Walsh was highly complimentary about the Marian professor's contribution. "Doherty researched the newspapers and legislative documents from 1871 through 1889 and had primary responsibility for examining the many sources that abound for the years since 1920. He made one of the most important contributions with his work on the Ku Klux Klan and the 74th General Assembly of 1925." The program conceived by Governor Paul McNutt in 1933, in which McNutt revolutionized state government, was also studied by Doherty, who also acted as first reader for chapters covering the years from 1930 to 1978.

History of the Indiana General Assembly, 1816 to 1978 is not the only historical book Doherty has contributed to. The two-volume Biographical Directory of the Indiana General Assembly, which contains sketches of more than 6,500 persons who have served in the Indiana legislature, also bears Doherty's mark.

Doherty is also co-author of a new 360-page paperback to be entitled Leadership in the Indiana General Assembly, 1816 to 1987. This book will contain a photograph and history of every Speaker of the House, President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and Lieutenant Governor in Indiana history. The book is scheduled for publication later this year.

Justin Walsh sums up Doherty's position as an Indiana historian, "Professor Doherty is one of two or three persons who know more about the history of Indiana legislature than anyone else alive. Of necessity, at the same time, he has gained expert knowledge about the history of Indianapolis."

Professor Doherty's distinguished reputation as an Indiana historian is a point of pride to all of us at Marian College.

LILLY SCHOLARSHIP

by Stacey Nicholas

Lilly Endowment Inc. announced that it will fund a $50 million scholarship program to help more Indiana students pursue higher education. This is the largest grant in the Lilly Endowment history.

The Lilly Endowment Educational Award Program (LEAP) is a gift to the people of Indiana in observance of the Endowment’s 50th anniversary.

LEAP provides assistance to some middle income families who may not qualify under state and federal aid. Additional assistance is also given to students who are receiving financial aid but who are still paying over half their educational assistance. The grant does not provide for students who are already receiving enough aid to pay approximately half their costs.

The average 1987 award will be $570. Marian students who have had their tuition increased by $400 next semester, can expect about 300-400 of their classmates to be assisted by this program, according to John Shelton, Director of Financial Aid.

Eligible students must be Indiana residents enrolling full-time as undergraduates in approved public or private schools of higher education. Students must have filled out a Financial Aid Form (FAP) by March 1. Award notices will be out in May.
A GEORGETOWN KIND OF MAN

By Brad Landwerlen

Scotty's Georgetown Lounge has recently become a favorite Thursday night hangout for Marian students (and why not - Thursday is Marian Night there), but who's the man behind this plan? Well, his name is John Anderson, although all of his regular customers call him Scotty. When he greets you, you can't help but notice that he speaks with a Scottish accent, and why shouldn't he considering that he was born and raised in Edinburgh, Scotland.

He moved to Chicago at the age of 18 in 1962, where he stayed for two years before moving to Indianapolis to obtain a position as a printer with the Indianapolis Star. Within his first two weeks working at the Star, fellow employees coined the nickname Scotty for him because of his accent, and today almost nobody calls him anything else. He was drafted into the army in 1969 and served two years for a country in which he wasn't even an official citizen (he became an official citizen four years ago). "I was stationed in Germany about 500 miles from my hometown, so at least I got to go home a few times and see my family," he added. In 1971 he returned to Indianapolis and his position at the Star where he worked until 1982 (a 20 year career there). He then became a househusband for two years before fulfilling his life-long dream of opening his own bar, which is a bar we've all grown to know and love - Scotty's Georgetown.

Scotty's favorite sport is soccer, which he played as a youngster in Scotland as well as 12 years here with the Indianapolis Soccer Club. He also enjoys bowling and playing darts, watching football (Chicago Bears, especially), baseball (White Sox, in particular), basketball (another I.U. fan), and the Indy 500, of course, where he still roots for good old #14, A.J. Foyt. Most of all, though, he enjoys spending as much time as possible with his wife, Judy, and his two children, Heather (13) and Jason (12). The rest of his extended family, however, still lives in Scotland.

Scotty's tastes range from Lowenbrau Dark, old time Rock and Roll, and Eddie Cochran to the more recent group Yes and singer Rod Stewart (who is also a major soccer fan and from Scotland). When asked for a statement for the students of Marian, he said "Don't leave school before you get a degree; if you do, you're a fool."

ORIGINALS. One of those scripts is used for a show with the author acting as the director and the other classmates filling in other production positions. There is a final cumulative show where the best script is chosen. Then the class votes on those who will serve as the production people.

On Thursdays, they have guest speakers. This gives the students another chance to learn from the experts.

Also, everyone is required to take an internship somewhere in Indianapolis. Tom O'Connell and Scott Reinhardt are working at Channel 59. Jeff Johns is at WTBI. Channel 4 is the proving ground for Deanna McIntire. Debbie Erven is at ASA Productions.

Kirby hopes that the class grows so that a concentration in television and broadcasting can be offered at Marian. She is also working on a six-week/six-credit internship that can be made available in the summer. The hope is that the internships will grow into a Senior project worth 15 credits, which would be more valuable for the job market.

STUDENT UNION UPDATE

Firm Selected For Feasibility Study

John Grenzenbach and Associates of Chicago has been selected to conduct the feasibility study related to Marian's readiness for a capital campaign. To do this, the consultants will measure such factors as the degree of community acceptance of Marian College and this project, the estimated donor support, the quality and organization of internal donor records, the adequacy of our development staffing, and the degree of support among college employees.
SCRATCH & SNIFF PAD

By Scratch and Sniff

of course!

Well guess what, did you know that S. (Scratch) B. and S.M. have something in common? Apparently both are cousins of the famous Betsy Wetsy. Both S.B. and S.M. were frollicking in the snow, on separate occasions. S.B. was witnessing P.B. sliding and turning down Suicide Hill. She lost control and swoosh, she was as wet as a puddle. S.M. had a similar experience except she was the one doing the sledding.

Some late night and you have the hungry horrors, try stopping by at the Canteen. Yes, S.B., C.C., and P.W. found out one evening that they could actually get food there even at midnight. If you ever become so adventurous as these three and do the same, don’t worry if you see M.C. security. They’ll come in and join you.

Okay, okay, this is for you K.I. We were instructed to let you know that D.J. does have some baggy shorts. We hope this makes you feel better.

Hey P.W. someone still has your socks and cups if you are ever wondering what happened to these precious items.

Alright enough of these late night visitors. P.T. who were you sneaking in to see on the girls’ side of Doyle last weekend?

By the way, S.K. some select few saw you!

Apparently Friday night J.H. had a try at smoking. Someone wants to ask her if she needs any more cigarettes. Just let us know and we’ll take care of you, J.H.

One last thought; hang in there S.E. we, unfortunately, are all suffering from the same syndrome.

FALL CALENDAR

by Michelle Scheidt

On Monday, February 2, the Executive Committee approved a proposal for the calendar for the Fall of 1987. After executive negotiations with department chairs, the fall schedule was modified because of the Pan Am Games which will be held in Indianapolis this summer.

Officials and timekeepers for the Games will be staying in Marian dormitories until August 27.

The calendar changes include the elimination of nine class days. The mid-term date was adjusted accordingly, and compensation will be given to resident students for room and board fees.

The highlights of the fall schedule include:

- Sept. 2-7 Registration
- Sept. 7 Evening classes begin
- Sept. 8 Day classes begin
- Oct. 15-18 Mid-term recess
- Oct. 21 Mid-term
- Nov. 25-29 Thanksgiving recess
- Dec. 14-18 Final examinations

The Cold Spring School has set up a recreational as well as vocational program for their students. They are setting up time for their students to swim over at Allison Mansion, but volunteer help is needed. If you would be interested in becoming involved with the mentally handicapped this is an excellent opportunity. For information, contact Joyce Johnstone at ext. 256. Her office is #10, located in Marian Hall basement.
GO KNIGHTS!!
by Jenna Morrow

On February 15, 5:30 p.m., at Market Square Arena, the Indianapolis Pacers will take on the Golden State Warriors. But the excitement doesn't stop there. After the Pacers game, the Marian Knights are going to walk all over the IUPUI Metro's. It's a combined effort by both athletic departments to raise money for each respective department's basketball scholarship fund.

Coach Grimes and IUPUI's coach had been working together for some time on a proposed basketball game alongside a Pacers game. The Pacers agreed to the proposal and the result is the upcoming game. Says Marian basketball player Mark Dehart, "I've always wanted to play there (Market Square Arena) and I'm really excited. I think it's great." Marian basketball player Scott Fleming also stated that the opportunity to play at Market Square Arena could interest prospective basketball players to attend Marian.

The regular price for a Pacers game is $11.00. The Pacers are giving half of the ticket price to Marian's basketball scholarship fund. "The idea of the ticket has been steady and is expected to pick up as the date draws nearer," stated Mr. Alan Lisle in College Relations. The Booster Club has also pitched in to try to "boost" sales even more. The first 100 students to buy a ticket will receive a free T-shirt. So show your spirit and come down to M.S.A. February 15 and watch the live excitement of the Pacers and the Knights.

MEN OVER IUS
by Denise Wleklnski

Rich Russell's 32-point effort led the Marian Knights to a 70-65 victory over the Indiana University Southeast Grenadiers on January 31. With 4:32 left in the game, Russell hit a three-point jumper to break a tie of 61 and put Marian on top for good. Russell was 12 for 14 from the line and turned in a fine performance all around. Scott "Vern" Fleming dished out 5 assists as well as putting in 9 points himself. A solid game was also recorded by David Back, with 14 points and 7 rebounds. For IUS, Rob Morris led the scoring with 17 points. The record for the Marian Knights now stands at 11-9.

INTRAMURALS COMPETE
by J.D., the real one

Well, here it is again. Another exciting, and action packed week of volleyball and basketball. My vote for the most unique names of the volleyball teams are: the Penthhouse Players, Who Knows, and Whatever. The Write Up Rebels project the best pre-game musical entertainment in the league's history. DWI, Bud Lite Crew, and the Bacchanalians sport the best records. Jean Markley has my vote as the player of last week. More balls bounce off her head than any other player in the league. Rumor has it that she actually did strike the ball that she saw with her hands ... not her head. Congrats! In Men's basketball, the unique 4 point shot has created a lot of interest. The player in 1st place with the most 4 point shots (and the biggest by the way) is Jim Poole leading Mike Kahler, followed closely by Kevin "Freakazoid" Hall, and Brian "Red Dawg" Daeger. The Staff Infection is the biggest surprise and could be spreading fast. Joven's Jero's has the most unique style. Monte's Pythons are not flying high since their wings have been clipped by the Running Rebels. Due to those who run Allison Mansion, recreational swim must be cancelled February 5.

LADY'S DEFEAT IUS
By Joanie Miller

The Marian College Lady Knights defeated IUS by a margin of 18 Saturday in the Marian College gym.

The Knights, with a balanced scoring attack led by Amy Beckham with 14 and Carla Beesler with 10, wore down the Grenadiers with their aggressive defense.

Contributing to the team effort were Kim Zeronik, who led Marian with 11 rebounds, and Terrill Reed, who pulled down nine.

The Lady Knights evened their record at 7-7, with their next home game being February 10. Come show your spirit!
STUDENT RECITAL

By Bob Bunting

This past Friday, the Marian College Music Department presented a student recital. Among those participating were Jeff Fearnlow, Jodie Robertson, Donna Mayer, Brian Ernstes, Karl Palma, Kierstan Hurst, Natalie Lake and Cindy Kopenec. All who participated performed well. Jodie Robertson was particularly outstanding. She performed "Planzo gems" by Antonio Vivaldi, Karl Palma also performed her piece "The Lord is My Shepherd" extremely well. Another favorite of the audience was Brian Ernstes' charismatic performance of "If With All Your Hearts" by Mendelssohn. A special thanks is also due to accompanists Sara Reid and Jacquelyn Stumpf.

Congratulations to all who participated! Hope to see all you there to support your fellow students at the next recital.

MOVIE REVIEW

WHERE NO SEQUEL HAS GONE BEFORE

by Pat Webb

A successful sequel to a successful movie is a rarity. Sequels to smash movies such as Smokey the Bear, Porky's, and Jaws were flops. For some reason, however, sequels were made to the sequels of all those movies, and they in turn bombed out at the box office. Not so, however, with Star Trek. The third sequel, Star Trek IV, has been released and is doing well, thank you very much, at the movie box offices everywhere.

The movie picks up where Star Trek III left off. The Star Trek gang are getting ready to leave Spock's home planet and go back to Earth. However, as always, there is a perilous danger awaiting them as they return to earth. A strange type of spaceship is sending out some weird sort of message to Earth, and if the message isn't answered...yes...you guessed it...the spaceship will eliminate all life on Earth.

So, after trying to decipher the message being sent out by the spaceship, Captain James T. Kirk and company discover that the message is in the form of noises made by whales, animals that have been extinct on Earth for years. The only thing left for the Star Trek crew to do is to go back in time to the year 1986 and try to bring back some whales before the spaceship destroys the Earth.

The movie becomes hilarious at this point because of the interactions between the Star Trek crew and the 1986 U.S. citizens. Mr. Spock's actions are particularly funny as he tries to hide his pointed ears and as he deals with a punk rocker on the bus.

The special effects in the movie are fantabulous, as they usually are in the Star Trek movies. There is a spectacular conclusion to the movie, but I'm not going to tell you what it is because I'm a little stinkner. You'll have to see for yourself.

So, I highly recommend that you save up your pennies, dimes, nickels and quarters, so you can go and see Star Trek IV. Even if you can't stand Star Trek movies, your money would be better spent there than if you used the money to buy a Bon Jovi album.

THE RACK RETURNS

by Scott Reinhardt

The Mug Rack has reopened under new management. Jim Uhlein and his wife Pam are the new owners of the establishment and plan to retain the Marian College Night every Thursday. Jim is also adding some new items to the existing menu, including meatball pizza. The Rack will also be open for lunch starting at 11 a.m. Monday Feb. 2, 1987. They will offer a lunchtime service to all those interested. Students are welcome all the time. There are several special plans Uhlein wants to add to the Rack. Check the chalkboard for Daily Specials. See you at the Rack...
1986: THE YEAR IN MUSIC

By Alex Lake and Pat Webb

In the year of music, 1986, there were some good albums and... a lot of albums that weren't worth their weight in AR2A food. The long-awaited Rolling Stones album, "Dirty Work," was finally released, but it was quickly discovered that Mick Jagger and company shouldn't have bothered. The long-awaited Genesis album, "Invisible Touch," was finally released and it was well worth the wait. Too bad the same can't be said for the extremely long-awaited Boston album, "Third Stage." Many Boston fans asked the question, 'This took eight years?' On the other hand, perhaps John Fogerty should have taken more time on his well-intentioned but hopelessly flawed album, "Eye of the Zombie." After Fogerty made a stunning comeback on 1985's "Centerfield," "Eye of the Zombie" was one of the biggest disappointments of the year. Although we're not disappointed in U2, we're very disappointed that we did not see a studio album from them this year. However, don't worry, the new U2 album is currently in production, or so say our sources at Rolling Stone. So, after many, many long hours of soul-searching, here our best and worst lists of the albums for 1986. If you don't like our choices, then voice your opinion by writing a letter to the Carbon. If you do like our choices, then you'll live long and prosper because you picked the RIGHT choices!

The Best:
1. Graceland-Paul Simon
2. So-Peter Gabriel
3. True Stories-Talking Heads
4. Lifes Rich Pageant-R.E.M.

5. Standing on a Beach:
   The Singles-The Cure
6. Invisible Touch-Genesis
7. S150-Van Halen
8. Whiplash Smile-Billy Idol
9. Bruce Springsteen & the E-Street Band: Live 1975-85
10. Emerson, Lake, & Powell-Emerson, Lake, & Powell

The Worst:
1. Heartbeat-Don Johnson
2. Night Songs-Cindarella
3. Falco 3-Falco
4. Primitive Love-Miami Sound Machine
5. Dancing Undercover-Ratt
6. Slippery When Wet-Bon Jovi
7. Mean Business-The Firm
8. Parade-Prince
9. Dirty Work-Rolling Stones
10. Eat 'em and Smile-David Lee Roth

We did have comments to go along with our worst list, but in the interest of time and space we'll confine our comments to these: We felt that Bon Jovi and Ratt albums were teeny-bopper, bubble-gum, heavy metal trash; The Firm, in the tradition of so many dinosaur bands, should become extinct; The Rolling Stones should start thinking about social security; Don Johnson should stick with acting; and we wonder how Falco and the Miami Sound Machine even got on the radio. We are hoping that 1987 will be better. (Note: On both lists, the first five albums were choices of Alex and the last five were choices of Pat.)

GOOD-BYE DEB

By Sheri Bernat and Corinne Collings

When you walk down the Ist floor of Marian Hall and glance into the office of Student Services, you always see a smiling face... this isn't the Dean. However, you will not see this smiling face as of February 6, 1987. Deb Hall, secretary of Dean Woodman, who helped with housing and disciplining students for one and one half years, is leaving Marian College for a better opportunity. She will have the title Administrative Assistant at Capital Drilling, located on 86th and Zionsville Rd. When asked if she had any last comments, she said she will miss working with the Dean and the students and that she'll miss this wonderful college. They are interviewing people for the replacement, but have not had any luck yet.
