Admissions begins work early

Although the new freshman has been on campus for only six weeks, the Admissions Office has already actively begun its recruiting drive for next year's freshman class. In an interview with Gary Yohler, Director of Admissions, he revealed his plans for enrolling a new freshman class and the problems involved with it.

"College admissions recruiting is getting more difficult each year," Yohler said. He cited many factors which are affecting enrollment in almost every college. The main factors is that fewer students are choosing college as an option upon graduation. Students are electing to work for a year before enrolling, choosing instead vocational and technical schools, or attending junior and community colleges. For the first time in higher educational history, more students are enrolled in junior and community colleges than in all four-year institutions combined. Low costs and curriculum offerings are two main reasons he cited for students selecting these schools. The second class image was often identified with community and junior colleges is no longer present, and many students, unsure of any vocational choice, see these colleges as an "alternative" to a higher costing, four-year college or university.

Mr. Yohler again pointed out, however, that these circumstances are not unique to Marian's enrollment, but that practically all private and state colleges share these same obstacles.

Mr. Yohler was quite enthusiastic about working toward next year's class. He is very pleased with the two new assistants who accepted positions in the Admissions Office this year. Bill Russell, a recent graduate of Purdue University, brings solid work experience with him. Paul Hammeister, the other new member of the admissions staff, earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Indiana State University.

During the summer months, the Admissions Office plans the travel schedules for the upcoming school year, works on publications, conducts interviews and tours, works on the incoming students to handle any last-minute problems they might have.

Data is collected from the past year's activities, new inquiries and other sources of student information and with this data, priorities are established. During October, November, and December, we need about twenty counselors to be in the right place at the right times," Mr. Yohler said. "It is these months that most students seek information on colleges and it is just physically impossible to visit all of our schools in these three months. Timing and coordination of College Days, College Nights, and high school visits are crucial.

Mr. Yohler stressed the enviable position that Marian College has among private colleges. "Our cost, size, "co-education," location, faculty and staff, and the students we have, certainly make us a marketable and viable product," he noted. That private colleges which have closed in the past have had one or more of these characteristics missing. "Presently enrolled students are our best salesman and saleswomen. When we visit high schools and talk with counselors and students, both groups of people have mentioned that the students at Marian were the friendliest, most candid, and most helpful of the students on any campus they had visited."

Mr. Yohler said students are going to be utilized more and more this year in admissions recruiting. Tours, high school visits, letter writing, semester break programs, reference and additional follow-up methods are some of the ways in which our students will be invited to participate. "Anytime any Marian student wants us to contact another student who may be interested in attending Marian, he is encouraged to notify the Admission Office on a continuing basis.

Costume dance held Tuesday

Sponsored by the Senior class, the annual Sade Hawkins Halloween dance will be held October 31 from nine p.m. to midnight in the Claire Hall Old Main Lounge. L'Ih Abner and Daisy Mae will be crowned after the final voting, held at the dance, is tabulated. Representatives from each class will be selected from voting to be held by each class sometime this week.

Providing music for the evening will be America. Games are planned with prizes awarded to the winners. Special prizes will also be awarded for the best costume.

Sister Therese.

The filmstrips, some with cassette tape tracks, number more than 30 in Art, 80 in Home Economics, 20 in Geography and History, 50 in biology, and 10 in literature. The Art filmstrips encompass the entire set of the Civilization series by Kenneth Clark. Students in the Humanities classes can review the slides used in class for retesting by requesting any group of the 480 slides, that accompany the current class topic. One hundred sixty reel to reel tapes cover 80 musical topics and 70 theological areas. The 10 remaining reel tapes deal with history, particularly China.

"If there is one thing that any of the cassette tapes or any of the 300 records of classical music can be checked out by the students," said Sister Therese. "We do not permit the equipment to be removed from the library. However, anyone who has a cassette player of his own may use the tape. He is responsible for the tape when he brings it back to the library. The student then becomes responsible for the tape just as he is for a book," she went on to explain.

Sister Therese believes that expansion of A-V aids in education reflects a need for an added convenient, inexpensive means of student instruction. "Most of the tapes last from 20 to 30 minutes—that means they can be listened to in a single sitting. The study-mates can be set up anywhere. And in the case of The Civilization series particularly the cost is much less than a full length film," she added.

Speaking generally of the library, Sister Therese reported that new books are constantly coming in. Some books are on display in the cases and on the tables next to the catalogue. These books are always anxious to have suggestions on how to improve our services. Particularly this time we would be more than happy for suggestions and help in formulating themes for the display cases."

Seniors to get help in job search

Many graduating seniors from colleges and universities are encountering a great deal of difficulty finding satisfactory employment. "In trying to enhance your possibility for finding a good job it is being to a thorough, well-planned approach," Mr. Yohler warned. Several placement conferences for seniors have been scheduled to help them in the right direction.

The conferences are scheduled at different times in an attempt to make the service available to as many seniors as possible. "These conferences, tips on who to contact for a job, how to contact them, what to bring with you to the job interview, and how to construct a resume and a credentials file will be given. Opportunities will be presented to the Placement Office, indicating your job preference, will also be available. Several top businesses have come to the attention of the Placement Office, they will be contacting those seniors who would qualify. Seniors should plan to attend one of these conferences. They will be held in the Library Auditorium at the times:

Thursday, December 7
12:30 - 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday, December 13
11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Len Schmelkin hosts first Jewish breakfast

Last Sunday was the sight of another first here at Marian Col-le. Len Schmelkin, one of the few members of the Jewish de-légation, planned and paid for a whole Jewish breakfast as well as a most sincere service. The break-fast and service took place at 10:00 in the morning and was o-pered only to the members of the second floor wing.

It was opened most reverently by Bob Morse, and then given to Rabbi Eddie Krusa who spoke most profoundly on Obitvity. Revs. Tom Sluss and Ken Hor-bach spoke on the promises of a new peaceful relationship with the Jews on the second floor middle wing. The service was ended by Harold Darl who was honored because of his profound words.

The breakfast following con-sisted of: lox, cream cheese, bag-lies, and coffee. The whole floor was present for this great occa-sion except for a few atheist members of the floor. Ken Tyr- n was asked by the whole service and anyone wishing to hear it can contact Len. Len was gleaning his sh y Jewish smile as the ser-vice ended in room 204, Sunday morning. Shalom.

1972-73 varsity cheerleaders chosen

Cheerleaders Debi Yunker, Patty Baumer, Janet Kitchen (back row), Cheryl Walls and Barb Gulling (front row) will see that enthusiasm and spirit are kept high during upcoming Knight’s games.

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Israel Mollenbar, is continuing its 1972-73 Concert Series at both the Murat Temple and Clowes Hall.

Interested students may attend these concerts at reduced rates. Single tickets are available from $3 to $6 and will be on sale through the Box Office in Clowes Hall. The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra will allow a 25% student discount on single admission tickets. Students should present their ID cards at the box office to purchase their concert ticket for 25% less than face value.

The next performance will be October 26-27 at the Clowes Hall, Tom Krause, Finland’s great baritone will perform the Italiana premiere of Samuel Barber’s, “The Lovers”.

The Marian students, as a part of the Literary Work, has been established since 1943, serves the Marian community as a permanent record of quality literary and artistic works by students and faculty, whereas the PHOENIX and the CARBON present information, the FIORETTI in its unbroken tradition, has been, and continues to be, the expression of artistic abilities on campus.

The FIORETTI editors ran approximately one hundred dollars over their current budget of $1,400 which has been cut down from $1,800. This year’s editors are adhering to their budget, without cheating the publication or impairing its competitiveness with other campus publications. The major cost is in printing, not in the paper, and Sherry and Ellen are striving to get lower bids for the printing in order to stay within their budget. Printing has to be done off campus because of the lack of facilities for this procedure at Marian.

The major work of the editors is collecting contributions from students and teachers. Presently the income of articles is running about average. By the time the publication deadline arrives, more material is expected to be received than needed, so cutting some of the materials submitted is done.

The editors feel that the campus community does have a favorable attitude toward the FIORETTI. Reviews of later editions of the book have been favorable. There is never an excess of the publication so apparently the students as well as the faculty do read and make use of the FIORETTI.

Current freshman English teachers have presented the book to their varied classes with the function and purpose of the literary work, as well as its appreciation.

The Symphony will return to Clowes Hall on December 7 and 8 to host another violinist, Miriam Fried.

Another concert of the season which may be of interest to students, Gary Graftman will appear at Clowes Hall on December 14. This concert is a reissue of the modern flavor of this man as expressed through his electric piano has been described as a rare but fascinating experience.

Wazuri undefeated; two tied for second

Mary Beth Blankman

As competition increases, the number of undefeated teams has narrowed to four. The defending champs, Wazuri. Formally unbeaten Volumptuous Volliers were presented their first defeat by Gagen’s Gangsters Monday night. In other matches, Clan­ish Farm Outs stole the game from Volley of the Dolls, 3M jumped over Squatly and Friends and the Blue Yarn easily defeated the Red Hot Mamas. 8-pak Plus One For The Road gave the Marsh-Mellows another defeat. In the Main Ingredient outdist Vast and Wasei; Wasei received two L&M. The Indiana Bombers and Brad X each received a loss by forfeiting their games and Bruno’s Raiders forfeited their game to the Yarns.

The main event Wednesday night was the Blue Yarn against 8-pak Plus One For The Road—two strong senior teams with 8-pak proving to be the better team after a couple tough games. In other contests, East Wing rose over Volley of the Dolls, the Main Ingredient smashed Squatly and Friends, and L&M was hotter than the Indiana Bombers. The Vol­ lumpptuous Volliers successfully recovered from their defeat to sneak by the Snatchers, the Marsh­ Mellows overpowered Brand X, Gagen’s Gangsters breezed by Flie schel’s Farm Outs, and 3M added to their victories by coming out on top of the Red Hot Ma­ mas. Bruno’s Raiders handed out another forfeiture, this time to Wa­ zuri.

With the season more than half over the standings are:

1. Wazuri (10-0).
2. Volumptuous Volliers and Ga­ gen’s Gangsters (9-1).
3. Blue Yarn and 8-pak Plus One For the Road (8-2).
4. Marsh-Mellows (7-3).
5. 3M.
6. Snatchers and The Main Ingre­ dient (5-5).
7. L&M and Indiana Bombers (4-6).
8. Squatly and Friends (3-7).
9. Volley of the Dolls, Flie schel’s Farm Outs, Brand X, and East Wing (2-6).
10. Red Hot Mamas and Bruno’s Raiders (1-9).

Lords, Rangers, Gods, and War emerge victorious

by Ken Hornback

LORDS 44
BUTT 6

The defending champion Lords kicked Butt's butt all over the field as they scored almost at will in a gigantic 44-6 romp over the younger sophomore team.

Paul Gerth, initiating the massacre with an interception return, and ever open Jay Farrell, scoring on a pass play, were the half heroes as the Lords jumped out to a 13-0 lead.

But Joey Kuzmitz hit flamboyant Fran Ketter with a 35 yard scoring pass to make it 13-6 at intermission. Ketter never would have scored if it hadn't been for a great illegal block thrown by Rick "cheap shot" Martin.

Whatever advice coach John Purcell gave to his team at half time, it surely worked as The Lords, flashing their championship caliber, poured it on for five touchdowns after intermission. J. Farrell, seizing every opportunity for glory, caught two touchdowns and threw to Pat Zapp for another in a brilliant display. Coyt Walters, playing with vengeance against his old team, caught a pass and intercepted a lateral for the other two scores. Coach Purcell, in a charitable display on the part of his teammates, was graciously allowed to tally the extra point.

All kidding aside, the Lords are a fine team, and it looks like there may be no stopping them in their quest for the championship.

Butt, it is rumored, will go into hiding and lick their wounds for a week, coming out ready to play in their next appearance.

LONE RANGERS 27
ELDERS 6

The Lone Rangers, for the fifth straight week playing without the services of their faithful companion Tonto, who is rumored to be involved in a bitter dispute with the management over arrows, pulled all the stops to pop the freshman Elders by a 27-6 count.

Ken Tyrell hit Dan Hayden with two touchdown tosses in the first half to spark the Rangers, while Tom Schroth hit "Long Name" Langenbrunner with a paydirt toss for the Elders lone T.D. It was 13-6 at popcorn time.

Tyrell and Vince Ryan gathered in scoring bombs from Ken Aust and coupled with extra points by "Mean" Dean Morgan, "Freight Train" Ellinger made the final score 27-6.

WAR 12
TRUCKERS 0

Alex Karason, according to Alex Karason, was the star of the game as he ran 70 yards for one score and passed to Calvin Mitchell for another in a relative low scoring 12-0 game.

Referee Tom Slass stopped a near brawl at the end of the game and when this authoritative tug-of-impartiality was asked to comment he said, "I dare anybody to punch me out."

John Klemens anchored the Truckers defensive line, while no one anchored their offense.

Mike Wilcox started for War.

OFFENSIVE PLAYER - In a very close race, Alex Karason, by virtue of his birthing the committee with an offer they could not refuse, was awarded offensive player of the week. Seriously, for a War team that could surprise, if the right conditions prevail.

DEFENSIVE PLAYER - Coyt Walters intercepted a Butt pitch-out and turned on that 9.5 speed to go all the way for a score against his former teammates. This pitchout, thrown by his best friend and opposing teammate Joe Kuzmitz, looks suspicious and will certainly be investigated by the commissioner's office.
