Marian College president resigns

Official resignation tendered

by Stacey Nicholas

Doctor Louis C. Gatto, President of Marian College, formally announced his resignation at Tuesday's Open Forum. The resignation becomes effective at the end of the 1988-1989 academic year.

The second lay president of the college, Gatto has served the community since 1971.

Gatto cites the "overall progress of the college in all areas -- student services, community services, and recompletion programs" as Marian's greatest achievements in the past eighteen years. He believes that to retire now seems timely because the college has embarked on an extensive strategic planning process in which the new president should be involved.

Having served three terms as the chairman of the Independent Colleges and Universities of Indiana, Gatto has worked with the Indiana Commission for Higher Education and the General Assembly on issues significant to higher education. He has served on a variety of state and local associations and committees.

In 1980, then Governor Otis R. Bowen made Gatto a "Sagamore of the Wabash" (please see RESIGNATION on page 6)

A colleague comments

by Sr. Margareta Black

The announcement was brief and well crafted. It was gently spoken and delivered with that calm, simple dignity which reflects the man himself. Yet, Dr. Gatto's announcement of intent to retire from the presidency of Marian College carried a message that encapsulates an era in the history of the college, as well as in the life of an individual. Each living, gradually unfolding story has intimately and profoundly affected the other. It is right, therefore, to identify the president with the institution during the span of years of his tenure. Moreover, there are enduring traits formed by this relationship which will remain identifiable throughout Marian's future. It is a legacy of considerable merit.

It is easy to recognize that Lou Gatto is a family man. His companionship with, pride in and concern for his wife and children are traits that carry over to his awareness of the community of persons that comprise Marian College. He often put himself in the perspective of a typical parent when considering college costs, viable programs, and opportunities to move forward professionally. His open-door policy and availability by telephone often allowed access to anyone who wished to transact business or engage in friendly conversation.

As a personal preference Dr. Gatto avoids ostentation. In his first year he quietly vetoed an inauguration ceremony, indicating that to him it was unnecessary show and expense to the college. Each year at graduation, he was reminded to wear the large medallion of office. It was not a thing he relished doing. Also, his office accommodations have remained essentially the same over 18 years. Yet, through his continual efforts with the State Legislature, with Lilly Endowment, with Associated Colleges of Indiana, and with private donors, he has increased funds available for higher education in general and Marian College in particular.

Dr. Gatto's fondness for "old things" is well known. These include Old English, early American antiques, and writing his papers and correspondence in longhand with pen or pencil. Yet, in the realm of ideas he propelled Marian College from the 70's with its declining enrollments, fiscal uncertainty and generally set curriculum, through the 80's. He carefully assessed and tried to secure the traditional values of Marian's heritage as Catholic, Franciscan and liberal arts. At
Letters to the Editor

Alcohol Awareness Week

I would like to extend a big THANK YOU to those students who took part in the National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week (NCAAW). Those of us on the NCAAW committee were particularly excited about the turn-out for the conversation on Wednesday. I also would like to thank all the faculty and staff who encouraged student involvement in this program.

As a direct result of NCAAW and expressed student interest, there will be an Al-Anon organizational meeting on Wednesday, November 9, at 8 p.m. in the Transition Center -- all are welcome. Al-Anon is a national support group for “significant others” of those with an alcohol/drug problem.

I would also like to extend an invitation to any students or faculty interested in joining the NCAA committee -- we could really use your input! There are some exciting projects we’d like to consider as a follow-up to NCAAW. In addition, we’re anxious to begin gearing up for NCAAW 1989. In 1989 we hope to continue exploring responsible choices regarding alcohol use, and involve the community (Marian College, Indianapolis) to a greater extent.

If you have an interest in becoming part of the NCAA committee, please contact me at 929-0317.

Thank you Carbon

In the name of the Sisters of St. Francis I would like to thank the staff of the Carbon for your “St. Francis at Marian” pages in the October 6th issue. We take a vital interest in Marian and are wanting to make this interest and concern known to all on campus.

Only recently I was surprised to learn that a member of the Board of Trustees was not aware that the Sisters of St. Francis own Marian College. Hopefully, coverage such as you provided might make this a better known fact.

Thank you for sending the Carbon weekly. I do faithfully read it.

May peace and all good be yours.

General Councilor

Family Day

I would like to express my appreciation to everyone who helped make the Family Day celebration last weekend the success it was. To Ellen Frommeyer, Kent Cook, and their Student Committee, it was refreshing to see their enthusiastic approach to planning and organizing the fledging program.

My thanks also to Sara Reid and the Marian Chorale, Beth Taylor and the cast of Taming of the Shrew, Gail Nelson, ARA Services, Dr. Bob Phillips and the faculty members who actively participated, and the many other persons and offices who fulfilled key roles. It was, indeed, a pleasure to experience this team approach to a major project and see it come off so well.

Correction

Please note the following correction to your story “MCSA Discusses Student Complaints” in the 20 October issue of the Carbon. The statements concerning the Biology Dept. are incorrect.

In Academic Affairs, the BI 125 Human Anatomy and Physiology course was approved to be upgraded to BI 156 so it will count as a major course for Biology majors. Also, the title of the present course BI 200 Physiology has been changed to Cell Physiology.

It should be noted that these changes have not yet been approved by College Council. Feel free to call me or refer to the Academic Affairs Committee Report to College Council for further information.

Senior Profile

by Michael Rinard

Two best friends, different parts of the United States, how do they do it? I asked Sheri Bernat who hails from Valparaiso, Indiana, and Corinne Collings who hails from the far east coast of Salem, New Hampshire, how they had adjusted to life at Marian College.

Sheri said, “I like a small college. You get more personal attention. It’s a homier atmosphere.” Cori, who looked before she decided to attend Marian, commented, “I liked the people. It has smaller classes where your teachers are more helpful and willing to help you.”

Why would anyone from a small town in snow country want to attend a small midwestern school? Cori said, “I was looking for a small Catholic, co-ed school, out of state, so I could expand my horizons. The congenial and pleasant people of Marian were my deciding factor.” “I wanted to get away from home was my main reason in deciding to attend Marian,” said Sheri. “The smallness of Marian would give me the attention I needed, and the people were great!”

Both Cori and Sheri have been active the past four years. They were regular writers for the Carbon; their column was entitled “Scratch and Sniff.” When asked why they chose that title they replied, “We needed a name for the column. It really wasn’t a gossip column. Besides, I’ve been called ‘Scratch’ for years and we just needed to add something else to it, so it became Scratch and Sniff.” Other joint activities include Golden Knights, Flag Corp, and intramurals. Cori is Student Government Treasurer; Sheri has been active in Girls’ Softball and is Chairman of the Elections Committee.

Their goals for the future are as varied as they are. While Sheri wants to become involved in government and work for Foreign Affairs, have a bar called Scratch, and live in Arizona because she likes the climate, Cori wants to move back to the East (a fact which does not make Sheri happy!) and become an industrial accountant, own an island, a Jeep, a Honda, and a BMW.

Student opinion survey analyzed

by Donna Sanders

The recent Student Opinion Survey conducted last March listed the results of students’ satisfaction and dissatisfaction concerning academic and non-academic programs and services at Marian.

As the third survey in the past four years, these results showed improvements over the last survey and significant improvements over the first survey administered in April 1985.

Over 300 students participated representing certain demographic groups of the school. Demographic groups such as male/female; commuter/resident; class ranking, etc. decided the overall level of satisfaction at Marian ranged in the 80-89 percentile.

The items that satisfied Marian’s students were the quality of instruction outside the major, faculty availability to discuss classwork outside of class, overall learning environment, discussion opportunities in class, and admissions services. The items ranked below 70% were personal safety on grounds and residential student parking.

As for the demographic groups, high ranking students and commuter students were critical of the library. Commuters also felt there was little opportunity to socialize or a place to study.

Upperclassmen were critical of academic advising. All groups were dissatisfied with contract meals, dorm facilities and services, and as the student body is becoming more participative, they are still disappointed in the campus social life.

Dean of Student Services, Bill Woodman, was encouraged with the gradual improvements of the program offices and administration. The progress of the Transition Center since it has started pleased Woodman as did the career counseling program and placement service.

His concerns were placed on maintenance services, understaffed offices, campus security, and counselor ratio to students.

Woodman and Dr. Faye Plascak, who scored and analyzed the surveys, announced that the overall results were generally favorable, but focused on the lower satisfaction of the demographic groups.

The purpose of the survey is to provide a systematic way to obtain proper feedback from Marian’s commuter and resident students. In the long range, the surveys given to students will aid the school by providing feelings of the student body in order to concentrate and develop the areas of dissatisfaction.
Lighter side

by Michael Rinard

This week we salute those "simply marvelous" chefs employed by ARA Foods at Camp "M". It is only through their dedication and hard work that we campers enjoy their cuisine masterpieces.

When Chef Julia Adult was asked what she had prepared for her entree in the National ARA Cuisine Contest, she replied that she had cooked up a scrumptious Raisin Pie. (Now we know what the dessert was for dinner last Sunday evening.) Julia stated that cooking was her life, and she really enjoyed cooking for the cafe.

A "delicious" Baked Beanie Weenie Casserole won Chef Wolf-puck Gang his International title as Supreme Head Chef of the World. When asked where he derived his inspiration for his talent he replied, "My dear sister taught me everything I know about cooking down on the Bayou. I love cooking Cajun."

Not to be out-performed in the kitchen is Chef Wilson J. Justin, who hails from that great potato state of Wyoming. Chef Wilson's masterpieces includes Turkey-Broccoli Roll-ups, Macaroni and Cheese, Western Omelets, Salad Bar, and, last but not least, his famous Buffalo Wings. All of these delicious and wholesome recipes can be found in his first International Cookbook on sale now at the Camp "M" bookstore for only $99.95 plus tax. Be sure to reserve your copy today.

As we leave this happy group of Chefs, let us remember those immortal words: "Bon Appetit/A Bientot!"

Marshall Gregory to speak English

by Mary Pedtke

On Friday, Nov. 4, the English Club will be sponsoring a "Luncheon Discussion with Marshall Gregory." The discussion will begin at noon and will last an hour. It will be located in the West Dining Room.

Gregory is an English professor for Butler University and is becoming increasingly well known for his writings and lectures on the purpose of a Liberal Arts Education.

The college community is invited to join in the discussion. This is a discussion and not a lecture, so participants are asked to read Gregory's article, "Ethical Criticism and Liberal Education, The Pedagogical Connection," and come prepared with a few challenging questions for Gregory.

Stacey Nicholas, President of the English Club, says that, "We're real lucky to get Gregory, especially since this topic was a hot item of discussion last year."

If you have any questions or are interested in obtaining a copy of this article, contact Nicholas at ext. 170 or Dr. Ray Craig at ext. 295.

Commentary

by Lucinda Griner

While walking by the switchboard you might notice the decorations that were put up for Halloween are missing. These decorations had worked to put us all in the holiday spirit.

On the evening of October 19th, Joseph Ryan, controller, had the switchboard operator take down the decorations, saying that it went overboard.

A reliable source quoted Ryan as saying, "It looks like a kindergarten in here," referring to Eva Nowlin's decorations. Nowlin does this for the students. It is sad to see someone in administration, again, taking something away from the students.

"I think it made us look like we were in the spirit. I'm not in a box yet. I like to have a little fun," stated an appreciator of the decorations. Several people walking by the switchboard stopped and inquired about the missing spirit of the season.

Nowlin has been decorating for at least 8 years now. Why is she asked to stop? Certainly not from students complaints.

The order came from Ryan. When confronted with why he made this decision, he stated that the switchboard was a business office of the college, and it should be businesslike.

As the Business Manager and controller, Ryan is in charge of financial matters, so where does he get off thinking he has the power to tell people how to decorate their offices? What will he do next...tell everyone what kind of deodorant to wear?!?
Sisters of St. Francis  Mission and Philosophy

MINISTRY - MISSION STATEMENT

"As women of the church gifted with and faithful to our Franciscan heritage, we, the Oldenburg Franciscan Sisters, led by the Spirit in living the Gospel, accept the challenge to further the mission of Jesus today by working for justice, reconciliation and peace."

In furthering this Congregational VISION AND DREAM, we strive to reflect in our lives and our service the love and cooperation which should animate the larger community, the entire people of God. THEREFORE:

"To the extent that anyone does not feel that he or she participates, to that extent we are failing"
Sr. Norma Rocklage, 9/27/88

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT:

WE STRIVE TO REFLECT IN OUR LIVES AND IN OUR SERVICE OUR BELIEF that collaborative ministry is the essential component of furthering our Gospel mission. Together, we endeavor to recognize signs of the times; we also challenge one another to venture into new, creative responses to ever-changing needs. Keenly aware of the pain, brokenness and prevailing grief in our society, especially on the part of the poor, oppressed, and alienated persons, we feel especially called to the ministry of reconciliation at every level of society. We desire to be concretely responsive to the ever-present issues of peace and justice, and, with other church, religious and civic communities, we dare to challenge any contemporary values and practices which are contrary to the Gospel.

WE STRIVE TO REFLECT IN OUR LIVES AND IN OUR SERVICE OUR BELIEF that intimate relationship with our God calls us to responsible stewardship: to delight with all creation, in reverence for persons, in responsible use of the earth's resources and in freely sharing the gifts entrusted to us with those in need and less fortunate.

In summary, we believe that our VISION AND JOURNEY is not a solitary endeavor; rather, it is one that involves a community of persons with unique personalities and of diverse backgrounds in religious traditions, life-style and ministerial experiences. This common VISION AND JOURNEY can only be achieved, fostered and sustained through an active care, concern, and respect for one another and by trust, friendship, and mutual support. The SHARED VISION AND JOURNEY further demands a commitment on the part of each of us to place first those values which promote the dignity of each person within our sponsored institutions, thus enabling them to achieve the fullness of their personhood. In this way, we hope to make present in our lives the love of the Incarnate God, who said, "I have come that they may have life and have it more abundantly."

Student response to sponsorship statement solicited

Marian College, along with the Immaculate Conception Academy and the Motherhouse, are owned and sponsored by the Sisters of St. Francis, Oldenburg. Over the past month Sr. Norma Rocklage, OSF, has addressed an open forum and a student government meeting to explain the “spirit” which they intend to imbue the institutions they sponsor. In the name of all the Sisters she has declared that the “gospel values are non-negotiable” and that, except that the college is imbued with the distinctive spirit which enables it to contribute to the broad community and world, Marian College would be without its reason for being.

You are invited to comment on the ministry-mission and philosophy statements on a separate sheet of paper and return those suggestions to Sr. Claire’s office at your earliest convenience. The point is to determine how are we living (showing or accomplishing) this vision and mission now and what might we do to better live it.
Suffer the children...
by Bill Pedtke, Sr.

As I get older, and take more time to get to know more people, sometimes I'm shocked at how many people suffer-and how much. In fact, I'm surprised sometimes that some people can put one foot in front of the other, or make it to the next second, to make it through the day. Even if you really want to help, many times it's hard to know what to do. It's interesting that even if your advice was terrible, you did help simply because you took the time to listen and try. And that seems to be what gives everyone dignity. I saw you suffer, I didn't ignore it, and with all my heart I tried. I think that might be everything. We can't solve all the problems, but we can be the kind of person who tries to help. And that can be a very definite thing. We all know the horrors of starvation in Bangladesh, Sudan, Nepal, etc. The problems are so awful that most of us need to turn off the TV because it seems so hopeless. They need our help so badly, but more than that we need to be the kind of people who will try to help.

I'm organizing a fund raising effort toward helping these people, through the department of Theology and Philosophy.

I did this for Cambodian refugees a few years ago, and I was amazed at the response of Marian people. In two days, I was able to advance about $400 to Fr. Hesburgh, President of Notre Dame, who was a key figure in the operations of Catholic Relief Services in these areas. I want to raise $1000 and I will again use this very direct routing of funds to the Catholic Relief Services through Fr. Malloy, the new president of Notre Dame.

I have $27.42 left from my last check, and I'm starting out with that. Let's share something even if it hurts a little. After all, as Christians we know that all human beings are in some way our good buddies--and as Christians, we have no choice but to struggle to be the kind of person who would try to help. And as Christians, we can afford to be like little children with our things and the risks we take.

Bring any funds to Room 212 or give them to any member of the department in the hall. It will be placed into an account in the business office until we get our $1000. You will see how we're doing in the Carbon. The check will be mailed in your name.

Auto stolen from campus
by Tina M. Kunkler

"I feel a lot less safe. I never felt that my entire car would get stolen," commented Jennifer Richart, Resident Director of Doyle Hall, when questioned about the recovery of her car.

The 1982 maroon Chevrolet Malibu was stolen by Richart on Oct. 20, 1988. It had last been seen in the south parking lot of Doyle Hall. Security Chief Roy VanArsdale filed a report at 2:30 p.m. and proceeded to contact the Indianapolis Police Department.

The vehicle was recovered Saturday morning at 1817 Dexter Avenue by IPD. The damages include a broken rear vent window, a missing hubcap, and the steering column ignition switch had been popped out.

VanArsdale suspects the theft of Richart's car to be connected with two stolen vehicles recovered on campus that same week. A 1988 silver Buick four-door was found at 1:30 a.m. Thursday. The vehicle was discovered with the motor running near the space where Richart's car had been parked. Officer Vern Katz, MCPD, investigated and proceeded to contact IPD, which found the car to have been stolen and came to recover it.

A black IROC belonging to senior Allen Riggs had been found in the same vicinity on October 19, 1988. It had been stolen from Rigg's residence at Seven Trails Apartments, 30th Street.

VanArsdale said that security will increase patrols of the Doyle lots and new lighting will be installed on the roof of the hall to illuminate the lots. VanArsdale commented, "It is not unusual for thieves to park one stolen car and take another."
Lady Knights slamming 'em
by Stephen Tweddell

The Lady Knights are one hot volleyball team. They have won six games in a row, including four impressive wins in the Manchester Tourney this past Saturday.

Their first match against Tri-State, won by forfeit 15-1, 15-0, advanced them to face Purdue-Calumet.

Amy Beckham led the Lady Knights in kills with eight, followed by Terrill Reed, five; Sharon Effinger, four; Kateri Amberger, two; and Julie Herbstrieth contributed one. Kelli Via contributed twelve assists and Melissa Brisco added six more as the Ladies cruised to a pair of easy 15-6 wins.

Head coach Molly Totten said, "We thought Purdue-Cal would be our toughest competition. We went in ready and destroyed them."

In the second game of the day, the Knights faced Manchester and won easily 15-1 and 15-4. Reed and Beckham led the team in kills with eight and six, Kate Murphy, Donna Wetzel, Jodi Yonts Effinger, and Herbstrieth each had two kills to help the team win. Via turned in fourteen assists and Brisco had five.

The Lady Knights also defeated St. Francis 15-2 and 15-8. Reed pitched in four kills; Wetzel and Murphy each had three kills; Effinger and Beckham contributed two kills each to help the Lady Knights win. Via added eleven assists and Brisco aided the victory with five.

Through a good team effort the Lady Knights then went on to defeat DePauw 15-13, 15-11.

The Ladies are 23-7 for the year with games against Oakland City and University of Indianapolis forthcoming.

Basketball team opens season
by Jeff Redenbaugh

The men's basketball team is looking tough this season. Coach John Grimes says that his goal this year is "to win the Mid-Central Conference and get into the NAIA District 21 play-offs and possibly win it."

Grimes believes that the toughest competition will come from Grace and Bethel. He also anticipates a strong season for the Knights and he will be upset if it does not happen.

"We have a good group of freshmen this year," Grimes comments.

There are two scrimmages remaining this year at Marian; November 5 against IUPUI, and November 8 against Depauw. The Knights open their season at home-coming against St. Francis on November 12 at 2 p.m.

The Knights added one more game to this year's schedule. It will be played at Market Square Arena on January 6, 1989, at 4 p.m. before the Indianapolis Pacers play the Los Angeles Clippers. The Knights plan to defeat IUPUI in their match.
Rape prevention meeting

by Raymond List

Rape prevention measures were the subject of a presentation in Clare Hall Lounge last Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. Detectives Rich Stevens and Linda Roeschlein of the Indianapolis Police Department reviewed methods to improve personal security on campus.

The detectives asserted that men commit rape out of a desire to control another person not out of sexual desire. The background of a rapist can vary from the "tough teenager from the poor side of town" to the "nice, well-dressed young man who lives next door." In other words, any man might be a rapist.

Two thirds of all rapes are committed by acquaintances, relatives, or dates. "Be cautious," advised the detectives. Never walk or jog alone. When walking, walk with confidence. Avoid being alone whenever possible. Always lock your house and your car. When going to your car, have your keys ready and check the car before getting in. Keep in mind that you are always a potential victim and that any man is a potential rapist.

If you are in a possible rape situation try to remain calm. Do not beg and plead with the rapist for mercy. Since rape is an attempt at controlling someone, this will make the rapist more eager. Try to distract him by screaming, saying you have a disease such as AIDS. Do not use a weapon unless you know how to handle it. Remember, the main idea is to survive. Do what you have to do.

If you are raped, try to remember everything you can about the situation and the rapist. Immediately call the police and/or the doctor. If you intend to prosecute, do not bathe or wash your clothing. A feeling of shame is a natural reaction to rape. Try not to let this keep you from talking to a friend. If you hold it inside, you will only feel worse as time goes by.

If you are raped and need assistance, the number for victim assistance in Indianapolis is 236-3331. Do not be afraid to ask for help. There are many people willing to assist a rape victim.

Smash review of "Shrew"

by Pierre Jackson

The Taming of the Shrew, directed by Beth Taylor and scenically designed by Paul Killian, was a wonderful play that many seemed to enjoy.

I enjoyed it from start to finish, watching the many new actors and actresses strut their stuff. Filomena Marshall, who played the shrew's younger sister Bianca, performed with a new quality that will be entertaining to see in the future. Lance Waters portrayed the nobleman, Hortensio, with a humor that was refreshing to witness.

Jim Puterbaugh played both Vincento and Curtis; he surprised his peers in his semi-major performance of a grieving father. As for the leading roles, Kate the Shrew, played by Kari Palma, and Peturchio the Tamer, played by Scott Rienhardt, were almost flawlessly portrayed.

As a shrew, Palma's performance was quite convincing and her fighting scenes with the Tamer had the look of realism. Rienhardt's role as the Tamer was wonderful. He gave the emotions and the feel of Peturchio commendably well. The play as a whole was performed well. The people who were responsible for the lighting, stage, and settings are also to be commended.

To all the people who did not go see the Taming of the Shrew, go to the next plays that are presented. See and give support to your talented friends here at Marian.

In remembrance

by Rieta J. Smith

Mc Daniels--In loving memory of our friend. He almost always said "Hi" or asked how it was going. He always had a story to tell and made himself available to help anyone who asked.

Arnold (Mac) McDaniels, age 66, passed away between midnight and 1:00 a.m. on the 24th of October 1988. He had worked for Marian College maintenance since June 1983.

Same the face we used to see
Silent the voice we used to hear
Too far away for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach.
Goodbye, Mac. We will miss you.
Green sets fashion merchandising

by Dallice Hesselgrave

When asked what she liked most about Marian, Ellen Green, a fashion merchandising instructor replied, "Mostly the students and the atmosphere." She went on to say that small class size is a definite advantage at Marian. Green says she has had the opportunity to get to know the students better and to give the students the opportunity to learn more by being on a one-to-one basis with them.

A part-time instructor during the 1987-1988 school year, Green readily accepted her full-time position. The Indianapolis native sees much potential for the fashion merchandising program. Green had taught in a Perry Township school for two years before coming to Marian. Her hobbies include needlework and golfing.

Right now, the Ball State graduate is teaching two classes: Apparel Selection and Evaluating Apparel Quality. To the average person this might not seem like much work, but Green is devoting most of her time to revising the curriculum of the fashion merchandizing program and updating the Home Economics area.

Green is extremely excited about the newly-revived program. The program was formerly directed more to a fashion design profession. Green says that this is an important change because Home Economics is becoming divided into basically two areas: Dietetics and fashion merchandising. It is necessary to have programs at Marian that reflect this.

According to Green, the demand for people qualified in this area is great, especially now, since retail has grown so much. Entry level managers, buyers, fashion coordinators and visual display managers are in short supply.

This semester there are twenty-one students in the fashion merchandising program. Green hopes in the future to have 50 or 60 students involved. She feels that if the program should exceed 60 students, it would lose its personal atmosphere and the students would not learn as much.

The only problem Green is concerned with is that the department could use more money as it grows in order to improve the classrooms, have more resources available, and update the departmental library.

Green is a welcome addition to the Marian faculty and is willing to put forth that extra effort that is so characteristic of Marian College.

Tornado drill Thursday

There will be a TORNADO DRILL in Marian Hall on Thursday, October 27 at 2:15 p.m. The Marian Hall class dismissal bell will signal the drill. You will hear an on-off rhythm for about ten seconds.

Please reread directions posted in hallways to know where you will be asked to assemble. Persons moving from second floor classrooms need to watch bunching up at the stairwells.

Please merge into a single file line prior to reaching the stairway to avoid clashes with persons descending from the third floor. They are walking along the inner banister. You must move toward the outer wall banister as soon as you enter the stairwell and stay along that side all the way to the location indicated.

At the last drill, persons descending from the third floor were met with a "flood of people" entering the stairwell at the second floor. Consequently, they could not continue their descent at a rapid pace.

Thank you for your assistance in this safety issue.
Every day, lives are saved because someone donated blood. When you donate blood, it may be used for: A friend involved in an accident, a patient undergoing an organ transplant, a person having open heart surgery, a cancer patient, a new baby, a victim of severe burns, or a person with leukemia.
