Campus vandals
by Michael Rinard

"Hey! What's all this toilet paper doing on the floor?"

Sound familiar? Perhaps it is if you are a Clare Hall resident.

The maintenance staff has reported numerous incidents of various manners of vandalism so far this school year. Toilet paper decorating the hallways of Clare, markings on desktops, soap dispensers ripped from the walls in Doyle, panes of window glass broken out, and the list continues.

So far, maintenance has sanded and refinshed about two hundred desktops because of markings and drawings on them.

The soap dispensers in Doyle Hall restroom -One Main- have been replaced because some party ripped them off the wall. All of these acts are classified as vandalism, or destruction of property.

The Hall residents are responsible for their respective wings. If something is broken or turns up missing, and nobody confesses that they did it, the wing residents end up paying for the items. The same thing happens when something is broken, like the plate glass windows at Doyle Hall. ALL of the residents pay for the breakage.

Murphy resigns from board
by Stacey Nicholas

Dan Murphy, Vice President of Student Board, became the fourth member of the board to resign from his post. Secretary Matt LaGrange has been recruited to fill the position and Diane Schmutte will become the board's secretary.

Murphy cited three reasons for his resignation. The time involved with the duties of the office was causing his grades to fall; the position was causing stress; and he is not certain whether he is going to continue with school.

The red tape, Murphy feels, made the job tougher. "I thought that we were fighting for the right thing... a lot of the time our efforts went unnoticed." It seems that "no matter how hard we tried the administration did not cooperate."

Completion of the Ice House, Family Day, and a meeting at IUPUI were some of the events Murphy listed as highlights.

When asked what message the four resignations sent to the voters, Murphy responded, "It does send the message that it (the job) is going to take a lot of time. If you don't realize that, you're in trouble."

LaGrange stated that he felt the message to the voters may be that the resigning officers are "being responsible and recognizing their limitations." By doing so they pass the job on to someone who has the time to devote to it.

Murphy concluded the interview by stating, "I think I'm giving a lot of time and energy to the campus and things. I had to get out to keep my sanity."

The Christmas spirit at Marian is spread as 200 people attended last weekend's Madrigal Dinners. They will continue Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.
I wanted to clarify the results of the Student Opinion Survey.

The March 1988 survey pointed to several major areas of concern for students which will require prompt attention by the college. These include: (1) Residence Halls - upgrade of dorm rooms and furnishing, lounge and recreation facilities and the need to begin a systematic dorm refurbishing program; (2) Parking on Campus - the need to implement a better parking control plan and a consistent enforcement on parking regulations; (3) Campus security - as it relates to educational programs to increase community awareness to prevent crime as well as external measures to make the campus a safer place (i.e., improved campus lighting, increased patrol and surveillance of parking lots, etc.).

Although items relating to conduct rules and regulations received a high overall satisfaction rating (80-89% satisfaction), there was general dissatisfaction expressed by some students, particularly Doyle Hall men, concerning alcoholic beverage policies and interdormitory visitation. Consistency of rule enforcement by Doyle Hall staff was also seen as a problem by some.

A few weeks ago, I indicated that I was organizing an opportunity for the Marian Community -- its students, faculty, administrators, and staff -- to bring their hearts to the people suffering so badly in Bangladesh and Sudan. As you've probably seen in the news, the problem is intense with hundreds of children dying of starvation and lack of basic medicine every day. They need money for food and medicine, and we have a direct route for this money to meet the problem area. The way I see it, we don't have a choice.

Please help. We have only $100 so far. I still think Marian can send at least $1000 if we try.

Contributors to date are Sr. Norma, Anonymous, Mary Wilson, Chris Curry, John Lowe, Bill Doherty, Gail Golkhajeh, and Bill Pedtke Sr.

The overall student rating of maintenance services and dorm upkeep fell to the 80-89% satisfaction range. The college is trying to improve the quality and responsiveness of maintenance services. Better communication with dorm staff for items needing repair will help. In general, Ron Schmoll's department does a credible job given the limitations on staff and resources.

Finally the avowed top priority of the College is the construction of a new Student Activities Center combining new dining facilities, lounge and recreation areas, student government and club offices and meeting rooms. The eventual realization of this long overdue dream will help to meet additional needs of resident and commuter students alike.

Senior Profile

by Kim Blair

Have you seen this girl? She is senior Patti Boyle. Boyle heard about Marian College during her junior year in high school from her aunt who is a Franciscan Sister and a graduate of Marian College.

During Boyle's senior year she was not sure if she wanted to go to college, but she realized that she had to in order to get any kind of decent job in the future. Feeling scared, she decided she wanted to go to a small college where she would be known as a person and not as a number. Although she wanted to live on campus, she wanted to live close to home for security. She also felt that by living on campus she would be able to get to know more people.

After completing her four years, she will have a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a double minor in Accounting and Computer Science. Boyle hopes to find a job with a reputable company either in personnel management or finance.

After working a year she would like to take classes part-time to obtain her masters in Business Administration. She is also considering finishing her accounting degree to get a CPA.

Boyle recommends to students to get involved. While at Marian, she has been involved with the Golden Knights, Clare Hall Board, tutoring, the Business Club, and the Accounting Society. She has been a Resident Assistant for the past two years.

Boyle says that "being an R.A. is challenging. You never can tell what is going to happen from day to day." As an R.A. she has met many people with different personalities and feels that it is fun to see everyone getting along.

She also states, "It's good to know that once in a while you really help someone whether it be doing something or by just listening to them."

Being an R.A. has helped Boyle learn how to budget her time, be prepared, and have more patience in dealing with people.

For those interested in being an R.A. she suggests talking to an R.A. and most importantly examine yourself to see that you could be dedicated enough to be "a friend one moment and an R.A. the next."

Guest Editorial: the parking situation

At the beginning of school year several articles appeared in the Carbon concerning the outrageous charge of ten dollars for the privilege to park on campus at Marian College. Ten dollars is certainly a nominal fee and hardly supports the growing cost of security and maintenance imposed on this college. A person could argue that Marian's parking areas are in bad repair, but what can be expected for ten dollars? How can a person expect quality parking areas for little or nothing?

In defense of Marian College, a comparison was made of fees charged to students at Indiana University, Bloomington Campus, and to their counterparts at Marian. Granted, Indiana University is larger, but so are their expenses.

At Indiana University parking stickers range from “A” to “E”. An “A” sticker can be purchased for one hundred nineteen dollars and enables a student to park anywhere on campus as long as it's a designated area. A “B” sticker costs fifty-nine dollars and seventy-five cents. Students with “B” stickers can park in “B” designated areas and below. The “C” sticker is fifteen dollars and sixty cents and permits parking in “C” areas and below. Also costing fifteen dollars and sixty cents are the “D” and “E” stickers. The “F” sticker is nine dollars and only valid in the Stadium Athletic parking complex. These stickers are invalid during home football games.

No one is exempt. These charges are imposed on students, faculty and other campus employees. There are even parking meters for visitors. A parking violation for meters costs the visitor two dollars per violation. There is a ten dollar violation fee charged on illegal sticker parking. Even a bicyclist can be fined three dollars for parking in undesignated areas. A stiff fine of twenty-five dollars is given to handicapped parking violations. With these stickers the problem of finding a parking space is phenomenal.

In conclusion, Marian students are paying a lot less for the headache of finding a parking place compared to Indiana University.

Christmas Carol reviewed
by Tina M. Kunkler

The Marian College Theatre Department hosted elementary school children and the public December 1, 2, 4, and 6 for their production of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol, directed by David Edgecombe.

The actors and the setting were present and carried their roles, but lacked the vibrance and fast-paced electricity necessary to capture a young audience.

Geoffrey M. Thompson has progressed from the shy freshman we saw onstage last year to a self-confident actor. As Bob Cratchit, he carried the burdened, but cheerful bookkeeper role with humble style.

As the only faculty member onstage, Steve Kristoff stole the show with his portrayal of Jacob Marley. Chains rattling and voice booming, Kristoff was the only highly energized actor in the cast.

Warren Wright filled the role of Ebeneezer Scrooge rather well for having to come in to replace the original Scrooge late in the rehearsal period. Unfortunately, the turnabout of the character was too easily accomplished early in the play to be convincing. The action and words lacked the charisma of a strong performance by Wright and the spirits.

The children of the play provided a fresh image in their sharp ringing voices and free actions. The adults should take a lesson.

Jennifer Wood should not have been cast as Fran Scrooge. The struggle between acting a child's role and being an adult weighed heavy in her performance. In her role as the laundress she proved her worth as an adult actress.

The stage was set with the book covers of several Dickens' classics, and the cast turned the pages of the story as the scenes changed. The storybook setting was a creative idea and probably worked for the children. However, the constant changing of scenery was rather distracting to adults.

The spirits of past and present looked like visitors from "Arabian Nights" and "Othello" wandering onto the stage. The costumes were in no way appropriate to the character.

The show was overall enjoyable if you needed a study break, but I think the children came away confused and less than entertained.

Nurses Graduate

On Friday, Dec. 16, 1988, the senior nursing class will hold their pinning and graduation ceremony in the auditorium at Marian College.

The ceremony will start at 6 p.m. and will include a candle ceremony and distribution of pins.

The junior class committee includes Rodger Lawson, Bridget Sanders, Susanne Deweese, Pat Horton, Deb Wimberly, and Sarah Barnes. Anyone interested in helping the committee at the Allison Mansion reception please contact a committee member for more information.

Lighter side

As the campers walk down the hallways of Camp "M," the week before Christmas, all they have heard since Halloween has been: "Bah! Humbug!," "Bah! Christmas!," "Bah! Holidays!"

Upon closer investigation, one learns that these loud expletives are coming from the Office of the Camptraller, "Mean ole Scrooge Joe Wagner," as he is affectionately referred to by the campers and counselors at Camp "M."

"Why," said Sally, "just the week before Halloween he made his servant take down the Halloween decorations saying, 'This is a business that we run here, not a three ring circus!' I never before saw a person so much out of touch with reality."

Scores of campers have expressed concern as to what happened to the beautiful and thoughtful placement of Halloween decorations. Since that time, no one has even dared to decorate for Christmas. I guess Allied Mansion won't be decorated in GREEN this year.

And that, my dear campers, is how the Camptraller stole Christmas.

A new face has appeared at the Marian College ARA cafeteria. Her name is Colette Tanoos and she is filling a management position for ARA.

Tanoos is a 1985 graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Stevens-Point, where she obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in Dietetics and Food Service Management. She chose to study dietetics because nutrition along with generally doing good things for yourself has always interested her. “Eating well is an important part of that,” she says.

Tanoos has worked for ARA Services since 1985. She was first hired by ARA to work at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Indiana.

After two years, Tanoos decided to move closer to her family in Wisconsin. She was relocated to a college preparatory school in Illinois, Lake Forest Academy, where she worked in Catering Direction.

Soon after, Tanoos became engaged. Since her fiancee worked in Indianapolis, she hoped to find some position with ARA here in Indy. The Marian spot opened up and everything fell into place. She was married on Oct. 22, 1988.

Tanoos comments, “It’s probably the best thing that could have happened.”

Her duties here include making up food production sheets for the cooks, ordering food, catering banquets and anything else that might come up. She’s had experience catering in a mansion at Lake Forest Academy, but admits it was not as nice as Allison Mansion.

In order to arrive at work by 6:00 in the morning, Colette must wake up at 4:30 a.m. This was hard to deal with at first, but she is getting used to it.

Tanoos said, “I like it here at Marian College. Everyone has been very friendly.”
FSLIC deposit uninsured

by Tina M. Kunkler

“We invested in what appeared to be the safest and would return the best annuity,” said Joe Ryan, Controller. But one of those investments may end up costing Marian College $100,000.

Marian holds several different kinds of investments which vary from each other in the amount of risk, according to Ryan. In comparison to similar institutions, Marian's investment policy is considered conservative. “Marian will invest in short-term (less than three years) safe investment programs,” said Ryan.

“We usually do investments in blocks of $100,000,” said Ryan. The amount of potential loss is dependent upon the decision made by the FSLIC. Investments up to $100,000 are insured by FSLIC.

“By their very nature, not-for-profit institutions invest in conservative institutions,” said Tim Akin, Chairman of the Accounting Department. Certificates of Deposit, treasury bills, and government bonds are generally considered conservative, but investors would need to examine each institution to determine individual qualities, according to Akin. The Board of Trustees’ Finance Committee periodically reviews the investment program at Marian.

Ryan expects to hear from FSLIC in February or March, at the earliest, in regards to potential loss in the investment.

Our side of paradise

by Cindy Prieshoff

As I walked through the mall one week after Halloween and seven weeks before Christmas, I saw all of the shops with their Christmas decorations out and hanging. What happened to the celebration of Thanksgiving Day? I wondered.

This is the time of year when men are supposed to give thanks for all that the Lord has blessed them with. It made me sad to think the one day out of the entire year that was made for the thankfulness of life was being skipped over by the world.

Then I thought more about what Thanksgiving meant to me and how I celebrate this special day. The word “Thanks” means to be grateful for gifts given to you, and the word “giving” means to share with others the gifts you have been given. Maybe Thanksgiving was made for each individual to be thankful for the people or things that he wishes and not made as a holiday for society to celebrate as a whole. Each person was given the freedom to do as he pleases and to celebrate holidays in a religious or nonreligious form.

Whether or not some people begin their celebration of Christmas early, I will always remember to set time aside on Thanksgiving Day to be thankful for all of the special people and events in my life that the Lord has given to me. Even if the malls do begin decoration for Christmas early, I will keep in mind that there truly is a Thanksgiving and what it means to me.

This is the final edition of the Carbon for the fall semester. Have a Merry Christmas!

Academic integrity discussed at forum

by Tina M. Kunkler

Marian College faculty and staff discussed academic integrity at the Open Forum on November 29, 1988. Issues included who is responsible for academic integrity, a sharing of experiences in dealing with it, and suggestions about policy development.

Sr. Claire Whalen, Dean of Academic Affairs, explained that the topic for the forum was chosen because the Academic Affairs Committee is in the process of establishing a college policy regarding academic integrity. The committee asked that the concerns discussed be forwarded to that committee. These concerns included: a college-wide policy, a positive statement of what constitutes academic integrity, and a formal procedure to follow if a student is accused of cheating.

Dr. Drew Appleby, Chairman of the Psychology Department, opened discussion by presenting the results of a survey conducted by senior Matt LaGrange in Spring 1988. The survey was conducted with 150 Marian College students and reflected, in their own perception, what the cheating habits of students are. Results included: 78% indicated that they had cheated while at Marian, 72% indicated that college teachers should be more concerned about cheating than they currently appear to be, and 73% indicated that Marian College should have an official policy on academic honesty.

Appleby and LaGrange plan to look at course syllabi to see if they contain statements on academic integrity in the near future. LaGrange also plans to conduct another survey of both faculty and students. LaGrange believes that a policy will be developed in the future and sees his work as, “getting more information to make that process easier.”

Sr. Claire reminded those present of the December 17 Faculty and Staff Christmas Party.

Dr. Steve Kristoff invited all present to the next meeting of the Academic Affairs Committee on December 7 at 1:30 p.m.
Lady Knights
by Stephen Tweddell

Amy Beckham and Terrill Reed scored 26 and 23 points, respectively, in the Lady Knights 1988-89 season opener, but it was not enough as they lost 79-71.

The starting line up consisted of three freshmen as well, Jodi Yonts, Angie Heitz, and Lori Weaver, all of whom did an exceptional job. Yontz scored seven points and had four assists while Heitz scored two and grabbed three rebounds. Weaver scored just three points, but dished out seven assists. Freshman Kris Leary also played and scored two points.

Head coach Molly Totten said of the freshmen, "It might take them a couple of games to get used to this level of play, but I was encouraged."

Also scoring for the Lady Knights was Tammy Poling, four, and Kate Murphy who did an excellent job as she scored four points and grabbed four rebounds.

The next game for the Lady Knights is December 10 against Oakland City. The Lady Knights are 0-1.

Sports

Marian 2nd in Brooks Classic
by Jeff Redenbaugh

The Knights took second place in the Brooks Peach Basket Classic.
In the first round the Knights drew the IUPUI Metros and the Knights jumped all over the number two Metro by the score of 98-80. The Knights were led in scoring by Rick Russell with 25 points, followed by Scott Fleming with 24 points. Fleming also led the team in assists with eight.

In the championship game the Knights played the University of Indianapolis Greyhounds, and the Hounds defeated the Knights 101-76. The Knights were led in scoring by Fleming with 14 points followed by Steve Simmons and Russell with 12 points each.

Russell was injured in the second half. He suffered a slight concussion. Hopefully, he will be able to play in the next game on Tuesday, Dec. 6, against Indiana Tech.

Rusell was the only Marian team player to get elected to the All-Tourney Team. Coach John Grimes says, "In the IUPUI game, we had a very good team effort. We also played the game we wanted to play and we performed very well and I hope we continue to play that well the rest of the season."

Grimes did not want to comment on the U of I game, but overall Grimes said, "I was pleased with the crowd we had behind us and I hope they keep coming out to see us play good basketball."

Knights win Nov. tourneys
by Jeff Redenbaugh

The Marian Knights finished in second place at the Danville Tourney last weekend.
In the first round, the Knights faced off against Earlham College. The Knights won rather handily by the score of 92-63; with this victory, they went into the championship game against the number one team in the district--Taylor University. In that game the Knights were outplayed in a defensive game; they were defeated by the score of 58-49.

In the Earlham game the Knights were led by Rick Russell with 27 points and Scott Fleming finished with 19 points.

In the Taylor game Russell contributed 15 points and Fleming added 14 points. Fleming also had the only 5 team assists in the game.

Both Russell and Fleming were elected to the all tourney team.

The Knights traveled to Hanover Monday, Nov. 21, to face the Panthers. They lost a heartbreaking game by the score of 72-66. Rick Russell led the scoring with a career high of 36 points.

The Knights won the Manchester Kiwanis Tournament on Nov. 19. In the first round, Marian crushed I.U. of Kokomo with a score of 97-45.

They faced off against Goshen College in the championship game where the Knights cruised to a 76-62 victory.

Russell and Fleming were selected for the all-tourney team and Russell was elected as the MVP of the tourney.

According to Coach John Grimes, "We are in the toughest part of our season now, and with these tourneys we hope to improve our basketball club for conference play in January."
Spring Break Alternative 1989: Anyone interested in going to Appalachia over Spring Break contact Sr. Rosemary at ext. 355 or 335.

STUDENTS: When you leave for Christmas vacation no newspapers will be saved. Other mail I will keep. If you have some special first class mail you must have and if you leave your address at the mailroom, I will try to forward it to you. Thank you. Sister Rosemary Lee.

Telephone Tip: When placing a call from one campus extension to another campus extension, it is not necessary to dial 9-929-xxxx. Please use only the three-digit extension number assigned to the number you are wanting to call. Dialing 9-929-xxxx not only ties up outgoing lines for others that may be waiting for an outside line, but could result also in delays in receiving incoming calls.

Campus Ministry will sponsor three Ecumenical Religious Services during the Spring semester 1989. They will be approximately one half hour long and will consist of prayer, scripture reading, hymns, and a short talk. There will be no Mass or communion service scheduled on these days. We hope all the Marian community will feel welcome to attend and participate. Mark your calendars: Wed., Feb. 15; Mon., March 20; and Wed., April 12. All services are at 4 p.m.

Bowling Party

by Dallice Hesselgrave

"We just wanted something fun to do to soften the 'blow' of coming back for second semester." What is this something? An all-school bowling party. Sponsored by the Accounting Society and Business Club.

The bowling party will be on Monday, January 23, at Lynhurst Bowl. Bowling will begin at 9 p.m. and last until 12 p.m. (or until you drop from exhaustion.)

This is for all faculty and students who want to participate. The cost will be $5 for a four-person team. Each team must consist of two men and two women. Sign-up will be in the Business Office, and the $5 must be paid when you sign up. This event was previously sponsored by Doyle Hall.
