Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner roles are again re-enacted

Look at them run! Why are the women in such hot pursuit? Well, it's Sadie Hawkins' day in Dogpatch. It looks like Daisy Mae, choice of the town's big catch, Lil' Abner. Have you noticed similar antics around campus? Yes, today is Marian's Sadie Hawkins' day.

Only tonight's ballooning at the 8:30 p.m. dance will tell who is the catch of M.C. Candidates for Lil' Abner are Joe Stockrahm, Greg Chopin, junior; Donn Bruns, soph; Greg Chopin, junior and Hank Richardson, senior. Marilyn Brown, frosh; Donn Bruns, soph; Katie Miller, junior and Cindy Rodenbeck, senior are vying for the title of fleet-footed, tall figured Daisy Mae.

As in the past, prizes will be given for the best costumes. Let's see if we can top Braniag's telephone and receiver, last year's winner. If "eats" are your thing, there will be free donuts and apple cider. As far as competition goes, ducking for apples is on the agenda. And if you just like to dance, "Yuppie", who deserted the beer blast, has the upper to make you move. Get your trick or treating done early because the dance won't be over until the stroke of midnight.

AAHE, Marian cosponsor meeting

For the first time since its beginning, the American Association for Higher Education (AAHE) will hold its annual regional meeting in Indiana. Marian College is fortunate to co-sponsor, with the AAHE, this annual meeting to be held here at Marian on Saturday, Nov. 10.

"The Learning Society: Responding to a Buyer's Market" is the focus of a series of 54 one-day conference meetings to be held throughout the country during October and November. Conference participants will have a chance to take a look at how new developments in post-secondary education affect teaching, learning, and curricula in all kinds of educational programs and institutions.

The conference will open with registration at 8:30 a.m. in Rm. 207, Marian Hall, followed by the general session at 10:00 a.m. in Marian Hall Auditorium.

At the assembly Dr. Louis C. Gatto, President of Marian College, will give the welcoming address followed by George Doherty, President of Bell & Howell School, Chicago, who will deliver the keynote address, "The Challenge of the Learning Society." Ending the assembly will be a film "The Learning Society," which features interviews with some of the new "buyer" and "sellers" in post-secondary education.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. are seven concurrent sessions which will be repeated again at 2:00 and 3:15 p.m. These panel discussions will focus on new directions in education, including interinstitutional cooperation, the response of museums and universities to college age persons, and programs for inmates of penal institutions.

A buffet luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. followed by a tour of the Ecological Wetlands Laboratory, Marian campus, the Allison Mansion, and art exhibit.

One of the key features of the conference is "Adventures, a simulation developed by Jay Associates, Edventure, is a "serious game" in which the conference participants will be the players. It is designed to foster an awareness of the growing diversity of students in learning institutions and the need for lifelong orientation toward learning. Sixteen Marian students will participate in this conference as members of the "new" institution.

Projects dissected

A Science Day Workshop will be held at Marian on Saturday, Nov. 10, in the Library Auditorium. This workshop is designed to inform teachers about rules and judging of science exhibits.

Dr. Gatto will open the workshop at 9:30 a.m. with a welcoming address followed by Mr. Don Winslow, head of the Youth Activities Group of Indiana Academy Sciences, who will speak on the Mid-Central State and International Science Fair and how they are coordinated.

The remainder of the morning will include three consecutive panels with Mr. Lloyd Anderson serving as M.C. The first panel includes Dr. Louis Sharp, Sr., Mary Rose, and a representative of Scientist, This panel will inform the teachers about the things of judging for the Mid-Central Indiana Science Fair to be held March 22, 23, 24, 1974, at Marian, and the International Fair at South Bend. They also will discuss the new animal projects.

The second panel will deal with the setting up of pre-liminary science fairs at individual schools. This panel will include teachers of local schools. This panel will be headed by Dr. Purcia and will include teachers of local schools.

The actual setting up of a project, along with the differences between good and bad projects, will be the topic of the third panel. This panel will be composed of a Marian faculty member and local teachers.

Following the last panel, projects will be on display in the hall of the library auditorium. These displays will include some winners of last year and various projects from local schools.
Up on first thought of the person Jesus, I can very easily understand the romantic and pristine ideas of this Jesus saying basically, "peace and love," but upon reading the Scriptures we see as Jesus said, "Salvation from our enemies and from the hands of all our foes," (Luke 1:71) and again "This child is destined to be the downfall and rise of many in Israel, a sign that will be opposed," (Luke 2:34) and finally, "Do not suppose that my ship, is a man who has responded to the Jewish tradition at the time of Christ the tax collector, we were considered the scum of the earth). Jesus didn't mind touching the leper, from the hands of all our foes," (Luke 16:10). Jesus didn't mind touching the leper, and the public sinner. Jesus above all was compassionate, as Zechariah said, "Salvation from our enemies and to walk humbly with your God." Micah 6:8-11.

Letters to the editors

Racial prejudice is the most ignorant and ungodly of all. People are people and should be accepted as they are, human beings. The offering of a person should be based upon his ideas, responsibilities, and his inner feelings. One cannot judge a person because of his physical appearance, so no more than one can judge a book by its cover. So, why do it? Because one is afraid and misled? Many times one may have had an unpleasant experience with a person of a mother race, but that does not imply that all whites are bad, all blacks are militant, and all our friends are deceitful. There is good and bad in all people and not limited to any one race. People must emerge from this ignorant, prejudice-breeding nestle to a realization of unity and love. They should work together for the discovery that all human beings are more alike than different.

What's happening in Doyle

Over the past few weeks the Doyle Hall Council has been formulating some new and exciting plans for our programs and activities in the hall and for changes and improvements in the dorm itself. Some of these plans include presenting a series of films on the weekends and possibly even some during the week. This past Saturday a full night of movies was planned to be shown in the lobby. This would have occurred except that some of the movie projectors had been ripped off. Movies to be shown in the future include the great classic horror film, King Kong, to be presented on Nov. 9. Many other movies and films are to be shown not only in the lobby in Doyle Hall, but also in the auditorium.

An open house is planned for tonight from 8:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. for anyone and all individuals interested, and students are invited. Around 11:30 p.m. when many people will be returning to the dorm, refreshments, and dance will be provided in the downstairs recreation area.

The new pin ball machines in the basement of the dorm have become a real center of attention and are in constant use almost 24 hours a day. This has not only provided a useful source for fun and entertainment, but sometimes great frustration, but it is always used as an extra money work with which is used for making improvements in the hall. Some of these improvements include the kitchen room doormats being converted into a toilet room, with carpeting and new furniture possibly being added; along with the new color video television purchased. One of the objectives of Doyle Hall Council is to make the lobby and downstairs areas into more of a student center type environment; a place where residents can relax and enjoy themselves in a comfortable and informal atmosphere. Hopefully the plans and ideas in the future will continue to perpetuate the establishment of the Doyle Hall Council to help each resident to benefit the most both educationally and socially from his stay at Marian College.

Efforts of five improve image of Green house

Last spring, when it came time to choose rooms in Clare Hall for the 1973-74 academic year, five women decided to move into Green House, located on the corner of 30th Street and Cold Spring Road. When they went to look at the house, they couldn’t believe the bad condition it was in. The paint on the walls was peeling, the sinks were grimy, and the whole house was just dirty in general.

“We were a little discouraged, but we all decided to come back to school a few days early to work on it,” said Cathy Caldwell, one of the five.

Katie Miller and Karen Brezina, both juniors, lived in a part-time student and is Rita’s Hall for the 1973-74 academic year. The five women painted the whole house over the summer and got several things accomplished.

“We painted our bedroom and made new curtains,” said Katie. “We also scrubbed the floors and cleaned the kitchen and the two bathrooms,” said Karen. Karen also tackled the basement, making a special place to keep to put away the agi and laundry soap, setting up an ironing area, putting rug on the floor, and adding a few posters.

When Mary Lou Ducate and Maggie Felts, juniors, and Cathy came in early September, the five women painted the kitchen and bought a tablecloth and curtains. Mary Lou’s room was also painted. Since the beginning of the year they have painted both bathrooms and added new curtains to both. They also have new curtains in the downstairs hall.

Several rolls of contact paper have been utilized for shelves and cabinets. They now keep a work schedule so the whole house is always presentable.

In short, all five women agree that Green House has a nice place to live. Through their cooperative efforts, they have made the house extremely inviting.

Mary Lou said, “As opposed to living in the dorm, the house has a lot of advantages. Since I like to cook, the kitchen comes in handy.”

The only disadvantage that I can think of is the distance from the main part of the campus,” said Maggie Felts. “We all have to get up earlier to get to class.”

Karen pointed out that since the house is old and the people aren’t so good, five people is an ideal number in the house. Even then they still have hot water problems occasionally. The women claim to have no arguments at all, and frequently have a meeting to talk things over.

“We all get along so well, it really is the situation,” said Cathy. “We do the take to care about each other and get along. If someone enters a niche of this example when she explained how they have in vited a house where someone else is coming home, say from the library, late at night, the house is always the first others know. Then if she doesn’t show up the rest can go look for her. Each one also possesses a little can of mace. "We may seem paranoid, but at least we feel secure,” someone commented.

The women enjoy doing things together. They are planning an open house before the homecoming ball, and are thinking about having a Christmas party. All of them also attended a seminar which is held in Green House every Sunday evening. Since the five women have become engaged this year, the women jokingly refer to the house as the place to live if you want your MRS degree.

Green House is a different place this year, through the efforts of five women who wanted to live in a homey atmosphere. They certainly seem to be following their goal. The comment was made by Debbie Mackel, a senior and familiar person to Green House, that “Mission improbable became possible.”

LISTENING

Chicago: “Chicago VII”

Mixed emotions strike me as I listen to this latest effort from the Windy City boys. I’ll have to say this is one of my favorite groups (or should I say women?) but I find myself feeling that something is missing in recent months. Indeed they are innovative—but they also seem to be losing that touch.

The album itself contains ten potential hits. Just let it be said that an average of 250 for a group of Chicago’s caliber is rather mediocre—if not disgraceful. The group has a hit on their hands and “Just You ’n’ Me” are the two cuts which have made the charts. Both are “typical” Chi- cago, if you will. But the remain ing eight tracks leave much to be desired. Peter Cetera’s “In Terms of Two” is a bit more digestable than the others, especially the works of Robert Lamm, the group’s leader. Mr. Lamm, it seems, is still under the influence of Mayor Daley and the summer of ‘68. “People running everywhere,” chants Lamm. “No place to go. But things are gonna change.”

It seems to me that, after listen ing to “VI,” I find Mr. Lamm’s “happiness” a little too redundant. He does have talent. But the old fellow is stuck in a rut, and it’s probably a case of just finding out he doesn’t want to get out.

If you’re a die-hard Chicago fan, you undoubtedly think I’m crazy. But I don’t feel the boys have their potential.

David Crosby once wrote, “But you know, the darkest hour is always just before the dawn.” I hope Robert and the rest of the boys haven’t forgotten the beauty of that phrase.

Art Garfunkle: “Angel Clare”

Now that Paul Simon has established the fact that he can write, that he can sing, and that he can produce one-wale of a album (Rhyrnin’ Simon)” it would be rather easy to overlook the beauty of a album. But the same holds true for Randy Newman’s “Old Man.” Far as Garfunkle is to be commended on his masterpiece. He has indeed compiled a beautiful album... though he has overdone it a bit. In such a case, I’m more than anxious to hear his second endeavor. But till them “Angel Clare” will more than adequately suffice.

Father notes cultural differences

Many Marian College sociology students have found in this semester a very unique chance to study the problems of foreigner visitation to East Africa since Father John Rutayuga, of Father John Rutayuga, came in October.

Father John came to Marian College in December of 1972 from Tanzania, East Africa and is doing graduate study in sociology. Presently he is only a part-time student and is helping out in the various pastoral activities of St. Rita’s parish.

One of the major differences he has noticed in the United States is the atti tude of the general public towards foreign visitors. In East Africa it is the custom of the people to first greet visitors offering any possible assistance. While in the United States, Father John feels that the Americans are helpful, but only if they are approached first and asked for assistance.

Father John said, “Basi cally African Students and American college students study the same basic areas. However, while the American student is orient ed towards the American culture, the East African student is orient ed with Afri can cultures.”

One of the humorous things he pointed out was that while the American people think of all Africans as Tarzans, swinging through the trees and hunting animals, while many African people picture the American people with six guns. This is grossly untrue of both societies and Father John relates this because of movies and other mass media.

As for Marian, he states, “I don’t think that I could have received more help and assistance than I have gotten from the teachers, administration, and students at Marian.”

Representative tells problems

The past two days Marian College has been host to the distinguished Mr. Anthony Morris, a representative of the European Economic Community.

In both conferences, Mr. Morris spoke of the problems of the EEC, external relations with countries, and ties with other countries. He further developed with regard to po litical integration, policies and goals, and aiming the underdeveloped countries.

External relations are based on two perspectives: the non-communists and communist countries. Non-communist countries present problems dealing mainly in trade. The problem with the communist countries are not just limited to trade but also recognition. China has taken steps towards recognizing the countries are still stagnating and failing to recognize the EEC.

Mr. Morris emphasized the im mediate future as being critical in the next 18 months the powers of the Community’s parliament will be nationalized and the rations of member countries as a mission established last year will be reporting findings concerning the country’s internal policies. Currently this Parliament has only had diplomatic and limited budgeting powers. The results of the challenge will set the precedent for future policies such as common environmental and common monetary system.

Underdeveloped countries, according to Mr. Morris, have and will continue to receive aid from the EEC. Mr. Morris sees that “by 1938 the principle activity of the EEC will be to bridge the gap between rich and poor countries.”
eligible teams to compete in playoffs

The regular 1973 intramural football season came to a close Sunday, Oct. 28 with four teams eligible to compete in the playoffs for the intramural crown. The play-offs will begin next Sunday when the Degenerates take on the Bad Joses and the Vice Lords up against the Stoned Rangers. The procedure in determining the match-ups varies the number one team with the third team and the second with the fourth ranked team. First seed went to Bad Jose with a 7-0 record. Second seed was grabbed by the Vice Lords, with a 6-1 record. For the third and fourth seeds, there was a flip of the coin between the Degenerates and the Stoned Rangers with 2-1 records. The Stoned Rangers won the toss and elected to take the fourth seed going against the Lords. The Degenerates with the Third seed will take on Bad Jose Sunday's Action:

Degenerates 14
Bruins 0 The Degenerates are vying for a play-off birth, fought off the Bruins, 13-0 in a close game. In the first half neither team dowsed, each giving the ball back and forth on fourth downs and short yardage. Jim Stockrahm, the team's quarterback all season, finally found Steve Bickley with a 25 yard bullet good on the line and out for a short yardage. Jim Stockrahm, Austin then pitched back to Bazeley for 38 yards but the Playboys were seemed a deadlock after this with

A score. Joe Patz threw a good back which enabled Barrett to scamper across. Illegal motion was called on the extra point attempt. From the 7 Aust hit Bazeley on a 2-out pattern for 18 yards. The conversion the score 33-0. After taking over the ball again Aust hit Martin on a turn in who pitched back to Bazeley for 38 yards. Aust then tried to run it in only to be tagged on the 1-inch line. A pass into Bazeley over the middle provided the score. A center eligible pass to Strophe added the extra point. Tom Schroth and Austin turned a 5 yard line. Steve Whitsett intercepted the ball giving the Rangers good field position. Steve Whitsett sacked Doherty for 15 yards but the half ended. The second half start was marked by Leon Enneking's first touchdown in regular season play after 3 years as a veteran. The tally came on a half back pass to Leon. Flooding the eight zone with two ends enabled the fool-footed Enneking to shunt left end and out race opponents to the goal line. The extra point was no good. Rangers 12, Playboys 0. It seemed a deadlock after this with the Playboys putting up a strong defense. With 6 seconds left on the clock Doherty hit Mason for another T.D. Tom Sluss then made a diving grab for the extra point. Final score: Rangers, 19; Playboys, 0.
