TO: Elaine Ransom and Dave Soots.

At its meeting on March 11, 1971, the Student Board passed the following legislation. "Since the Student Board, as of now, is responsible for Student Publications, and due to the fact that in the last issue of the Carbon (March 12, 1971), the cartoon (sic) was in bad taste, be it resolved that the Student Board views such acts as not in good taste and not professional, and that the Student Board notify the editors of the Carbon to exercise their duty and responsibility to professional journalism."

Consider this memorandum as such notification. The Board does not wish to call for an end to the cartoons, but asks only that some discretion be used as to their content.

Sincerely,

Martha Scheper
Secretary

To all those concerned:

I was casually informed on Wednesday past that we, as editors of the Carbon have committed a tragic "no-no!". With the release of last week's issue, it seems that we have deflated the egos of certain illustrious administrative personalities. Thus, we have demonstrated our lack of responsibility by producing a publication which is considered by some to have contained a cartoon done in "bad taste".

In view of the fact that this was not the first cartoon to be presented to the Marian College community via the Carbon, all of which have been done exactly as the one in question, there seems to be an indication that the particular parties involved have a definite lack of something also, a sense of humor. This is a quality which should be basic to the personality make-up of any administrator especially those who deal directly with students.

The Student Board has taken it upon themselves to publically state that, in their opinion, the cartoon in question was in "bad taste". They did not notify us of their meeting nor us of its outcome until it had already been publically announced. I am aware of the fact that they are "responsible" for Student Publications, however, I feel that they also (cont. on p. 4, col. 2)
STUDENT BOARD REPORTS

Sunday evening, March 14, at 7:00 p.m., the Student Board held a meeting concerning the ratification of the publications board constitution.

The constitution was ratified by a 13-0-0 vote after 3½ hours of discussion. The constitution was presented by Tom Hanrahan, and it was read through point by point for corrections, deletions, and additions.

Concerning the area of membership, the faculty advisors were added to the membership, along with the present membership consisting of the editors of student publications, darkroom manager, vice-president of the student board, and the advisor.

In order to avoid redundancy, the role of advisor was clarified to state that he must be qualified in the area of professional standards of journalism. Initially the constitution stated, that the advisor must be well acquainted with professional journalism and qualified in the area of publishing and literary criticism.

Under the topic of organization, the role of secretary-treasurer was removed from the constitution, and the office was titled simply as secretary of the publications board. It was felt that the position of the treasurer of the pub board, and that of the student board would overlap, because both would be keeping records of the same financial transactions. It was decided that the secretary shall keep official minutes of all board meetings to be kept on file with the student government.

It was also decided that, that it must be stated in the constitution that faculty advisors to publications have debate power, but no voting power.

The functions, responsibilities, and jurisdiction of the pub board were discussed for perhaps the greatest length of time. A debate raged over whether the pub board should be given more power concerning the selection and dismissal of editors of student publications. The constitution originally read that the pub board would advise the student board of its choice for editors, but the student board had to approve their selection. It was decided that all criticism of student publications must be directed toward the pub board for discussion, and the hiring and dismissal of editors would be left entirely to the pub board.

Considerable rewriting had to be completed under the topic of procedure in the pub board constitution. The constitution previously stated that the pub board would guarantee financial support by the student board for any new publication started on campus. This had to be changed, because the office of treasurer was removed, and financial responsibility was placed back into the hands of the student board. The constitution now states that favorable action by the pub board concerning the establishment of a new student publication is subject to student board approval. Finally, it was added that proposals which have not received favorable action may be resubmitted to the pub board within six weeks. Also, decisions of past pub boards are not to be regarded as binding on future pub boards.

The Board then closed the meeting to discuss the cartoon that appeared in last week's event.

CARBON. Action on this subject is discussed elsewhere in today's CARBON.

They can use chairs, chains, crowbars, wire, glass, fists, teeth, feet, rope, screwdrivers, etc. They can fight inside the ring, outside the ring, in the stands, outside the Coliseum, in mud in water, even at Marfan College, etc. In other words this is a KNOCK DOWN-DRAG OUT-NO HOLDS BARRED-DO-OR DIE BATTLE WHERE THE LAW OF THE JUNGLE BEGINS SUPREME AND NO OTHER EXIST. You can be sure that none of these champions will survive this gladiatorial and savage battle of Titans. A referee does not interfere in any way, only to start and end this Free-for-all. In the new Syrian-Egyptian union the idea of revolutionary socialism acquired particular significance from the character of the union's principal architects, Gamal Abdul Nasser, the Arab Socialist Resurrection (Ba'th) party of Syria.

The Syrian Ba'th party held that the Arab world, by its unity of culture and of aspiration, forms one nation and that its present political divisions are artificial. The party was organized to bring about this union, "in which all its members are required to believe."

The Ba'th party is very strongly anti-colonialist. It believes in the imperative need for the removal of all vestiges of foreign control in the Arab world and in an Arab foreign policy of non-alignment between the great powers. Its success in getting Syria and Jordan out of the control of British policy is undeniable. There has been constant Anglo-American pressure for years, to get them to join a Nato framework of mutual defense and thus into the Baghdad Pact. (Known since 1958 as CENTO).

But, this policy of block formation may be said to have definitely failed in Syria as well as in Egypt, and generally in the whole Arab region.

The open support of the Ba'th and other Socialist parties for Nasser's regime in Egypt since the 1952 revolution was basically due to Nasser's Foreign policy. Nasser became the symbol for Arab emancipation; for he was not only to stand up against Great Britain, whose colonial interests were threatened, and France who was wounded in its self-esteem, but also against the reactionary Arab coalition, which had some support throughout the Arab world. The Socialists, by giving Nasser their frank but conditional support, helped to unify the anti-imperialist front and weaken the Arab reaction, which was the most dangerous and violent enemy of Nasser's foreign and economic policy.

The essential characteristic of the Ba'th party was its aspiration to Arab Union. The two principal slogans of the party were a single Arab nation, and Unity, Liberty and Socialism. For the Arab Socialists, the existing fragmentation of their territory into little, unstable states, has never ceased to handicap their efforts towards a real emancipation, political and economic. Any idea of unity with Egypt would have been unthinkable by the Ba'th Syrian party before 1958. It was only after they became convinced that Egypt was sincerely seeking political and economic liberation from all foreign interference, and lending moral support to all the movements of Arab liberation that the Syrian Socialists have accepted this idea of merging with Egypt.

Arab Unity which stems from Arab nationalism today means, "a spiritual drive, a voluntary solidarity of the Arab peoples everywhere, based on a common heritage of language, culture, and history."

Michel Aflaq, whom some have called, "the Ghandi of Arab Nationalism," believed that to be free, the Arabs had to unite, and (cont. next column)
President Nasser confessed the errors Egypt had committed towards the union, but the question is, what was the error to which, in Egypt's eyes, it was confessed? It was that of "Comprising with the reactionaries," inside Syria and in inter-Arab affairs generally.

The Arabs did not give up their idea of unity, neither Nasser nor the Syrian Ba'ath government gave up their hopes for a future Arab unity; only one thing Nasser learned to do in future Arab unity and that was based on his new philosophy of unity. On February 22, 1962, Nasser summarized his thoughts by saying: It had previously been customary to speak of a "unity of ranks," (Wahdat al-Saff) among Arab regimes of diverse internal orientation. "Unity of ranks" now gave way to the notion of "unity of purpose" (Wahdat al-hadaf).

The new slogan was derived in response to charges from Damascus, Amman, and Riyadh that Nasser was wrecking Arab solidarity.

There are certain persons who today talk about the closing of the Arab ranks— from the time of Nure al-Sa'id they have been talking about it. But what was the goal of such unity? Was it to serve the interests of imperialism, or was it to serve the interests of the Arab nation? Unity of purposes is more important than unity of ranks. We call for unity of purpose, but we look with suspicion on slogans calling for unity of ranks. Unity of ranks based on different purposes would drive the entire Arab nation into danger. We seek to achieve unity of purpose in the first place. Such unity can lead to unity of ranks because unity of purpose constitutes unity of all the Arab people. All the Arab peoples have one and the same goal, but certain rulers are working towards different goals. Therefore, they falsify the slogans and appeal for unity of ranks.

Within this philosophy, it should be Egypt's policy not only to acknowledge but even to project and sharpen the tack of Arab solidarity. To All Those Concerned: (Cont. from p.1 col.2) have a responsibility to us, not only as editors but as fellow students. It is known that the Publications Board Constitution is up for approval by Student Services. Could this possibly be the reason that they have decided to "overlook" their responsibilities to us? The very purpose of this constitution and the formation of the Publications Board itself is to guarantee the rights of freedom of expression and student control of publications. If they have to go through the act of "kissing-ass" for Dean Brames or anyone else to get it passed and in the process violate the very principles they are fighting for, we can forget it. It's not worth the trouble. I'm not an ass-kisser and never will be, nor am I a hypocrite. If Dean Brames is so much more sensitive than the multitude of others who have been depicted in our cartoon section, I feel that his position is (cont. on p. 6, col. 2)

To the Editors:

For the first time in its history, Marian College will host the Central Indiana Regional Science and Engineering Fair to be held in the main gym and lounge below on March 25, 26, and 27, 1971. Approximately 1000 exhibits will be entered by students from grades four through 12, from Marion and surrounding counties. The Fair opens at 1 P.M. on Thursday and Friday and 9 A.M. on Saturday. Students will set up their exhibits and judging will follow. Awards will be made in the evening of Thursday and Friday and the afternoon of Saturday in the Marian College Auditorium. The Fair is open to the public after 4:30 P.M. on Thursday and Friday and after 12 noon on Saturday. All Marian students, staff and faculty are not only invited but urged to attend and encourage the youngsters.

I wish to use the pages of the Carbon to thank the many students who are participating so gallantly and generously in the mountains of work that it takes to put on a Fair of this magnitude. It would be impossible for Marian to host this Fair without student power. It takes people to prepare and record all forms used in keeping track of entrants judging, winners and awards. Over a thousand certificates of various kinds must be typed, hundreds of boxes and panel must be set up and torn down which make up the exhibitors tables, auto traffic directed and cars parked, operation of first aid, communications and guiding of visitors, assisting exhibitors in setting up, their projects and finally cleaning up the place. Paraphrasing the TV commercial, "I don't know what we would have done without Student Power." Thanks a million.

LETTER TO THE EDITORS

To the Editors:

After hearing of the Student Board's decision to condemn Steve Donahue's cartoon concerning the corn Kolb and the Bramis Bull in the March 12 issue of the Carbon for its sexual connotations, I realize that the Board indeed did hold the answer to my problem.

On the basis of their previous decision would not the Board agree that Alice's descent into the rabbit hole was merely the young girl's subconscious creating a phallic reconstruction of her rape at age three by sixteen aardvarks, nine three-toed sloths, and a one legged ostrich?

Just Curious,
John Chakos

Note...
Finally, the attempt to suppress material in the CARBON cannot be tolerated. The CARBON--once again--is an informal news bulletin that carries commentary, satire, opinions and other expressions from the Marian campus. Opinions expressed are those of the individual. These opinions must have some forum on this campus. And it is the DUTY of the Student Board to guarantee the maintenance of this forum. And failure of the Board to fulfill this duty can only result in the necessity of their search for still one more editor.

the one that should be re-evaluated, not ours. If he cannot communicate with the students and take criticism in stride whether it be in the form of a cartoon or otherwise, I feel that he should be replaced by someone who can. Although I have never had a personal encounter with the man, I realize now that he's everything I've heard he was and possibly worse. I've heard he believes that the image of the S.S. must be upheld. Well, I've got a surprise for him. There isn't much of one now but if he continues to go about lifting it the manner he's employed up to now, there won't be any. Like the man said, frames is full of bull. But he's not alone. His entire ordeal is "bullshit" and I'm sorry to see some supposedly intelligent people get hung up in it. But isn't that always the case at good old Marian? "bullshit serves the attention of the Cartoon Department, and possibly worse.
