CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Beginning this Saturday, Feb. 26, the Student Board is sponsoring a Constitutional Convention for all interested members of the Marian College Community. The purpose of this Convention is first to develop some type of philosophy regarding the role of students within the College and secondly to study in depth the proposed Marian College Student Association Constitution. Specific delegates--administrators, Faculty, and students--have been chosen to participate in this Convention because of their special interests in Student Government but all interested individuals are encouraged to participate in this Convention.

The first session will begin at 1:00 p.m. in the SAC Auditorium. After an introduction the assembly will be divided into five groups to discuss major areas of the Constitution. Individuals may choose any one of the groups in which they would like to participate. Reports on the findings, recommendations, changes, etc. of each groups will be given to the entire Convention and a voting will take place by the entire Convention. It is important to note here that although voting will take place and changes made in the proposed Constitution, final acceptance of particular recommendations will be made by the Student Board.

After the Convention has finished its task, the Student Board will finalize the Constitution with whatever changes they feel necessary and vote on the document in its en-tirity. The proposed Constitution will then be subject to the approval of the Student Body wherein it will be submitted to the Dean of Student Services who will transmit it to the Board of Trustees.

It is hoped that you will take the opportunity to attend whenever possible and share with others the interest and concerns it will take to make this Convention a success.

For further information or clarification please feel free to contact Jim Herbe, Pam Murray, Camilla Consolino, or Nancy Perkins.

Letter to the Editor:

In regards to the "Question of the Week"
posed in your last issue:
I'm quite surprised you had really protested Bramesi's visit to Clare Hall recently because it was my assumption (and many others) that the Carbon didn't think Dean Bramesi a "man" at all!
Therefore, where's the big hassle? Please comment.

Letter to the Editor:

We all know how right after Thanksgiving companies will paste up billboards with Ol' St.
Nick and/or the Nativity scene on them.
And these cheesy advertisements are for things like liquor, gasoline, soft drinks, or toys are supposed to as those companies would say,
"brighten the holidays". That's how commercial Christmas has become, and now they're starting to destroy our other religious and national holidays. It is pretty bad to see Santa Claus tipping a bottle of the Uncola, and it got worse as we listen to all those Honest George Sales held on February 22, but this new gimmick by the Arthur Treacher is a little too much to hear. For the benefit for those who are smart enough never to get off campus or those who are smart enough never to read billboards, I'll inform you about the Treacher campaign. It consists of the following words on a white background:

Give up hamburger for Lent
Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chips.
Now I have nothing against that old traditional British snack, but is nothing sacred?
America is going commercial, and if the Church allows this mockery to continue, that will be a sign of commercialism. This is not a suggestion that they excommunicate Arthur Treacher or add a new commandment - Like
- Thou shall not eat fish and chips. But I feel the said company should be verbally blasted and castigated. Of course, they aren't the only ones to do this.

But if we don't stop these trends toward commercialism now, could you imagine the future?
Your neighbors will carry a can of coffee with them and talk with a Swedish accent. Or perhaps Colleges and universities will take out ads in the newspapers.

Bargain Special this Semester of History
Extra Low, Low Prices on Sciences.

And then at funeral homes will go to advertise on TeeVee, with catchy little slogans like:

"Be Smart -- Die Now, or We Make The Going Great. These may be a little farfetched, but who knows what the future may bring.

Jed
Who's on Trial?

I reel at the atrocities in Vietnam,
Yet the atrocity is war itself.

I shudder at killing villagers one by one,
Yet bombers do whole villages at a time.

I cringe and say 'no' to war,
Yet my taxes pay for it.

I would put an end to war,
Yet my children play it.

Who is on trial? I am.
I am on trial for a war crime.

We believe that God is the Father of all. If this he so, then all war is between brothers and all war is wrong. The present mood is to Vietnamize the war, but a Vietnamized war is still war. Say no to War.

Intramural Basketball:

The waning moments of the season are giving us an idea of what to expect in upcoming playoffs. In League 1, the Courtly Few, Seaman Squad, and Gods of Hellfire all are involved in the quest for first place. The Courtly Few probably has more depth than any team, but they have lacked inside scoring this season. It will be up to shooters like Pat Zapp, Kelvin Comer, and Larry Armbrecht to put points on the board. The Seaman Squad depends on balanced effort, but will need a consistent series of games from Dan Brannigan and Dennis Kline to come out on top. The Gods have been improving and could now be ready for anyone. They have the muscle underneath in Johnny Bovard, Joe Hood, and Vlad Michiny.

In League 2, the Jwan-tu-Jwazuri will most likely hold onto first place as the season closes. However, the loss of Mike Benson and Butch Washington puts that much more of a load on the shooting of Terry Smith. The Oedipus Complex will have to be hitting from the three point zone to counteract its lack of size.

This means that Mike Pacheco and Dan Hayden will be putting the ball up more often if the Complex is to advance in the playoffs. The third place Funny Co. will have to gel quickly to be a serious contender. They will rely chiefly on John Giles and Bill Eckman to accomplish this.
