EDITORIAL

During the next several weeks elections will be held to fill all student offices on campus. Once Student Board offices have been filled, various committees working under Student Board must be filled. Now is the time for all those disinterested people who feel they can do a better job than the person currently holding an office to seek the position they desire.

It is amazing how people complain all year about how poorly things are done on this campus, yet fail to try to gain these offices themselves. Its easy to criticize someone else's work; it is far more difficult to do the job yourself. Until you get yourself involved in some of the organizations on campus, how can you really criticize those who have taken the time to try to accomplish something?

I'm sure there are many people here at Marian who have much to contribute in the form of leadership and new ideas to student organizations. Why do these people consistently fail to get themselves involved? One common complaint which I often hear is that student organizations are comprised entirely of students from the same clique, which eventually leads to the belief that these organizations are not representative of the entire student body. The best way to eliminate this problem (if indeed such a problem even exists) is to run for office yourself. If more people would get off their dead mouths and seek election, a broader range of interests might be represented.

If you feel you have something to contribute, I would strongly urge that you run for Student Board, Clare and Doyle Hall Councils and the various other student-held offices on campus. Only by your active involvement will changes be made and progress achieved. Instead of spending another year shooting off your mouth about someone else's ineptitude, why not get involved yourself?

First off, let me say that I was not the Kid who made those silly predictions in last week's Carbon. I am Mellow and my silly predictions are at the end of this article. So, read on.

With nothing exciting happening on campus and spring laying a tranquil blanket on all of us, we'll spend the weekend laid back with a cool brew in our hands as we watch the final four on the tube.

Only four survivors of both NCAA and IHSAA will do battle Saturday with the high school king crowned that night and college ruler on Monday. Everyone is picking the Hoosiers to beat the defending Bruins again. I must admit, they have been impressive up till now. The other Big Ten team Michigan will take on the only other undefeated team in the country, Rutgers. Most are going with the wolves. I must agree, their schedule is rough. And Indiana? Yes, in a real dog-fight they'll hand the Bruins their sixth loss of the season.

In the Big Ten final on Monday I could care less who wins. Just having two Midwest teams keeps me smiling. Again most are going with the top ranked Hoosiers, and I too believe they will win, but for the record--------the Wolves by 2.

In Saturday's IHSAA finals it pits No. 1 E.C. Washington against No. 6 Rushville. I honestly believe Rushville's discipline and shooting will allow them to be victorious. If they don't make the same dumb mistakes like they did last week. The second game has a young Jeffersonville team take on the defending champoin Marion Giants. No Giant killers here.

In the finale it will be Marion defending its crown by downsing the Lions in a close one. You see this year marks the 50th anniversary of Marion's 1st state crown. In 1926 Marion, led by former Purdue All American Charles "Stretch" Murphey beat Martinville, led by former Purdue great John Wooden, for the title. What more incentive does one need?

Since I've already gone out on the limb, why not go all the way? The NCAA tourney MVP? Either I.V.'s May or Benson, who else? IHSAA Treater Award winner? Rushville's Rich Goins looks good. And who'll be 1976 Mr. Basketball? That's a rough one. You'll see one of the top candidates Saturday in Marion's Dave Colescott. I can't say it'll be him, but I will say Mr. Basketball is a guard.

So there you have it, egg on my face. May the best team win, and pass me another beer please.

Till Purdue's a Power once again,

Mellow

To the masses:

Student Board elections are on Wednesday, and all students should vote. However, just as important as voting is meeting and questioning the candidates for the executive offices. This will take place on Tuesday at 10:00 in the Perch. Hopefully, some entertainment will be provided and time will be allotted for questions to the candidates.

I realize that student involvement at this time of the year is lax. But serious consideration must be given to whom you want as your student leaders for next year. The guest hours policy is on the agenda for final approval, committees on teacher evaluations, lowering off-campus living age requirements and others are being worked on. You need strong leaders to continue this work, to maintain what the students already have in their favor, and to make sure no rights are infringed upon.

Qualifications for offices are not limited. It makes no difference whether you are a dorm, day, black, white-------student---as long as you are full-time and in good academic and social standing. So please, if wanting involvement, contribute by running for office, meeting the candidates at the Coffehouse, and by voting on Wednesday. Show you care just a little bit. You might as well vote for a competent person to whom you can complain and project all your failures or disappointments onto.

Thanx,
Elaine Luthman
Former MCSCA President and Vice
