A MESSAGE TO COLLEGE STUDENTS FROM POPE JOHN PAUL II

These are excerpts from a recent address of the Holy Father:

"... Jesus Christ taught with His word and even more with His own example that life is a test... the test of thought, of the "heart" and of the will, the test of truth and love. The concept of "test" is closely connected with the concept of responsibility. Both are addressed to our will, to our acts. Accept, dear friends, both these concepts— or rather both realities— as elements of the construction of one's own humanity. It is in the phase of the definitive formation of one's life project. This formation takes place particularly in the "academic" years, in the time of higher studies...

It is necessary to undertake this test with all responsibility. It is at the same time a personal responsibility—for my life, for its future pattern, for its value—and also a social responsibility, for justice and peace, for the moral order of one's own native environment and of the whole of society. It is a responsibility for the real common good. A person who has such an awareness of the meaning of life does not destroy, but constructs the future. Christ teaches us this...

There will be no better world, no better arrangement of social life, unless preference is first given to the values of the human spirit—...justice, love and friendship... All that I can say to you is summed up in the words: Get to know Christ and make yourselves known to Him... Allow Him to find you. A human being, a young person, at times gets lost in himself, in the world about him, and in all the network of human affairs that wrap him around. Allow Christ to find you, to know all about you and guide you... You are the future of the world, of the nation, of the Church. "Tomorrow depends on you." Accept with a sense of responsibility the simple truth contained in this song of youth, and ask Christ, through his Mother, that you may be able to face it."

A POEM TO DENNIS HALEY, THE SUFFERING POET

Oh Dennis, how I envy you
A man upon whom love confides
Its darkest sorrows,
From others hide
And yet to you reveals it all.
Oh that my love would cause me pain
Reject my pleas and not remain
So crossly at my side.
Replace my biss with blackest grief
So with a pen I'd find relief,
Great poetry would flow and gush
From my deeply wounded heart.
My love was scorned
All hope was crushed
But, Dennis, I've discovered art.
So suffer would I for my art
And yet my pen's no company,
I soon reject this path I chose
I beg my love come back to me.
And nestled close my love now knows
That to the poet I bid farewell,
For suffering I do not do well
So I must stick to prose.
