PROM NEWS:

The 11th the Junior class is giving one of the biggest productions of the year. The Junior Prom. This year it will be in a Greek setting.

The nominees for Junior Prom Queen are Rosemary Brein, Laura Fitzpatrick, Nancy Coleman, Norma Payne and last but not least by all means Marilee Lauck.

The Juniors have the opportunity to vote TODAY for the queen of their choice. Let's have 100% at this poll too.

Good morning Carbons! 1-00, I like.

FIELD DAY * MAY 15
EDITORIAL

On April 29, voting will be held on the proposed Day Representative amendment to the Student Board Constitution. So far, the main point for justification or criticism of a Day Representative is that is merely gives a vote to the day students in Board proceedings. But a careful analysis of the effects of a Day Representative will show that there is more than a negative aspect to the issue.

Consider the positive contribution that the presence of a Day Representative will initiate:

1. It will provide a means to unite and centralize day student activity in a way that supercedes the diffuse representation of day students through the various classes and clubs.
2. It will implement action in those areas of the total Marian make-up that specifically and primarily affect day students.
3. It will officially organize the majority element of Marian's enrollment into a functioning unit.

Finally, the Day Representative will be a vital factor in completing the integration of all student interest and opinion, with the long-range effect of establishing better inter-organizational relationships.

This week the CARBON was written by very competent people who put all their ideas together to put out the best CARBON of the year. At this time we would like to tell you why the usual CARBON is not as good as this one. When Donna Denny and Mike meet their conversation is as follows:

Donna: Well, what kind of trash do we have for this week or do we have to bring out the items we told everyone we lost?

Mike: All I know is, I have to leave at 5:30, I have so many things to do. Maybe I will write a quick poem to take up a little space.

Denny: I guess I have to play the martyr role and do it myself. We must add that if it wasn't for Ruth and Patty checking grammar and spelling (in other words translating the editor's writing) the usual CARBON would hardly be worth reading.
