There is a new trend going around in education that may almost be labeled a revolution, and like any good idea it is catching on and spreading quickly. This new trend finds tuition charged in "socalled" extramural colleges and free universities, both efforts attempting to provide an up-to-date education for the very un-to-date college student, and an untangle confusion through a new emphasis on student potential and student responsibility. Here's another revolution as being done on a credit basis, in conjunction with existing college structures, other extramural being done outside the immediate college structure on a non-credit, strictly interest basis. Courses like "Contemporary Marriage", "Guerrilla Warfare", "Marxism Takes Its 'sex'", "Men Faces Death", are being offered at leading institutions like Dartmouth, DePaul, Pennsylvania State, Brooklyn College and still many others.

Let this "revolution" as a verbal reaction to the existing higher education structure, many students are finally realizing that they are still being handled as first-graders who must have everything done for them—classes structured, lectured at, graded, etc. The students are asking how much longer can this immature attitude of education continue? It will be the first to point, though, that a course is not in vogue. Instead, the students should work with the present system and try to incorporate their valuable criticism.

Let's look at Marian. For the most part, the attitude of the immature student who has to be led is quite normal here. Many teachers refuse to tan the vast potential that lies in each student. They ask desirably, "How can this be done?" Allow the student to choose more of his own courses: the student, of course, still requires that very required courses and many of his major demands are still necessary. Then he'll take courses outdated, non-pertinent or "mickey-mouse", let him, with others of like mind, to a discussion with the respective teachers, set up and structure—non-pertinent courses within own non-pertinent courses. If the student has a particular interest in his major field, or toward an elective, must he abandon that interest because no course like that exists in the catalog? Must the grade system continue in such classes as Christian Morality and Judaism? Are the students to be quantitatively measured on how moral they are or on how many lists of the Greek they know? More generally, are grades in all classes the proper motivation? Can't a new emphasis be placed on learning by asking the student to grasp qualitatively, by forcing the student to actually think and by electing some peer-ability on his shoulders. The student should become a part of his education, not merely a passive bystander. These are but a few questions and comments that are pertinent to M.C.

All of course, necessitates a mature response by the students and most educators want the students one way right now. They want to see that response, before they will change. But they don't see that response yet, for they have conditioned and inculcated the very system that they are asking for. The initial step will involve a larger trust in less well-known results and a trust that the students will accept responsibility, but unless educators take this lead and extend this trust, the present immature system will be perpetuated.

ACTIVITIES AND ALL THAT

After a beautiful and glorious triumph
Indiana Northern, last Tuesday night, our Knight will play their last home game of season.
Saturday (not next Monday as our un-fores were correct 9-11 calendar saga) with Carsters It'll be the last time we'll get to see the senior Knights in action so y'all come!

Monday and Wednesday nights are awfully low ly ones for the great lecturers in the world of Eastern literature. Itnota kind of stultifica tion, though.
Knights Win, Season Finale Approaches

The Knights outscored visiting Northern Indiana 52-22 in the second half of play on Monday to avert another drubbing of the first year school in Reynolds' Fieldhouse Tuesday night. Every man in blue and white scored as Cleen took advantage of the opportunity to give vital experience to everyone. Substitute center 'Macho' (Bob) Hericks led Marian scorers with 11 points, Larry Schmals clicked for 15, Larry Brodell netted 11 and Randy Stahley accounted for 10 points in the rout.

In Saturday night's season finale with Anderson here, five seniors will don their blue and white togs for the last time. Playing "air last tilt as Knights will be Larry Brodell, Larry Schmals, Jean Ancelot, Joe Bittlecrown, and Ray "Smookey" Stock. It will be a few days before Marian has the likes of these fine athletes at one time. Thanks for the fine job the past three years gang.

Jill's Leaks

Jilly's Phillies registered win number six Tuesday night last as they bounced Indiana Central's she-bounds 32-24 on the home boards. Brenda Elfrathuir, the "Selma Flash", canned 11 points while Terry Disque was held to 9 columns in landing the Maid's to the triumph. Schmals Thumpers close out their season next week with two contests slated on the Reynolds' Fieldhouse floor. Monday night the Maid face the Normal College normals and then close with a tilt with IU's nurses Wednesday night. Informed sources predict winning efforts both nights. Get cut and see if she knows something we don't.

Bare Friday night action highlighted the intramural scene as four games were played in the Paciﬁc Division. Berger's Boozers trimmed Dumbrowky's Dummies 61-29, the Pacers humbled Oremus 35-26, the Bruins blitzed the Third Reich 66-22, and the Big Eight kept pace with Berger's Boozers by setting down the Bowery Boys by a 48-26 count.

Sunday's Paciﬁc Division action saw the Bowery Boys clout the Third Reich 61-29, the Bruins durned Oremus 61-23, Berger's Boozers took the measure of the Mod Squad 60-42, Dumbrowky's Dummies forfeited their tilt to the Pacers.

In the Atlantic Division, Cleon's Peons outlasted the Organ Grinders 61-31, the Professional Students broke into the win column with a spirited 35-23 verdict over Manah Mixers, the campus elders, otherwise known as the "faculty", dropped the W.O.C.'s from the unbeaten ranks with a 57-31 bruising, and Hill's Angels also hit the win column by taking a 27-22 nod over the Lost Souls.

Board Reports

Social Committee, 9 members strong (one excused absence), met Wednesday evening and discussed their plan of attack for the coming semester. First the topic of the spring concert was tossed around with the final decision being to cancel plans for a concert this spring. Congratulations to the committee for making a wise decision in the face of facts like:

1) The Social Committee budget of $439 does not leave room for covering the substantial losses that might occur as evidenced by the other two concerts.
2) Talent bookings at this late date are not prosperous looking.
3) Closer and the Crusaders can bring in better talent at lower prices.
4) Dates that are open for the concert.

STUDENT COUNCIL REPORT

6. Recently, one of the student members of the Student Welfare Committee was removed from the committee. Was the entire committee consulted about this removal?

   By moving off campus, (this member) automatically removed himself from the Student Welfare Committee. Inasmuch student representation on the Committee, they decided that the four categories of students should be represented: male and female campus residents, male and female non-residents. If the Student Council request that (this member) be allowed to continue as a member of the Committee, the Faculty members waived the requirement concerning campus residents.
   In this instance," - Miss Diver

7. Why it is that those students on the Honors Program do not have to pay admission to the lecture series, while the rest of the student body must do so?

   A number of privileges have been extended to students on the Honors Program as partial compensation for extra work required and as reward for outstanding achievement. Some these privileges are exemption from the regular requirements of class attendance and free admissions to the evening lecture series." - Sister Margaret Ann, Temporary Chairman of the Honors Program

8. With the death of Mr. Tattle, this is to be in charge of campus security.

   "Mr. Charles D. Tattle, currently on the Fremburg Police Force, will take the position of security guard on March 1. A second officer will also be added to the Security Force by that date." - Colonel Wagner

P.S. note: The CARTON wishes to emphasize that this column is of equal service to the Faculty and administration, as well as the student body. Questions from all three areas are welcome, and indeed, encouraged.

conflict with qualifications, other events, and program offices and departments.
5) The concert should not be a burden money-wise for the Students, but tickets to the last two concerts have run in the $3.75 to $4.00 each.

But the committee was interested in providing something equally as entertaining and enjoyable this winter that finally decided to go on with their present plan because of the possibility of their computerized dance in conjunction with other surrounding schools. The details on the dance were kept secret, but perhaps plans will coincide with the Beaver Club's Reception scheduled for the first week of May. The famous dance would be less financial risk and could prove to be a novelty.

Members did not throw out plans for future concerts, however. Points were brought out that money-wise concerts were more feasible in the fall. Also students here would be more apt to attend concerts when they were held back to school. Maybe the concert could be a part of Homecoming weekend.

The committee is also going ahead with plans to sponsor a two-day intramural basketball championship among three other colleges in the Indiana area. Currently, there is the possibility of the committee to conduct another contest. They have expressed an interest in the games already.

The social committee members also considered the possibility of the painted, decorated condition of the SRC building and are working on plans to resolve the situation. Other topics were also discussed but will be announced later.

CONCERNS:

At the beginning of the year the Student Board appointed a lounge committee - where are they? If they don't function, why have one? Maybe it's time for reevaluation of the responsibility of these committees.

when you prepare smoking and nobody shows, ya know? Show that you find on something else besides the Marian Knights, and take in a lecture (or give one) this week.

The Japanese are invading M.C. campus tonight with a (film) film Ikiru, the Japanese answer to "Run for your life", will be shown this evening at 8:00 pm.

All M.C. students, faculty and staff are cordially invited to a reception welcoming Dr. Contessa and his family to the college community on Sunday, Feb. 25 from 2:30 to 4:30 pm in the Music Building. This is sponsored by the P.S. Oh, by the way, please note that parking in the immediate area of the music building is to be reserved for the board of trustees and the advisory board.

The whole staff of the "Student Personnel Services" has gone underground and is trying desperately to re-organize and reorganize the office: Dean of Men, Dean of Women, Counseling Service, Placement Office etc. will henceforth and forever "til they change it again) be known as "Student Services." (Thrilling isn't it.)

Fresh girls are throwing parties (those that are staying over the weekend) to celebrate the fact that they no longer have to take study nights. God bless Miss Lily and Miss Clutters! All students are invited to a folk-dancing and bingo party to be held Sunday, Feb. 25 at large Carter Memorial. The party is sponsored by Tutor. Anyone interested please contact Linda Smith, Oct. 166; they will leave Clare hall at 6:30 pm.

Draft dodgers and illegal workers unite! A draft court will now be conducted at 12:30 o'clock (noon) on Tuesday instead of 1:30 pm Tuesday.

The Carbon extends its sympathies to the family and friends of Mr. Wilbur Tuttle, who died suddenly this past week.

It is a well known fact that the whole question of security was a much disputed question on campus, Mr. Tuttle being the brunt of much of that criticism. In this vein, it may not be hypocritical today that his loss is mourned. The fact is, though, that despite his short tenure, his sometimes irrational behavior, Mr. Tuttle was a man. As a man he had his own good points, unfortunately not admitted by some. Mr. Tuttle was a man struggling, trying, growing, like us, for life. It is in this regard that we mourn his loss.

the book store wants you!

Mrs. Cleveland, that fearless revolutionary and organizer of the "new" efficient bookstore, is presently making a concerted effort to solicit your suggestions for improvement of her business. For years we have been coordinating what we want to see sold in the bookstore: work in paperbacks, magazines, "lost" articles, etc. But now is our chance. Please, please, tell us what you want to see sold in the bookstore — the cut-out, the book, and exists in the suggestion box in the bookstore. — Thank you.
