The CARBON turns its critical eye this week to investigate student representation on faculty committees. The opening which allowed the foot into the door for the students occurred last year in legislation passed by the 166-167 Student Board. The legislation asked for student representation either in voting capacity, or in discussion capacity, or in both, on most of the existing faculty committees. This request for student representation followed the increasing trend around the nation to give students a real voice in the college or the university.

An air of skepticism and reluctance was set forth by many of the faculty, but representation was won on several committees including the Welfare Committee, the Educational Committee, the Athletic Committee, the Curriculum Committee, and the student representation on the Traffic Appeals Committee.

It's almost a year later, and the general consensus from both faculty and students seems to be that student representation on faculty committees was, and is, a very worthwhile step, and that the students on these committees are assuming their responsibilities quite adequately. Furthermore, it has been confirmed that this representation gives the students a real active voice and a sound channel to communicate their views to the faculty and administration.

Pending, the present faculty committees are undergoing restructuring to break down the existing system into a more refined and smooth-running machine. The number of committees existing after the restructuring will probably be in the area of ten. When these committees are finally established, the students, sincerely hope that the faculty and administration will continue to extend their invitation to us to participate. We feel we have made our stay welcomed and have proven our potential to assume a responsible role in forming and reforming our college community.

ACTIVITIES AND ALL THAT

I'm so glad I don't have to be "right" this week; I may not always be right, but I'm never wrong. (Wellll, maybe not never!) Anyway, McAnarmy's at it again with films, films, films Friday nite (hey, wait! that's tonite) D, Hall (D as in dog) is presenting "Lilith". They say it is a sensuous, brooding tale of life in a mental institution, of a young occupational therapist who falls in love with a schizo. (That sounds like a rerun of "Smallbound".)

Alex is taking the McDonald's Darlings to Terre Haute to the Woods for the IICCPE Choral Festival. (Nobody knows what all those letters mean!) The chorus will present "What now, my love!" and an "EchoSong" and will join St. Mary of the Woods, St. Joseph's, and St. Benedict's for "Te Deum" by Bruckner.

MARIAN'S spring sports schedule promises to be one of the toughest and also one of the most exciting in quite some time. Expectations and enthusiasm are high in all camps as track, golf, and tennis lift the lids on their respective seasons with meets and matches scheduled for this weekend or during the coming week.

The track team opens its season on Saturday as they travel to Terre Haute to participate with many of the other top Indiana collegiate squads in the Indiana State Open. Next Friday the wingfeet, under the guidance of Larry Bridges, trek cross-town for a meet with Indiana Central.

Fr. Pat Smith's golf squad also opens on Saturday with a trip to land of the Blue Grass as they take on Southern Kentucky there. On Tuesday and Thursday the Knight doughs play host to Hanover and Rose Poly respectively on the home links.

The rackets of Vilis Donis begin their spring campaign with a match with Southern Kentucky on the home courts on Tuesday.

John Harkin's baseballers still have another week of practice ahead before their season opener with Rose Poly.

With all this unusual Indiana weather upon us at present, why haven't the teams rescheduled some of their contests? Next week the usual spring weather is bound to return.

COED-VOLLEYBALL

Coed volleyball teams and schedules have been posted in the gym for all those eagerly awaiting the opening smash. However, play is not scheduled to start until after the Easter break, so practice up. Seven teams will compose an Atlantic Division, while eight teams will compete in a Pacific Division. Contests will be assigned specific courts each night to alleviate the problems which have arisen in the past.

One further note about the College b-ball season. Did anyone note the success of Buckeye College basketball in the national post-season tourneys? Recall: Ohio State, the Big 10 representative, finishing third, beating two of the nations top 10 quintets: Dayton University winning the NIT in New York with Don May coping NIT honors; and Central State, from Wilberforce (Ohio), taking the top spot in the NAA tourney. Howdy for the Buckeyes!!

THE Bookstore Lives

Your always-on-the-ball bookstore has done it again. You asked for it and now you have it. Shaving cream, toothpaste, aspirin, soap, laundry soap—all of these and more are now being stocked in the Cleveland Stores Ltd. Besides these articles, magazines will also be there for your inspection and hopeful purchase. Included among these printed media will be Look, Life, Time, Newsweek, Ebony, Hot Rod, Seventeen (for all the 16 year old co-ed's) and more. Most of the drugs (that's like aspirin) and the toilet articles will be sold under the suggested price—another great breakthrough. The magazines will be sold at market price.

All this is brought to you principally through the efforts of that organizer of organizers, Colonel Wagner. Stop by and thank him.

The CARBON welcomes roving reporter Ron Ortscheid to the "rare breed". Ron will be around to seek and register your opinion on campus issues. Your co-operation will be appreciated.
SETTING THINGS STRAIGHT

Q. During the Great Christmas Vacation Search certain items of small monetary worth were removed from residents' rooms. When will these be returned or reimbursed?

A. "Items (such as shotguns and shells) not yet claimed will be returned to the owner when we are assured they will be appropriately disposed of. We cannot be held responsible for all the litter that had to be removed from walls and ceilings if these are the "items of small monetary worth" you are referring to. Under the circumstances, the custody of such items was provided in the best fashion we could provide and still complete the maintenance job." --Mr. Fields

Q. Why must students be out of the cafeteria by 6:30 in the evening?

A. "To provide the cafeteria management and staff time to make plans for the next day and still depart at a reasonable hour, an hour and a half to an hour and forty-five minutes is considered ample time for a community our size to be served and to eat. Lengthening of such a period imposes a greater work load on existing staff or necessitates the enlargement of the staff. Very simply our present schedule is the most economical way to proceed and still meet the demands of the public." --Mr. Fields

A formal apology is here given to the Student Services Office for incorrectly reporting last week that the above questions "still have not been answered." The truth of the matter is that the questions were answered, but they were mislaid. For this reason, the answers were not submitted in time for the March 22 Carbon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Carbon:

Although we might be accused of dragging something out which certain people might claim we have no business doing, we have a complaint that we feel must be aired. We believe that some people feel it better to put a veil of silence on the whole matter, but we think, that since both organizations could not exist without the students, we have every right to express our opinion concerning the matter.

We would like to know what the Chorale director feels he has accomplished by causing the Drum and Bugle Corps to relinquish its invitation to a very important function because of the Choral Festival?

Granted, the twenty Corps-Choir members made the commitment to the choir first. But, we were told that after 3:30 PM, Saturday, March 30 we would be free until approximately noon Sunday. However, we were told that unless we participated in the mass rehearsal on Saturday we would not be permitted to sing the mass number on Sunday. After some discussion it was thought that the twenty students could drive back after the rehearsal for the Corps appearance and then return to Termance on Sunday for the concert. Both units would then be satisfied.

Then suddenly the choir director planned a Saturday night rehearsal for the Marian group and the Corps was forced to drop their engagement. In the past two years the Chorale has never had an individual rehearsal at the Festival proper. Sour grapes??? We hope Mr. McDonald is satisfied; a few of us are not!

Disgruntled Students

Dear Editor:

As I was sitting in the library studying on Tuesday afternoon, I heard a group of children outside near the lake. The noise was momentarily distracting so I started to watch the children for a few minutes. At first I could only bare them; they were all excited because their little black dog was swimming in the lake. In a few minutes, all of the kids were chasing the dog who had now left the water and was just running around in the sun. And then it occurred to me—one of the children was also black...but he didn’t seem to notice...neither did his friends seem to notice that he was black and not white like they were. I wonder if maybe someday, we grown-ups will be able to grow up in a few minutes.

For the convenience of the reader, the text is divided into two columns.

The primary purpose of this meeting is to organize a corps of students willing to perform necessary activities such as publicity, primary registration, selling memberships in HDA and contributing time when it is requested by HDA (Hoosiers for a Democratic Alternative)

We encourage discussion in the CARBON of the upcoming election and its candidates.
