

Easter Greetings

The members of the freshman class and their Moderator extend joyous Easter greetings to all the students and faculty of Marian college. We sincerely hope the blessings of Easter will extend to each of you through Low Sunday and that the vacation days will be brightened by the dazzling white appearance of the newly risen Saviour.

In the early days of Christianity all of Easter Week was one continuous feast. A Spanish Missal of the ninth century shows three Mass texts for each day of the Easter Octave. Priests in France used to celebrate two Masses every day during Easter Week. In the days of the Roman Empire services at morning, noon and night attracted many people to the churches.

Easter Week is called "White Week" in the Western Church and the "Week of New Garments" in the Oriental Church to express the idea of new life received in Baptism on Holy Saturday and in the Resurrection of Easter Sunday. The new Christians wore their white baptismal robes all week and on the Sunday after Easter they were solemnly dismissed from their special place in the sanctuary.

That day, "White Sunday," was for centuries, and still is in many parts of Europe, the time when children, dressed in white and holding a lighted candle, received their First Holy Communion.

Because Easter lasted for eight days, including two Sundays, Easter and White Sunday, the names "high" and "low" were sometimes used. The primary Sunday was Easter and the secondary, called "Low," was another name for White Sunday.

Student Prexy Speaks

It is once again that time of the year when the student body elects from its members, those who will represent its interests in student government.

It is imperative, if the students desire that their interests be furthered to the highest degree, that they elect capable, and more important, responsible people to every lever of office.

When voting for student officers, the students are urged to consider these elections in the light of what they expect to accomplish, for the college and themselves, in the coming year.

Lastly, those students who are considering placing themselves in the running for an office are obligated to meet the demands placed on them and the sacrifices they will be required to make with the acceptance of thi shonor. If you have accepted and are elected, whatever the office, you have the obligation to meet the demands of that office, many times at a sacrifice of personal benefits.

'Old Men' of Marian Stand Ready to Serve

By Bill Brady and Joe Hertz

Establishment of Marian College as a coeducational institution of higher learning has also made possible the birth of a new and exclusive campus club. The community is now blessed with The Marian College Veterans' association, whose membership is restricted solely to those light-hearted lads more commonly referred to as the "old men of Marian."

M.C.V.A. was organized with a two-fold purpose in mind—first, to organize the veterans into an effective social body from which they will derive mutual benefit, and secondly, to give their support and encouragement, wherever practically possible, to many worthwhile project of the college community.

Beck, Organizer, First President

This difficult and thankless task of organizing the club was spearheaded by sophomore Dick Beck, who, on his own initiative, spent many weeks of canvassing, recruiting and "talking it up" among the faculty and potential members. Dick was rewarded for his efforts by being elected the first president of the M.C.V.A. His capable assistants for the remainder of 1957 are Bill Brady, vice-president; Phil Doherty, secretary; and Larry Ittenbach, treasurer.

World Travelers

Moving to a lighter side, a quick poll of the present 21 charter members shows not only a representation of the Army (13), Navy (3), and Air Force (5), but also of the miles traveled and countries visited. This mileage has taken them to the far corners of the world, free of charge, which includes 5 continents and 35 countries. Some were even sent to the U.S. to complete the cycle!

The number of places visited is equaled by the variety of jobs held by the members of the club. They ranged from infantry men, engineers, and medics to demolition experts, instructors and chaplains' aides. With their travels and experiences, any of these men would well qualify as after-dinner speakers.

We hope the "Marian Family" will welcome the youngest club on campus and take advantage of its offer to serve "outside uniform."

Sympathy

The faculty and students extend their sympathy to Rosemary and Joe Acker, freshman and junior respectively, who are mourning the death of their father.

Prayers are being offered.

What Every Student Should Know

by Bernard F. Dever

If you still haven't decided upon a place to spend your summer vacation, let me suggest Vaduz, the capital of Liechtenstein. You say you have never heard of Liechtenstein! Well it is a beautiful little country between Austria and Switzerland. It's 15 miles long and 5 miles wide, and situated in a valley surrounded by snow capped mountains. Vaduz has a population of 2500, and you can stay in the best hotel (the only one) in town, for $20 a week, including meals.

The Prince who rules the tiny country, lives in a "fairy tale" castle that sits on a cliff overlooking the city. You will most likely meet him in the town's restaurant; he often eats there in the evening. Your visit to the principality will be a national affair since very few tourists ever go there. The country has not been commercialized by the American tourist and his almighty "green back." However, if you are going you better hurry, because if Father Dooley and the students with him on his '59 tour happen to stop there, the place will probably never be the same!

If some of you hi-fi fans have been having trouble with your studies, I have the answer to your problems. Being a hi-fi fan myself, I have made up a list of records that will go right along with your home work, and in no time at all your grades will be greatly improved. First of all, for studying psychology, there is one record that tops all others, and that is the Mad Scene from Lucia di Lammermoor. If you play this often enough you will become neurotic and will be able to understand these problems through personal experience.

If history puts you to sleep, the next time you are reading, put on Tchaikovsky's "Overture of 1812". The first part of the record will sooth you, but if the church bells and cannon explosions at the end of the recording don't wake you up, then see your doctor, because you are in bad shape. Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espanol" is very good for Spanish; if Rimsky-Korsakov could learn the language, so can you. Wagner's "Die Gotterdammerung" is the thing for German. If you can pronounce the name of the record, you should get an "A".

If you missed the series on the Arabs in Life last month, go to the library and look it up. It will give you a much better understanding of their problem.

While on the subject of Arabs, did you read in Irving Lebowitz's column about Senator Capehart, who, during a meeting in Washington, stood up and said, "Why can't those Arabs and Jews get along like the rest of the Christians".—Oh well!

Schools Take Action In 'Better City' Project

by Anita Alter

A better community in which to live depends upon those who live in that community. Therefore, the city of Indianapolis is sponsoring an improvement campaign. This project which begins Apr. 28, continues to May 11, when a parade of school floats depicting achievements is scheduled to take place at 1:30 p. m.

Public and parochial schools will participate under the direction of their teachers. Pupils will be encouraged to clean up and beautify their school grounds and home lawns.

Marian has offered its services by developing plans to beautify the campus and by welcoming visitors to the grounds. The conservation and M-Club groups are giving their time to accomplishing this goal.

A salute is in order to the city and its schools for their efforts to make Indianapolis an attractive and comfortable place to live.

Fasting Laws Present Added Opportunities

It is appropriate that the new Eucharistic fast laws be published in this Eastertide. All Catholics have the opportunity to receive Holy Communion frequently and take advantage of special graces of the season.

A word of thanks is due to our priests on campus who are sacrificing time and are fasting to offer 11:30 a.m. services. They also distribute Holy Communion daily after 7 a. m. Mass at intervals until 8:15 a. m.

Students unable to attend Mass before classes can take breakfast, and after a three-hour fast from solids and one hour from all liquids except water, have the opportunity to receive Communion before lunch.

In return for this privilege, the Catholic should compensate with sacrifices, penances, and works of charity, for which Lent has been a preliminary preparation.

Not only is the student gaining untold graces, but he is developing the habit of daily Communion—a practice to carry into May, the Blessed Mother's month, and into our future lives.

—A. M. H.

You Can Make History

Subscribers to the 1957 edition of The Marian will be pleased to hear that the yearbooks will be here the second week in May. At least, that is what the printer has promised.

The time and work the staff has put into the book is almost complete. Their reward will be to see their finished product and hope that every student does the same.

A look at last year's book can only bring a feeling of gratitude to the present seniors for establishing so worthwhile a precedent.

To make noble contributions for next year's book, let's not forget that there is a month and half of classes and there are also many extra curricular activities until graduation.

After Easter, dances, picnics, field day, and plans of your own promise to be enjoyable and time-consuming. Don't miss after-Easter activities because your books were left on the shelf during Easter vacation.

Signs of Spring

Do you see them running? There, across the lawn, Squirrels by the oak tree, Up the trunk and gone.

Look over to your right, Standing two by two. Buttercups are smiling, The winter months are through.

Glance around the campus, Listen to them sing. Sparrows in the tree tops, Why? Because it's spring!

Caskets, Canoes To Add Variety In Frosh Summer

by Nancy Heiskell and Dianne Wolf

After taking a poll among the freshmen as to what they are planning this summer, it is quite evident that the majority of our co-eds will become office workers, pounding away on that marvelous invention—the typewriter. Many of the fellows will be developing their muscles and acquiring a tan while doing construction work. Of course, a summer "vacation" would not be complete without various trips. Florida seems to be the most popular destination for some of our fortunate freshmen.

Bells, More Bells

On the weekends, some of these same girls will change from the office attire into bridesmaids' gowns for friends' and relatives' weddings.

School bells, summer school, that is, will be ringing for some of the more industrious ones. Among them are: Anita Alter and Bob Rhinesmith, who will be attending I.U. extension, Ann Ginther, who is planning to study French at the University of Ottawa in Canada; and Manolita Portela, who will study in Puerto Rico. Different bells will be ringing for Cornelius Howe on Aug. 24 in Cleveland, Ohio, when he will become a lucky bridegroom.

From Sewing to Camping

For something unique, take a trip to Connersville, where you will find Mary Rita Schlichte sewing satin linings inside caskets.

On the more adventurous side we have Tippi French, who will take on the attire of a canoe guide for various groups taking eight-day trips in Canada. Elaine Thomas will endeavor to drill the scales to music pupils while still others hope to find positions in line with their majors and further explore those fields.

Red Cross Members Elect '57-58 Officers

Marian College Red Cross unit held elections for 1957-58 officers in the reading room. Solicitors and students donating 50-cents or more to the annual Red Cross drive were eligible to vote. Results were: Gerry Matheny, chairman; Marguerite Branday, vice-chairman; Mary Catherine Wetzel, secretary; and Phillis Willoughby, treasurer.

Volunteer Workers Provide Pleasure For Juvenile Center Boys and Girls

by Mary Rita Schlichte

If you should happen to be near the Marian campus on Sunday evenings, you might notice a group of students departing with a more or less dedicated air about them. They are members of the Red Cross unit and their destination is the Juvenile center on Keystone ave.

The boys and girls at the center have been gather on various charges. For some of them the next stop will be Boys' School, Girls' School, and White's Marydale corrective institutions.

Where do the students of Marian fit into such a system? They are trying to accomplish a little

Chemistry Puts Best Foot Forward In Joining Research Advancement

Two papers will be presented by Marian students at the Symposium in Miniature to be held at Purdue on Apr. 27. "Thermal Analysis of the 2, 6-Lutidine o-Phenyl-Phenol Complex" will be explained by Bob Bates and Don Werner while Betty Morvay will talk on "Thermal Analysis of the 2-Picoline o-Phenyl-Phenol Complex."

Maureen Feeney and Emilie Clevenger will present a paper entitled "Thermal Analysis of the Alpha Picoline and o-Phenyl-Phenol Complex" at the Regional A. C. S.—S.A. Convention to be held at the University of Toledo, Apr. 26 and 27.

Student Affiliate members of the A. C. S. exhibited a Progress Week

Display Apr. 8 through 12 in the auditorium foyer.

Brother Columba, C. S. C., of Notre Dame, addressed the student meeting of A. C. S. Apr. 14, on the topic "Infra Red Spectra in Relation to Molecular Structure." Albertus Magnus chemistry club of Cincinnati was invited to attend this meeting.

Chemistry majors of the junior and senior classes attended a student meeting of the Indiana Section of the American Chemical Society held Apr. 5 at Hotel Antlers. Their day began with registration followed by trips to the U. S. Rubber company, Kingan and company, U. S. Naval Avionics Facility, and Western Electric. The student returned to the hotel for luncheon and then concluded their day by visiting the Indiana State Board of Health, Pitman-Moore company, Reilly Tar and Chemical company, and P. R. Mallory, Inc.

C.S.M.C. Club Hears Foreign Students Talk On Their Homelands

Latin American customs, peoples, and progress of Catholicity was the topic of discussion at the April 10 C.S.M.C. meeting. Pat Tracey, chairman, conducted a panel including Emilie Clevenger and Joe Tierney.

Sophomore Marguerite Branday, a native of Jamaica introduced her country to the members of the C.S.M.C. at a recent meeting. As a new attraction to the Wednesday afternoon gatherings, foreign students are invited to present information concerning their homes. Acquainting students with news of other countries in this manner aids in stimulating mission activity on campus.

Although definite information has not yet been received, the Hungarian student is expected to arrive on campus before school recesses for summer vacation.

FRESHMEN Sue Leuvelink, Ra-faela Rodriguez, and Bernadette Smith sew 40 costumes for under-privileged children's play.

Players Receive 'Excellent' Rating

At the fifth annual one-act play festival held at Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame, Mar. 23-24, two Marian Players received Certificates of Merit for Excellent Acting in Wurzel-Flummery. They were Marguerite Branday for the part of Miss Viola Crawshaw and Larry Hammerstein for the part of Mr. Robert Crawshaw. Seven other plays from colleges and Catholic Guilds in Indiana were presented.

The purpose of the festival is to exchange ideas on all aspects of the theatre with other dramatists. They are given a chance to praise and constructively criticize each other.

Also in attendance were a number of students from our school.

Other Player news is the enrollment of three members into Senior ranks—Ann Ginther, Joyce French, Gerry Matheny. Requirement for this honor is the active participation in three dramatic events during the year.

Guinea Pigs, White Mice Cooperate With Menus Set by Frosh Biologists

by Marlene Sur

Students in the freshman biology class are conducting experiments in nutrition; test tubes have been set aside and now four guinea-pigs and two white mice are factual examples of the vital importance of diet to health and development.

Guinea-pigs by nature are fairly sharp about what's good for them. Coke only gets a disapproving sniff. They're strong vegetarians who won't look twice at a hamburger. About ten feedings a day are required to keep a guinea-pig content and quiet, and three times a week they are weighed to chart the changes brought on by the different diets.

One of the guinea-pigs is being fed only on cabbage to see if goiter will result, while the control pig is fed a regular diet of greens, milk and pellets. A third guinea-pig is given only sweets and is losing weight, but his fortunate control on a regular diet continues fat and fair.

A Vitamin A deficiency is being caused in one of the white mice by feeding it only bread and meat. The other gets milk and carrots in addition to the sandwich fare of his experimental brother. At the beginning of this project the first mouse weighed several grams more than the control mouse, but now the one given carrots and milk is steadily gaining. Within four weeks night blindness is expected to develop from this lack of Vitamin A in the one fed only bread and meat.

Home Ec Girls Host Association Convention

Phyllis Larson and Barbara Libs acted as hostesses for the Friday session of the Indiana Home Economics Association convention Mar. 29 and 30 at the Severin hotel. On Saturday, coeds from Butler, Indiana Central, and Marian modeled for a tour "around the world in fashions." The seven Marian models were: Marguerite Branday, Billie Burke, Anita Dreiling, Mary Milharci, Shelia Mears, Annette Richard, and Barbara Wernsing. Directing the fashion program was Miss Marilyn Ott, educational representative for Vogue Patterns.

World Affairs Club Hopes for Expansion

Since the World Affairs organization is the only school club in the social science department, it is of special value to students in that field.

Topics are those facing the United Nations. At the Apr. 2 meeting Israel and Ben Gurion were discussed.

At present, 15 members attend bi-weekly meetings in Clare hall, with Msgr. Doyle moderating. Tentative plans are to collaborate with other clubs in Indianapolis. Bernie Sheehan, president, welcomes anyone interested to the sessions.

Budding Writers Receiving Credit Through 'Fioretti'

Louise also won second honors for two short stories, "Jess Remembered" and "Symbols Are Real."

Freshman Joe Hertz and Peggy Delaney received equal recognition for their essays, "Children Should Not Play" and "Little Sister," respectively. Mention was also given to senior Carylou Siedling and to freshman Pril Allen for their poems, "How Like the Wind" and "Contemplation."

The winning entries will be published in the spring Fioretti.

This issue is under the editorship of Mary Byer. Assistant editors are: Joe Hertz, Mirian Gannon, Marguerite Branday, Philip Doherty, Judy Hirn, and Joan Peternel. Marianne Peternel is art editor.

Badminton Tourney, Swimming Highlight Women's Activities

by Mary Ellen Eversman
The Women's Swimming team opposed Indianapolis Athletic Center and Speedway teams in their first, fast flying meets of the season. More meets will follow as the girls once more get into the competitive swim of things.

In a tri-school swim, May 3, they will play Butler and Indiana Central.

Badminton and tennis are among the individual sports on hand now in gym for the warmer weather. April will play host to a badminton tournament, while the tennis phase will be climaxed with a tournament sometime in May.

Red Cross certificates are the aim of the swimming classes who under the ardent coaching of Mrs. Clarke are divided into beginner, intermediate, and swimmer groups. Not only are the girls making their tests, but they are also developing into first class swimmers.

Archery and softball will also share in the spring sport program with the resident students planning to go to bat in a round of softball in the near future.

The Women's Basketball team finished the season with a lot of promise. The girls, predominantly freshmen, were forced to bow to Normal College and Butler while gaining actual experience, but this experience showed up well as Marian defeated St. Vincent's 54-31. After losing a close battle to I. U. School of Nursing, the season was climaxed against St. Mary-of-the-Woods, a game which proved to be the best in technique and teamwork of the year.

Baseball season is here, but with a hindrance. April showers slow up training and cause games to be postponed, but Marian is doing its best to get into the shape and swing of this "king of the spring." Rose Poly is one team that has licked the situation. During the rainy season they practice in a large airplane hanger with a dirt floor. Some get all the luck.

Out of the nine scheduled games, four are being played at home on Park School's diamond. The rest will require a little traveling.

With a total of 12 men, we have assurance of reserves, who are important when a player is in a pinch and needs help.

Meet the varsity men.

Spring also brings softball into the scene. As in touch football and basketball there will be intramural softball. This game is a fast moving sport with plenty of action. It provides fun and entertainment for both the players and the spectators.

But ball is not the only sport on the agenda. Marian has entered the Ball State Water Polo league. The games are held on Sundays at the IU Med. Center.

The Letter Men's Club will present a one-act production "Refund" sometime in May. The prospective Varsity Lettermen can look forward for their initiation to be "executed" about May 1.

Fr. Frazee Guides Gospel Study Group

A new Catholic Action unit, the Gospel Discussion Group, has been organized on campus. The group meets every Monday evening at 6:45 p. m. in Clare hall to discuss the coming Sunday's Gospel in its historical, theological, and liturgical setting.

The aim of the Gospel Discussion Group is to determine the message which gospels hold for the individual and for society. Because of the time and place of the meeting it has thus far been confined to resident students; however, any interested student may join the group. Contact may be made with Father Frazee, Mary Byer, or Lois Hamburg.
