BACKGROUND

- Over 1.25 million people reside in nursing facilities in the United States1
- Nursing facilities have reported 268,707 confirmed cases of COVID-19 and 61,765 COVID-19 deaths as of the week of November 2, 20202
- Indiana was one of the first states to implement guidance to re-open nursing facility visitation, starting with outdoor visits in March of 2020

Without family visits or other outside social contacts, residents may become lonely, despondent, and have feelings of abandonment which may lead to depression, weight loss, and worsened behavioral symptoms of dementia3

These are additions to the ISDH guidelines added July 17th, 2020, which was after the survey was closed

METHODS

A survey created using REDCap was sent out electronically to a convenient sample of 39 Indiana nursing facilities on July 7th, 2020 and was closed on July 17th, 2020

Questions included start of visitation date, issues encountered with outdoor visitation, concerns about visitation, and implementation of written visitation policies were obtained via check boxed options

Concerns about indoor visitation were obtained through an open ended question

SURVEY RESULTS

- 15/39 of facilities responded
- 5 facilities provided written visitation policies
- · 4 facilities provided photos of visitation
- 14/15 reported start dates ranging from June 3- June 26
- The most frequently reported issues were:
- · Ensuring adequate staffing during visitation
- Visitors violating mask requirements and social distancing policies

WRITTEN VISITATION POLICIES

- All policies included:
- · 4-5 hours blocks of visitation time
- · Visit duration varying 15-25 minutes
- · Required family members to register for a visitation spot by calling the facility and one provided an online registration option
- Mostly heterogeneity in policies related to minor visitors
- 2/5 policies requested that visitors stay in cars while being screened for symptoms and signing in
- 2/5 policies made mention of prioritizing residents for visits, specifically those experiencing loneliness or psychosocial distress
- 1/5 policies requested visitors bring their own lawn chairs for visitation

CONCERNS ABOUT INDOOR VISITATION

- Visitors or residents not following masking or social distancing policy
- Decreased ability to social distance in smaller spaces
- Potential to run out of needed supplies
- Need for additional staff particularly for weekend/evening hours

DISCUSSION

- Early experiences and facility-level policies provide insight into some variation in operational practices regarding outdoor visitation
- We highlight some ongoing concerns of facility administrative and clinical leaders seeking to implement these new policies

Despite logistical challenges and concerns about increased exposure to the virus, strategies to promote visitation for residents in long term care facilities must remain an urgent priority.
